At the close of the business session the fourteenth annual concatenation of the order of Hoo Hoo, which resulted in the election of the supreme nine and the choosing of the meeting place for next year, the Black Cats adjourned in order to take up the pleasure programme ar-ranged for last evening and today.

ranged for last evening and today.

The election of afficers resulted in the selection of Robert D. Inman of Portland as Smark of the Universe, the supreme head of the order of the Hoo Hoo. The election of Mr. Inman was practically agreed upon last Saturday and is the result of the earnest work of the local body of the organization, ably seconded by the delegates from California, Washington and other Western states, who were united in promoting the candidacy of the local man, and in yiew of the dacy of the local man, and in view of the stand taken by the Pacific Coast, the Eastern delegates graciously submitted to their Western brothers and formed a compromise whereby their candidate for the snarkship, A. C. Ramsey, of St. Louis, was chosen Senior Hoo Hoo. The selection of Inman as the head of this large erganization is quite a feather in the caps of the local members of the order, who have been working with this end in view for several months and the successful culmination of their efforts is exceedingly gratifying to the people of Portland and the Pacific Coast in general, for this section of the country, which produces such a great output of the industry which the order represents, has amply carned the distinction of being represented at the head of this rapidly growing organiza-

Stringer Roggess, of Clarksburg, W. Va., Arcanoper of the order, was elevated to rank of Jaberwock. Farley Price, of Little Rock, Ark., was elected Custocatian. Donald Ferguson, of Canada, is the newly elected Arcanoper, and H. Clay Evans, of Washington, was chosen as Gurden which of ington, was chosen as Gurden, which of-fice completed the supreme time. The selection of the convention city of next year was then taken up, and Okla-homa City, Chicago and Baltimore were placed in nomination. A. H. Weir, of Nebraska, objected to the choice of any other place than Okinhoma City, on account of the virtual promise of the order at the last session, when that place with-drew in favor of Portland with the understanding that it was to be selected for the next convention. Serivenoter J. If Baird then took the floor and eloquently seconded Mr. Weir's objection, at the conclusion of which the other two cities withdrew and Oklahoma City was chosen manimously as the meeting place for 1966. The convention then joined in sev-eral repetitions of their cry: "1-2-3-5-5-2-8-5! By the tail of the great black cat! Black cat! How Hoo."

Last evening the visiting Hoo Hoo were taken on an excursion up the Columbia, which was originally planned as a moonlight trip, but owing to the cloudy weather the moon was not in evidence, nevertheless the excursion was a great success and hearthy enjoyed by all who participated therein. A musical programme was rendered on the bont, and on the return vacas and the bont, and on the return vacas are success. and on the return voyage refreshments

The admissions to the Fair yesterday were reported ha 14,051. Heavy, leaden clouds and a dull, fects on Spokane day at the Lewis and people. Spokane decorations, and Spokane greetings were everywhere in evidence from the time the gates opened until they closed. Few city lays have been noted by such enthustartic and whole-souled participation.

That it was Spokune day one did not need to enter the Exposition to learn. The great city of the Inland Empire was not content to take possession of the interior and a decorative design of elaborate proportions extend-ed along the outside of the entire encance area. This design was made up of long flagpoles, banners, streamers, flags and fir arranged the form of an entrance arch. Two great white streamers with the word "Spokane" in great red letters hung from the center of the design.

Spokane Ribbons Everywhere.

Once inside the grounds, it seemed everyone was wearing the Spokane badge, a neat blue ribbon with the name of the city done in gilt. A large number of those wearing these badges were really from that city. Two large excursion trains brought 200 or more and there were at least 200 more who came in smaller parties. came in smaller parties. In the afternoon exercises were held the Washington building and few functions have been so largely attended. The reception balcony was filled to overflow and a large number heard the exercises from the main exhibit halls below. E. F. Carter Van Dessel, vice-president of the Spokane Chateber of Commerce, was chairman of the day. He introduced President H. W. Goode, of the Exposition, as the first apealcer. President Goode welcomed Spokane to the Exposition and comspokane to the Exposition and complimented the city highly on the large showing. Washington and Spokane, he said, had contributed much to the success of the Exposition, and the hearty demonstration on this occasion hearty demonstration on this occasion bespoke a city which was friendly in its attitude towards its neighbors and the little of citizen. which possessed the kind of citizen- afternoon of the week.

Mayor Daggett's Speech

"Spokane pledges you its heartiest support in this great Exposition," Mayor Daggett said in concluding his speech. The words were spoken in a low voice and in tones which carried with them the impression that words alone could not convey the depth of meaning the speaker intended. He said much in praise of his own city—the boundless resources and resultitle. its boundless resources and possibilities, its energetic, enterprising and loyal people, and it was not hard to believe all he said in praise after viewing Spokane's manner of efficially attending the Portland Exposition.

W. D. Wheelwright, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, was the next speaker. His address was partly in a lighter vein, but was marked by eloquence and much deep thought, which brought the speaker a hearty reception. "Were it not for the people of Washington and her cities and their sincere, carnest and energetic efforts in our behalf, this Exposition could hardly have been the great SUCCESS II IS.

Pays Tribute to Spokane.

Judge Cullen, of Spokane, was the final speaker. "It's a great city," he said, in speaking of Spokane. "It's a wonderful city, and it is destined for even greater things. I recall now a little incident that makes me Chink pokane. There were a couple of coming to Portland on the train of Spokane, the other day, and as they neared the city one of them asked the other if he was geing to stop and "see Tacoma grow," quoting that city's famous catchword. The other remarked that he might have to wait there too long for that; whereupon an elderly lady who had been listening broke in to say indignantly that he wouldn't have to stop at all to 'see Tacoma grow.

Many visitors to the Gallery of Fine Arts at the Exposition have been struck with two very significant pictures exhibited there, the one called "Pitiless Winter" and the other "The Close of the Day." It is a source of considerable pride to know that they are the work of Julius Joseph, a Portland young man still in his early twenties, who now has a studio in New York City. The board of directors as now standing is composed of Leo Friede, E. E. Lytle, W. H. Copeland, W. H. Moore and W. Cooper Morris,

The entrance of Mr. Lytle into the banking business is of interest to the public owing to the surmises which have been made since his retirement from the general management of the Columbia Southern. He was a former associate with the Moores in that road and the friendship and confidence spired by that association have induced him to become associated with his for-mer partners in the bank. It is not thought, however, that Mr. Lytle will take any very active part in the work of the bank, for some time at least, as he has other interests demanding his immediate and personal attention, presmably in the railroad development of the state.
