And the editors hit the Trail. And they hit it right, too, traveling from one end to the other, taking in all the sights and enjoying themselves as rarely ever before. The members of the Oregon and Washington Press Associations visited the mment street of the Lewis and Clark Exposition in a body yesterday. They were the guests of the concessionaires of the Exposition, who proved to be most royal and gracious h sts, glying the editors the very best of the amusement treasures and pleasures to be found on party, the journalists being accompanied by their wives and children. It was a merry bunch that started down the Trail at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, under the guidance of President J. A. Gorman, of the Trail Association, and George L. Hutchin, They had been promised a whole afternoon of fun and the richest entertainment by the concessionnires, who are deeply grateful for the great amount of telling exploitation they have received at the hands of the me who control the policies of nearly every newspaper in Oregon and Washington. Their senses of anticipation were keen and on the alert, as they expected something out of the ordinary.

Editors are generally supposed to be of a serious disposition, but yesterday after-noon they were more like a lot of schoolboys fresh from college who were celebrating the beginning of their vacation. All their cares and worries were forgotten, and they did not even stop to think how their "sheets" were getting along during their absence. In fact, they were too busy delving into the riches of the Trail to think of anything that pertained

From 1 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon did the editors and their fam-ilies hit the Trail. Straight from one attraction to another did they march, fre-quently stopping in front of a show to hear a spieler spiel for their especial benefit. Whenever the editors were visible upon the broad street which runs down the center of the Trail, the bands played as loudly as possible, and the barkers yelled until they were hourse. The unusual activity of the barkers and the spielers was not necessary, as everything was free to the newspapermen, but they were doing their best to make them have a good time. When the party finally concluded their visit to the Trail, they were all tired and wearied, but nevertheless enthusiastic over their reception. They have only the most pleasant memories for the Trail and the concessionaires.

Guests of Suffrage Association.

Late yesterday afternoon after seeing the Trail, many of the newspapermen adjourned to the Oregon building, where they were the guests of the ladies of the Equal Suffrage Association. Here they were served refreshments and most hos-pitably received by the hostesses. Roses by the dozens were presented to them by the Rose Society, and fruit distributed among them until they could eat no more. When they had finally finished the day at the Exposition, they passed out of the thinking to themselves, no doubt, after all, it was pretty good to be gates, thinking to the Egg claret punch was served, and also sandwiches. An orchestra under the lead-ership of Sam Driscoll discoursed delightful music, and the crowd promenaded and exchanged happy greeting, and in groups and in pairs indulged in enlivening conversation. Some played billiards, while others contented themselves in the easy chairs and on the couches, watching others circle to and fro. Introductions were general, and the Portland business men and the men of the press were soon upon the most congental terms. The punch flowed freely, and there were soft drinks for the cold-water advocates. The recop-tion was strictly informal, and there were no speeches-just a general old-fashioned good time.

Jefferson T. Myers, president of the Oregon State Commission of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, extended an invitation to the members of the Oregon and Washington Press Associations to meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Oregon building, on the Fair grounds, where a re-ception will be held and refreshments

Joe Meek Day at the Fair.

HILLEBORO, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—A committee met in this city last night and selected Friday, September 29, as Colonel Jos Meek day at the Lewis and Clark Bart. Laws and Clark Fair. Joe Meek came to the Wiljametts Valley in 1946, after being in the Rockies for 12 years, part of the time being spent with Kit Carson. Colonel Joe Meek's remains are buried four miles north of this city, and he was a well-known figure in county affairs. Wash-ington County will probably send more people to the Fair on Joe Meek day than to any other feature of the Exposition.

Closes Night of October 14.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Lewis and Clark Exposition yesterday afternoon, it was decided to close the Fair on the night of October 14. There will be a post-Exposition period, after the Fair is officially closed, and the people will be admitted for 10 or 25 cents. The protests against the system of awarding the prizes and medals to the exhibitors. the prizes and medals to the exhibitors, which consists of furnishing three sam-ples to the Division of Exhibits, were considered, but the matter was not settled.

SEEKS TO BUY THE FORESTRY

Coney Island Wants Building as an Attraction for That Resort.

SYNDICATE MAKES OFFER

George C. Lynch, the Representative, Says He Would Be Willing to Expend $200,000 to Remove the Structure.

If an Eastern syndicate had its way, in a few months the Forestry building. the pride of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, would repose on the banks of the Atlantic Ocean, where it would be on: of the star features of that famous amusement report, Coney Island. An Eastern syndicate has offered to purchase the building and remove it to New York in its entirety. However, the enterprising capitalists are doomed to disappointment, as steps have already been taken by the Oregon State Commission to make the Forestry building permanent,

George C. Lynch, representing an Eastern syndicate, was at the Exposition yesterday morning trying to purchase the Forestry building, the sale not to take effect until after the close of the Fair. He stated to several different officials that if he could buy the Porestry building he would have it taken apart and moved to Coney Island, New York, where it would be used for amusement purposes.

Would Dismantle Building.

He stated that several architects and contractors had compiled an estimate on the cost of dismantling the building to take it to New York. He proposes to load on a steamer and in this way transport to Coney Island, going by the way of He was greatly surprised when informed it was very improbable the building would be sold, as he thought all of the structures would be torn down after the Exposition Lynch said the syndicate he represented was willing to expend $200,000 in purchasing and moving the Forestry building to New York. With such a unique structure of that kind in New York, he said it would be worth a million dollars to him and his associates.

Discusses Matter With Dosch.

He discussed the matter very thoroughly with Henry E. Dosch, director of exhibits. Colonel Dosch suggested that he have logs transported from Oregon to New York, and a similar structure erected there, inasmuch as the removal of the Forestry building was out of the ques-tion. Mr. Lynch said he wanted the original and not an imitation. He said the fame of the Forestry building had spread from one end of the country to the other. and that its being from the Lewis and Clark Exposition would add to its value as an amusement feature at Coney Island. He did not state how large a sum he war willing to give for the log atructure, but intimated it would be very

The ascension was made at II o'clock. The airship was heavily ballasted, and when released rose into the air very slowly. It ascended to a height of about 100 feet, and then Beechey headed the airship in a northerly direction. He crossed over Guild's Lake and up over the Gov-ernment building, flying only a short distance beyond. He then turned the airship around and passed between the spires of the Government building, with the rope attached to the framework drag-ging on the roof. He then passed along the Bridge of All Nations and through the Trail, the air-ship not more than 50 feet in the air-Beechey was so low that he could dis-tinctly hear the cheers of the thousands tinctly hear the cheers of the thousands of spectators. He continued his course in a southerly direction until he was in the vicinity of the Administration building. He then proceeded to demonstrate the dirigibility of the airship. He turned it around almost innumerable times, headed it in many different directions, and raised and lowered it at will. He was so low at times that the spectators could easily have reached up and grabbed the rope which hung down from it. From over the Administration building Beechey returned to the aeronautic landing, within five feet of the place from whence he started. Not once while in the air was Beechey more than 200 feet above the ground.

Golden State Plans Monster Celebration at the Big Centennial.

ADMISSION DAY TODAY

Anniversary of the State's Admission to the Union Will Be Gloriously Observed by Native Sons and Daughters.

ADMISSIONS, 20,851. admissions to the Fair yesterday were 20,851.

Whatever of the Lewis and Clark Exposition the people of California will not own today will not be worth the having. What with the crowds that will come for the Hoo Hoo celebration, and the Manufacturers' Carnival, the attendance for the day, swelled with the California conitngent, will undoubtedly make one of the big days of the Fair. What makes this day of more significance to the Californians is the fact that today marks the 55th anniversary of the admission of California to the Union— "Admission day," as it is called and celebrated in California.

State's Day at the Fair.

The entire State of California has been wrought to a fever pitch because of the state's day at the Exposition, and for the past few days a steady stream has been oming north to Portland and the Exposi-Fourteenth Concatenation to tion. It is estimated that more than 3000 native sons and daughters will make merry today at the Fair.
