ENEMY OF HOP LICE.

Efficacious Remedy Believed to Be Found I Insect Introduced in Sonoma

Horticultural Inspector E. K. Carnes has fields of Sonoma and other hop-producing with an insect which he believes is ce, says the California Fruit Grower. The insect is a variety of hopodamia ambigua, one of the ladybirds, and was obtained by Carnes from the San Jacinto Mountains. The little insect seems to be always bungry and feeds voraciously on the hop lice. Mr. Carnes says that it is making itself at ome in the hoppards and has already commenced the work of cleaning the pards.

The introduction of an insect which will value to the hopgrowers of California. ome years hop lice have been getting very had and the are pow the rause of much loss to the growers. California is not as hadly off in this respect as is Oceann, where many of the hoppards are simply over-run by the pest. It is greatly to be hoped that the new beneficial insect will do all that is claimed for it.

MONEY STRINGENCY

Pronounced Effect of News of Importation Upon Speculative Sentiment at New York. Stocks in Demand.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.-The response of stocks to the engagement of gold for import was teelimony to the importance attached to the question of relief from a possibile strin-gency of money. The advance was decisive. dlowing promptly upon the announcement The fear was gaining ground in stockmarket circles that insuperable obstacles would be opposed to the relinquishment of gold held as banking reserves in the great foreign money enters. The obvious intention of the Russian government to finat a large toan, the possibility of additional borrowings by Japan and the announcement of a targe number of smaller financial underzakings which had evidently been delayed until the coming of peace, pointed to the possibility that these claims for credits would have priority over others.

The course of our own money market for the last few weeks has made it evident tha inking reserves to an extent that would cause great tension in the money market and possible disaster to overextended speculation. It is now determined that the outward codese of our commodities has established a sufficient clume of credits abruad so that the domesti markets have a resort for relief in case of urgent necessity.

The effect upon speculative sentiment was

The effect upon speculative sentiment was pronounced. The gold seems to have been secured upon its arrival from South Africa, in London, after active competition, and the present supply available for import asems limited. The outgo of currency from New York in other directions also continues very large.
