Soldiers Have a Day of Sport at the Fair.

SOME INTERESTING EVENTS

Cartridge Race Proves an Innova tion to Civilians and Is Eagerly Watched by Large Crowd at the Stadium,

The first day of the soldiers' field and track meet at the Lewis and Clark Exposition was attended by a fairly large crowd, although most of the spectators were army officers and their friends. were army officers and the soldier The meet was a success, and the soldier boys were heartily applicated at each mer-storious feat on the track and field. Dur-ing the afternoon the Fourteenth In-fantry Band and De Caprio's Administra-Band took turns at rendering several musical numbers.

The feature event of the day was the rtridge race, which is distinctly an army sport, and was a novelty to the civilians who witnessed the event. Each competitor is assigned to a lane on a straight-away course, and slong each lane at intervals of ten yards are strewn ank cartridges, which each competitor required to pick up as in the old-time otato race, and return with the same to potato race, and return with the same to the starting point and deposit the shell in the broech of his gun, and after se-curing each one in succession the first man who completes the route and fires a shot from his rifle is declared the win-ner. The finals in this interesting event as well as in the other races undecided yesterday will take place at the stadium this morning at $ o'clock.

Another interesting event was the three-legged race, the second heat of which was won by Corporal Lewis and Private Christensen, of the Thirty-third company Coast Artillery, which pair claims to have the record for this particular branch of eards, in a recent army competition on ards, in a recent army competition on board track in 122-5 seconds. They made the distance yesterday in something over 14 seconds, but were handleaped by one of the straps breaking just after they started. Private Hughes of the Coast Artillery won the mile-run in good time, for he best five minutes by the fraction ond, and was not distressed at

Aside from the finals in teday's events at the stadium, the programme contains some very interesting contests which will take place in the afternoon near the Govnt building inside the Fair grounds. nese sports consist of an obstacle race, saddle race, litter-bearing race and a shelter tent pitching contest. A wall-scaling competition was originally on the programme, but owing to the lack of fa-and Clarke. cilities the event has been cancelled unwith the Fourteenth Infantry

Portland Consolidated Will Build at Once.

NEW LINE TO THE RIVER

Structure Will Be Twelve Thousand Feet Long to Terminal and Ferry at Shaw's Island on the Columbia.

Bids are being received for con structing a trestle for the tracks of the Portland Consolidated Raliway Company across the Columbia Slough bottom to the Columbia River. This treatle will be 12,900 feet long, and will be built across Shaw's Island, about half a mile west of the present landing Vancouver ferry, to a point on the Columbia Slough road. It will take the place of the present trestle which has carried the tracks from near the line was first constructed. This new track will throw the line from Union avenue westward from Woodlawn through the Love tract to a con-nection with the new trestle. At the Columbia River the new railroad ter-minus and landing will thus be west of the present one, which of late years has caused much trouble by filling Slough bottom will be left half a mile east of the new trestle, and as the Portland Consolidated Railway Company owns and operates the ferry to Vancouver, this proposed change will hang up the county road at the Columbia River without a ferry or even a ferry landing. It will not apy to operate a county ferry and a railroad ferry, and the county hence will have to do one of two things. Either ust build a road west, along the Columbia River, to connect with the railroad ferry, or build a new elevated road across the Columbia Slough alongside the railroad treatle in order to reach the ratiroad ferry.

Farmers Want Road Built.

The farmers want the county to build an elevated roadway alongside the proposed railroad trestie and abandon the present elevated rondway. The county will have to take action promptly, as the railroad company will undoubtedly change its present ferry to the new landing connecting with second ferry will have to be operated across the Columbia River to Vancouver and the present landing maintained at heavy expense. However, this is considered impracticable for the reason that the landing can now owing to the shoaling of the river at Butteries-Hughes, Gibson, Criger and this point. Besides it is considered doubtful about a second ferry paying. It is though the county can make arrangements with the railroad company to build its elevated roadway and use the same ferry-landing together.

"There is another thing, the importance of which residents of Oregon, Washing-ton and Idaho probably do not fully appreciate. That is the value of the wild game and fish that is found in such abun-dance throughout the three states. Here are located probably the largest and best natural game preserves in the world, outside of Africa. The Maine woods, the mecca of the big Eastern cities, have nothing to compare with them, and cer-tainly there is nothing else in the United States so accessible as some of these Northwest districts or that approach them in the variety and abundance of

"THE OAKS"

When the Red Man wandered gaily 'Mid the beauties of the West. When he fished and hunted daily With nobody to molest. Once he paddled up the river With his sturdy measured strokes, Till he saw the sunbeams quiver Through a grove of stately oaks,

And the spot his fancy captured As he pushed his boat ashore, And he said with soul enraptured "I shall dwell here evermore." So without more hesitation He returned with "all his folks." And they made their habitation In the shadow of "The Oaks."

Long ago the Red Man faded From his first home away But that beauty spot is shaded By the same old trees today; When a little timely action And a few artistic strokes Have produced that great attraction Now so famous as "The Oaks."

For a little recreation Or a day of quiet rest, This spot of all creation Is the very, very best. Some resorts are overrated And are made the butt of jokes; But the man was ne'er created Who would not enjoy "The Oaks."
