From Portland—C. L. Hathaway, at the Great Northern.

Wants First Husband's Name.

Johanna Boese yesterday filed a petition in the County Court asking permission to resume her former name, Duhkoop. She has had considerable trouble of a domestic nature, the last with Gerhard Boese, who served her work, and consequently she obtained a divorce from him several weeks ago, and does not desire to bear his name any longer. Her first husband was Charles Duhkoop, a former well-known and prosperous resident of Portland. She discovered that he had a former wife living when he married her, from whom he had not been divorced. He left a large fortune, and after his death she used to establish her rights and those of five children who she bore him and won the case. A daughter by Duhkoop's first wife was the contestant.

G. R. Funk Sued for Divorce.

George R. Funk, a deputy in the office of the County Assessor, has been sued for a divorce by his wife, Mary J. Funk, who sets forth in her complaint that he beat her with his fists and used vile language to her. They have four children, the oldest 14 years and the youngest 3 years of age. Mrs. Funk also alleges that her husband has borrowed on his property and she has caused the court to issue an injunction order restraining him from disposing of it altogether or molesting her in their home at Mount Tabor Annex. They were married in Whitman County, Wash., in 1889.

Concert at Massachusetts Building.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock Ellers Piano House will give the regular weekly recital at the Massachusetts building, assisted by Miss Kathleen Lawler, soprano and Mr. Seth Story, violinist. Miss Lawler will sing "Maiden Prayer" by Foster and "For All Eternity" by Macchero, with violin obbligato. All are cordially invited.

Ensign Blair, U. S. N., Weds Daughter of Oregon's Governor

PORTLAND and Oregon lost one of its most accomplished and charming daughters Monday, when Ensign George Frederick Blair, of the battleship Wyoming, wedded Miss Lucie Archer Chamberlain, the daughter of Governor and Mrs. Chamberlain, and took her to his Eastern home. Cupid, the god of love, trends hand in hand with Mars upon the decks of the Navy, and last year when the Wyoming was stationed at Portland for a time during the Summer, Ensign Blair met Miss Chamberlain. They became friends, and Ensign Blair's successful courtship followed.

The wedding, which was held at 3:30 o'clock on Monday evening, at the home of Governor and Mrs. Chamberlain, 63 Tillamook street, was the simple and impressive ring ceremony of the Presbyterian church. Rev. William S. Gilbert, pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian Church, officiated.

The bride was dressed in tulle and ivory over cream elysee, and carried a silk shower bouquet of sweet peas. She is a native of Oregon and has friends throughout the state. She was born in Albany and spent her childhood there, coming to Portland with her parents 11 years ago. She was a popular student of the Portland Academy.

SIMON BRAVES ARE DOUBTERS

Frank C. Baker's Peace Plans, They Say, Will Come to Naught.
OTHERS PROFESS HOPE

Republican Leaders of Mitchell-Fulton-Carey-Matthews Element, However, Are Ardent Advocates.

Republicans of every faith profess to hope that the peace conference called by Frank C. Baker, chairman of the State Central Committee, for October 12, will turn out successfully, but many are doubting Thomases, especially those who have been pitching their tents in the Simon camp. As a rule those who have trained with the Mitchell-Fulton-Carey-Matthews element are ardent advocates of the peace conference, and their ranks are swelled with some bravos of the Simon contingent. But big brethren who have allied themselves with the Simon cause in time past against Mitchell are outspoken in their belief that the love feast will come to naught so far as party harmony is concerned, among them being such as ex-Senator Joseph Simon himself; Donald Mackay, J. Thorburn Ross, Wallace McCamant, C. U. Gantenben and S. C. Spencer.

But the love feast is warmly commended by a number of foremost Republicans, who, though perhaps skeptical of peace, say the reunion can do no harm, and may do considerable good. Among those of this opinion are Whitney L. Boise, Dan J. Malarky, Sig. Sichel, A. J. Capron, J. D. Meyer, C. M. Idleman, T. J. Geer, George H. Williams, C. W. Hodson, C. H. Carey and Herbert Holman.

"The trouble with many harmony seekers," remarked a leading democrat, "is that while they are calling on their brethren to bury the hatchet, they are hiding big cleavers behind their own backs."

Good May Come From Conference.

One of the prominent Republicans who favored the meeting was Dan J. Malarky. "If no selfish personal ends are in view," he remarked, "and no jobs, I can't see that any harm will come of the 'reunion,' and it is possible that some harm may be done."

George H. Williams was not sure that any good would come of the reunion but could see no evil in store for it. "There is no evidence in it of corruption or misconduct," said he, "and such a gathering will be entirely consistent with good citizenship. When many persons are interested in any movement, be it one of politics or religion or business, there is no reason why they should not meet, and talk it over. In such cases results are achieved only by concert of action."

C. W. Hodson, State Senator, said the peace plan was laudable. "Something must be done," said he, "to unite the party if it is to elect a Republican Governor and other Republican officers for the state government next year. If Republicans won't vote for Republican nominees, those nominees won't be elected; that's sure."

Herbert Holman, State Senator, said that if Republicans were to win success, a start must be made toward harmony and that Frank C. Baker was the fittest man to take the initiative owing to his chairmanship of the State Central Committee.

Nottingham Says Nay.

But C. W. Nottingham, State Senator, was of the opposite opinion. Said he: "Peace would be a fine thing but it can't be reached by Frank C. Baker; somebody else will have to take the lead."

tion to invite all its allies and friends and to make a peace of its own sort. In his mind, the direct primary law contained the best peace germ. "If the direct primary law is a good thing," said he, "we ought to live up to it; if it is not, the people can repeal it." Of the same mind was C. J. Gantenben. Quoth he: "Let's have peace through the direct primary law."
