WILL TRACE UP HIS BROTHER'S RECORD

Thomas Moran, of the East Side, will establish the fact by evidence that Patrick Moran, who was buried at death at Duffin, Idaho, Sunday, August 27, was his brother. As yet Mr. Moran is not acquainted with the circumstances of Patrick Moran's life, but he thinks he can get the desired information by examining his naturalization papers, which he must have or he could not have been a miner. Thomas Moran will investigate the matter thoroughly. Everything indicates that the dead man is his brother. The age and name seem to establish this, but all the facts will have to be ascertained with certainty. If Thomas Moran, of Portland, is to inherit the property interests of the Idaho man, they separated about 50 years ago in old Ireland, when they were boys. Patrick came to America and Thomas went to sea, and finally came to the United States. They never wrote, and lost all trace of each other.

WORK ON MADISON BRIDGE

The floor of the Madison bridge is being torn up and relaid with new plank, preparatory to repaving with wood blocks. Two thirds of this preliminary work has been done. The old plank in places is so rotten that it will hardly hold together with its own weight. It will be several weeks before the repairs will be completed and the bridge reopened to the public.

Lord Renews Damage Suit.

Charles F. Lord appeared before Judge Frazer yesterday and made an effort to renege his $50,000 damage suit against Francis J. Heney, United States District Attorney, which the court recently knocked out by sustaining a demurrer to the complaint. The grounds of the demurrer were that a public officer was not liable to a suit for damages even if it was alleged that he acted against a person in a malicious manner. Mr. Lord yesterday filed an amended complaint, in which he reiterated his former charges that District Attorney Heney acted maliciously for attempting to impede justice, for the purposes of revenge. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Work Done by That Body Finds Appreciation in Portland.

Work done by the Portland Chamber of Commerce is meeting with general approval by the business interests of the city, as is shown by its growing membership. At a meeting held yesterday five new names were added to the enrollment. They are: J. C. Alsworth, Mutual Label & Lithograph Company, Portland Engraving Company, William E. Rothery, of the Caulkins Newspaper Syndicate, and Alexander McAvoy, George H. Williams, of Portland, and Alfred Holman, of Roseburg. They were elected to honorary membership. This is the first time that this body has received any one into honorary membership. The action was taken in Judge Williams' case, for Portland and the Northwest. Mr. Holman was received into membership because of special service rendered the Chamber of Commerce.

At the same meeting resolutions were passed expressing the confidence of the organization in the colonizing projects of the Co-operative Christian Federation. The resolutions will be of great help to Mr. Nash in interesting the people of Oregon in his proposition.

Action was also taken expressing the regret of the Chamber at the death of C. H. Prescott, formerly vice-president of the Northern Pacific.

COMBINATION OIL.

President of the Union Oil Company Denies the Report.

Lyman Stewart, president of the Union Oil Company of California, passed through Portland yesterday on his way to Los Angeles. When asked for a statement in reference to the report recently published in the papers to the effect that the Union Oil Company of California had entered into a combination with some of its competitors, he laughingly replied: "There is absolutely no truth whatever in the article which has recently and in times past appeared in the papers to the effect that our company has sold out or entered into any kind of a combination, and you can deny this in the most emphatic terms. I wish distinctly understood that we are always have been an independent producing, transporting and marketing company, and will continue as such notwithstanding any rumors that may be circulated to the contrary. This is our position, and always will be."

General Compton's Will.

The will of the late General Hartwell B. Compton, disposing of an estate valued at $500,000 was admitted to probate in the County Court yesterday. He bequeathed the gold medal of honor granted him by the United States to his daughter, Myrtle E. Long, wife of John W. Long, of Butte. The special medal for gallantry at the battle of Gettysburg and a picture of Gettysburg are devised to his young friend, Ernie Schmidt. A Century dictionary and encyclopaedia is given to J. B. Huntington, and a telescope captured from General Jubal Early, Confederate, and a knife used in cutting the rope at the time of the launching of the battleship Oregon to J. F. Ketchum. The rest of the estate is devised equally to Myrtle E. Long and Ernie Schmidt. H. H. Northrup is named as executor.

Death of Mrs. Stolte.

The many friends of Mrs. Charles Edward Stolte will be pained to learn of her death at St. Vincent's Hospital last night. Mrs. Stolte was born in Richmond, Ind., September 24, 1871, and was the only daughter of D. C. and Emma Bogart. She was married in Portland September 15, 1896, to Dr. Charles Edward Stolte, a dentist of this city.

HALF THE BATTLE

The most expensive element in business is time. What you do with your time determines what you will get out of it. This being the case it is best that you waste nothing that is so valuable in the selection of a Piano, but go straight to Soule Bros. Piano Co., 372-4 Morrison street, and purchase one of their high-grade instruments. You can make no mistake in selecting one of the numerous Pianos they handle, and will save at least one-third in price.

IS PARTY PEACE

Party peace, says Frank C. Baker, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, is the purpose of the call for a Republican reunion in Portland October 12, nor does he think the convention idea will have any voice in the love feast. This gathering is planned, he announces in a letter addressed to The Oregonian, simply for an "open door" to Republicans who favor party harmony, and "no attempt shall be made to nullify in any degree the letter or spirit of the direct-primary law."

Eclipse Steel Range

Made of triple walls, outer of heavy cold-rolled steel, middle of thick asbestos and inner of sheet steel, staying the asbestos in place; closely hand-riveted. The asbestos lining of the middle wall and about the oven is of such thickness in the different parts as to insure the greatest durability, the proper retention of the heat and the superior baking results for which the Eclipse is famous.

The Perfect "Eclipse" Oven

It Is Scientifically Built

Plan of the Scientific Oven

The "Eclipse" Oven is built on scientific principles—the principles underlying hot-air furnace and locomotive or steam engine construction. In the hot-air heating furnace one cubic inch of firebox capacity will heat one hundred cubic inches of hall space. That is, the ratio is 1 to 100. Radiators are installed upon this basis.

In locomotive construction the ratio of the firebox or heating capacity is about 1 to 8 of the surface to be heated. It is a simple fact, readily understood, that the larger the firebox in proportion to the oven, the less the time and quantity of fuel necessary to heat the oven.

Note the Difference—Other ranges on the market have a firebox and oven ratio of 1 to 7, which, especially after hot-water pipes are added, gives a fireplace too small to properly heat the oven. Hence, the complaints of "slow baking" our competitors have to listen to.

Now, the heating capacity of the firebox in the "Eclipse" Range is only 1 to 5.

And That's the Secret Of its great success as a baker. The firebox is built on the right proportion to the oven.

IT HEATS QUICKLY! IT HEATS THOROUGHLY! IT HEATS EVENLY!

It does not eat up $5.00 worth of fuel trying to do a dollar's worth of baking.

A—Duplex grate. A simple turn of the rod converts it into a wood or coal grate. B—Adjustable damper. May be entirely or partially closed, allowing of perfect control of the oven. C—Angle plate on bottom of oven, by means of which heat is thrown to the front and most remote corners. D—Bottom flue, through which heat escapes after encompassing the oven.

ARROWS indicate course of heat when damper B is closed. The Eclipse Oven is made of heavy, patent-leveled sheet steel, closely hand-riveted and bottom strongly braced with parallel plates. The oven door is of the drop style, nicely balanced by an oil-tempered coil steel spring located in a neat casing on the outside, where the heat cannot affect it and it may be easily adjusted. The thermometer indicates "Medium," "Hot" and "Very Hot."
