

The New Delineator for October Out So-Day

More than ever the Fashion Magazine of the world, The Delineator's October number marks the beginning of a decided change—or series of changes—in its Fashion News, in its illustrations, in its "make-up" and in its printing. It contains more pages devoted to Fashions and Dress Topics than any two other magazines.

Its Special Reports of New York and Paris Fashion News are the exclusive contributions of Helen Berkeley-Loyd and M. Edouard La Fontaine, the two recognized world-authorities on Styles.

Its fashion plates, beginning with this number, show no less than five distinctly different forms of illustration—the work of artists who have no equal anywhere in their respective methods of delineation.

One of the most noteworthy of innovations is the printing of sixteen of the fashion plates in two colors—in addition to the regular full-color plates.

Next month this color feature will be even more in evidence.

The Delineator has always given the most in quality and in quantity for its subscription price—it is now giving more—much more—than ever.

For example, 20 pages of Juvenile Fashions in this number with illustrations by Carl Kleinschmidt, Anna Burnham Westerman and others.

Besides the Fashions—and the Household Departments which have made The Delineator famous—some features among the many deserve special mention:

Of your newsdealer or any Butterick Agent, or direct from the publishers, The Butterick Publishing Company (Limited), Butterick Building, New York.

"Safe Foods and How to Get Them" is the series title under which The Delineator begins its campaign in the interest of Pure Food. This question is more widely agitated at present than ever before, and much that is sensational and untrue has been printed about adulterations in prepared foods, etc. The Delineator for more than a year has been conducting a far-reaching investigation of its own, at a very considerable expense, with the aid of the foremost authorities—and the result is this series of articles which every housewife and every parent will read and value for its practical help in the home. The present chapter treats of Milk—how to detect and guard against impurities, etc.

To every one who cares for a child's mental training, the article on "Education for Life Through Living" by Dr. William H. Maxwell, LL.D., Superintendent of Schools, New York City, will be worth many times the price of the magazine. It is profusely illustrated from life. Supt. Maxwell's great victory for modern methods in child-education is so recent and so widely known that anything on this subject from his pen is noteworthy. He has been so widely quoted and so generally misquoted, that these special articles, written for The Delineator, the first he has ever written on the subject for publication over his own signature, will attract the interest of every educator in the land—whether she be the mother in the home or the teacher in the school.

There are a dozen other reasons why you should buy the October Delineator—its own pages tell them best.

MUNICIPAL COURT CASES

Six Months in City Jail Awaits O. C. Stratte if He Goes Back to the Senate Saloon and Its Habitus.

J. D. Davidson, an ex-member of the Portland Police Department, arrested for speeding his automobile above eight miles an hour inside the city limits, made a bold attempt to "bluff" Patrolman Craddock into dropping the case, according to the statement of the officer made to Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald yesterday morning.

The attempt met with dismal failure, however, and so strong was the case against Davidson that he failed to appear in the Municipal Court yesterday to defend himself. His bail of $25 was forfeited, and the case was thus settled.

Davidson was arrested by Patrolman Craddock on Union avenue, and is said to have been making 20 miles an hour, actual time test by the arresting officer. A moment before, the same thing had occurred to another man.

Whitman demanded his change, and was angry because it was not forthcoming immediately, so he swore a little. Just to let off some of the exhaust pressure, then Policeman Grif Roberts was called.

"Move on," commanded Grif to Whitman, in a voice meant to inspire awe.

"Chase yourself around the Exposition site, if you please," loudly replied Whitman.

Policeman Roberts refused to do so, arrested Whitman and Judge Cameron fined the erratic Fair visitor $10 yesterday.

A Morton was fined $5 for allowing workmen in his employ to spill earth from wagons along Taylor street, from Seventh to West Park. Judge Cameron delivered a warning to the defendant, saying that a repetition of the offense would meet with stern punishment.

taken from his beat each time and that the city could not afford to bring policemen into court so many times, leaving large districts without protection. Judge Cameron then granted the continuance.

When Henry Hendrickson is drunk, Hugh Fitch is a bad man in his sight, but when sober, Hendrickson thinks Fitch is a fine fellow. It was while he was "tanked up" that Hendrickson went sunning for Fitch, and located him on a wharf, where Fitch is boss of langshoremen. Hendrickson appears to have been possessed of a grudge against Fitch, who, he thought, had given more work to others than to him.

In order to save future trouble, Judge Cameron held Hendrickson under $500 peace bonds, which it is improbable he can fulfill, and he may, therefore, have to stay in the City Jail.

Six months in the City Jail awaits O. C. Stratte if he ever goes back to the Senate saloon, where reside Minnie Anderson and May Smith. He was arrested by Patrolmen Seymour and Wendor on a charge of living with the women, and was found guilty by Judge Cameron. "I'm willing to give you a chance to mend your ways and live a more decent life, but I suspend sentence on the charge and if you ever go back to the Senate saloon or to live with any disorderly woman, there are six months in the City Jail waiting for you," said Judge Cameron.

"All right," said Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald, "if Your Honor can make a good citizen out of him, I am glad of it." "I'll keep away from bad places and gladly agree to serve six months if I fail to keep my promise," said Stratte.

When the lights went out and darkness was upon the face of the earth, it caught Louis Whitman at the ticket office at the entrance to the Lewis and Clark Exposition, short $5. He had passed over a $10 gold piece to George Hibbard, the ticket-seller, and had received in change 14.50. This, it was explained, was because Hibbard, being in the dark and also rushed, mistook the $10 piece for one of $5 denomination. A moment before, the same thing had occurred to another man.

Whitman demanded his change, and was angry because it was not forthcoming immediately, so he swore a little. Just to let off some of the exhaust pressure, then Policeman Grif Roberts was called.

"Move on," commanded Grif to Whitman, in a voice meant to inspire awe.

DELEGATES GO OUT

Langshoremen Leave Session of Federation of Labor.

WANTED TO BAR SAILORS

When Their Resolution Falls They Leave the Convention—All Officers Are Elected at the Evening Meeting.

The final session of the Oregon State Federation of Labor, which came to an end last evening, was marred during the morning by the bolting of the Langshoremen delegates, who became dissatisfied at the refusal of the Federation to adopt a resolution presented by them. The cause of the controversy was the following resolution, presented by Delegate John A. Maxson, of the Longshoremen's Union:

Would Bar Sailors.
Whereas, the Sailors' Union of the Pacific has inaugurated a war of extermination against all International Longshoremen and Marine Transport Workers' Association locals on the Pacific Coast, and by combining with their employers and the use of force and numbers compelled eight locals to surrender their charters and have threatened the Portland locals with destruction and the organization of a scab union, consisting of members of the Sailors of the Pacific to take the place of our members in this port unless we submit to their nefarious and underhand scheme to turn traitors to our parent organization and organized labor in general by affiliating with a scab federation organized by the Sailors' Union of the Pacific. Whereas, the right locals in Oregon refuse to entertain or comply with the demands of the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, but will retain their affiliation with the I. L. M. & T. A., and through them the American Federation of Labor to render all possible assistance to the I. L. M. & T. A. locals, to the end that the integrity of legitimate longshore unions may be retained and upheld. Be it resolved, That the Sailors' Union of the Pacific is hereby refused membership in the State Federation of Labor, unless they at once renounce their present policy of union-busting and conduct themselves as union men.

Decides It Has No Jurisdiction.
The State Federation decided that it had no jurisdiction in the matter and refused to adopt the resolution. The dispute between the longshoremen and the sailors is one of long standing and the matter has occupied the attention of the American Federation of Labor for some time, and as yet they have been unable to reach any definite decision as to the merits of the claims of the disputing factions.

At the evening session, by unanimous consent of the delegates present, a resolution was adopted requesting the supreme body of the American Federation of Labor to come to an immediate decision on this controversy. The annual election of officers, which concluded the session, resulted in the reelection of Charles H. Gram as president, and H. G. Kundert as secretary-treasurer. The other officers chosen were: Vice-presidents, H. G. Farsons, of Portland; J. Laurensen, of Astoria; F. Carlyle, of Pendleton; Mrs. F. Ross, of Portland; and E. Y. Whims, of Salem; legislative

Sacred Black Cat's Delegates Are Arriving.

HUNDREDS ARE DUE TODAY

Members High in the Order Will Be Initiated into the Mysteries of the Osirian Cloister This Afternoon.

In the past the black cat has stood sometimes a portent of good, sometimes of evil, but there is no doubt that the sacred black cat of the order of Hoo Hoo is a good omen for Portland and the Northwest, as brought here by the 200 members of that organization, who arrived last night, and hundreds more who will arrive today. There will be at least 1500 Hoo Hoo in Portland during the next six days to represent their order at the fourteenth annual convention. They represent the lumber interests of the United States, and they come from all parts of the country to see Portland and the Fair, attend the sessions of the convention and incidentally to see for themselves the great forests of Oregon and Washington, from which is to come so small portion of the world's lumber supply. The presence of these men means much to the Northwest, and the City of Portland today will give a cordial greeting to the order of Hoo Hoo.

Half of Delegation Arrives.
Only about half the members of the Chicago-St. Louis excursion reached Portland last night. The remainder of the party stayed in the Puget Sound cities, and will arrive this morning. Among those who came last night were: C. D. Bourke, of Urbana, Ill., snark of the universe; J. H. Baird, of Nashville, Tenn., scrivener; and two members of the house of ancients, B. A. Johnson, of Chicago, and W. E. Burns, of St. Louis. Those, with A. H. Foster, of Portland, Jabberwock, will be the only officers and members of the house of ancients who will attend the convention, as far as is known at present. Several trains from the north will arrive this morning, and a special train from the south, bringing the San Francisco and Los Angeles delegations. The Washington delegates will reach Portland at 6:30 o'clock this evening, bringing with them the famous black cat, which will be drawn through the streets from the depot by a team of donkeys.

Today's sessions are open only to members of the Osirian cloister, the highest circle of Hoo Hoo. The annual business meeting will be held in the Elks' hall this morning at 9:30, and at 3:30 P. M. the initiatory exercises of the cloister will be held in the same place. At 5 o'clock the banquet to which all Hoo Hoo have been invited will take place at the American Inn.

Join Osirian Cloister.
The class to join this afternoon is not large, as the requirements for admission are very strict. Only those who are received into the Osirian cloister who have been members of the order for two years, and the candidate must have served as vice-governor, or must be recommended by someone within the cloister, each member being allowed to suggest only one name. Nelson A. Gladding, chief priest of the cloister, is here, and will preside at today's meetings.

The class to join this afternoon is not large, as the requirements for admission are very strict. Only those who are received into the Osirian cloister who have been

The preparations for receiving the large delegations which will arrive today have been completed. The Ladies' Auxiliary held a final meeting yesterday afternoon and appointed subordinate committees to take charge of the details of the convention. Everything has been done to give the visitors a most cordial reception and supply them with every convenience. Bulletin boards giving the detailed programme each day will be posted in the Portland, Oregon, Imperial and Pacific Hotels, the American Inn and the Hoo Hoo headquarters, in the Canterbury building, Third and Washington streets.

All Hoo Hoo ladies eligible to attend the banquet and reception given at the American Inn on Saturday evening are requested to register at their headquarters in Hotel Portland before noon on Saturday.

TAKEN INTO PARTNERSHIP

Police Believe Bolter Became Part Owner of Tuxedo to Hold License.

Sam Bolter has been taken into the Tuxedo saloon as a partner, and it is the belief of the police and Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald that McGillin & Johnson have permitted this in a last desperate effort to retain the license, which is now threatened with being revoked, owing to the disrepute of the establishment. Bolter, McGillin and a man complained against as "John Doe," were arrested yesterday, charged with assault and battery upon Dan Connors, formerly a special policeman. He declares that they suspected him of "tipping" the police and was seized in violation of the 1 o'clock closing ordinance, thus bringing his saloon into ill-repute, and threatening to cause the revocation of the license.

Connors, in his complaint, filed yesterday morning in the Municipal Court, states that he entered the Tuxedo saloon on business late Tuesday night, when Bolter, McGillin and "John Doe" began cursing him. He resented their words, and was attacked, he declares. The wordy war led to a fight, in which Connors alleges the trio hurled bottles and glasses at him, and that, as he ran from the saloon for protection, he was struck on the back of the head and severely injured. Connors declares he never had anything to do with notifying the police of violations of the proprietors of the Tuxedo, although he was a special policeman. The establishment is not located on what was his beat. For some time the liquor license committee of the City Council has had in mind the revocation of the license of the Tuxedo, the proprietors of which have repeatedly been found guilty in the Municipal Court of violations of the closing ordinance, and even now McGillin is held to the grand jury on various charges. A week ago he was fined $50 by Judge Cameron for keeping his saloon open after hours. The officials believe that the new partner, taken into the business by McGillin & Johnson, is a ruse to retain the license of the saloon, should the committee decide upon final action. At such time, the police believe, McGillin & Johnson would attempt to show that they had withdrawn from the business, and that Bolter was in sole charge.

Baron Komura Returning Home.

A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad, yesterday afternoon received notification from St. Paul that Baron Komura and party have engaged accommodations on the Steamship Dakota, to sail from Seattle September 20, and that the Japanese peace envoys and associates will travel to the Coast by special car from St. Paul. They will probably be accompanied by high officials of the Hill lines, possibly by President James J. Hill in person, although this information was not contained in the dispatch.

Mr. Charlton's advice denotes that they will arrive in Seattle several days before the date of sailing of the Dakota, and he is of the opinion that the distinguished representatives of the Mikado may be induced to visit the Exposition.
