The occasion was F. X. There were several hundred ploneers yesterday at the Exposition, most of whom have achieved prominence in the upbullding and development of Oregon, in which they have played such an important and almost invaluable part. The whole of the Excosition did honor to the ploneers yesterday, as without them Oregon would not be sufficiently advanced to have a World's

In Honor of F. X. Matthieu.

F. X. Matthieu was naturally the center of interest, as without him who knows but that there would be no proud State of Oregon, but instead a province over which would wave the British flag. F. X. Matthieu is one of the E men who voted for the establishment of a Pro-visional Government. If any one of these 53 patriots had wavered, the cause would have been lost, as there were 50 men in

The exercises of the day were held in the Auditorium at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The lower floor of the building was nearly filled with people, most of whom were pioneers. There were both men and women ploneers present. Some were old and feeble, and could hardly walk unattended, while others, although they showed signs of age, were apparently in the very prime of life. F. X. Matthleu was seated in a chair, beautifully decorated with flowers and wreaths of evengreens and Oregon grape, which was tanding in the center of the platform. Mr. Matthieu is nearly 88 years of age, but is still hale and hearty, and appeared to be in the very best of health. Back of him were seated many of the most prominent men of Oregon, all of whom are proud to be called pioneers. On either slue of Mr. Matthieu were pictures of Colonel Joe Meek and Dr. John McLough-

Without them the Lewis and Clark expedition would never have been accomplished. Without them you, Mr. Matthleu, and Joe Meek and your confreres would not have saved this Northwest territory to the United States, and made possible this Exposition. which we are now enjoying. It was not money that stimulated these people and your good self, Mr. Matthieu, to push on and on, until success was achieved, but pure, unselfish enthusiasm and hard

Governor Chamberlain was unable to attend, having been unavoidably detained at Salem, but he was ably represented by J. H. Alberts, who made a very excellent address of welcome on behalf of the State of Oregon. He was followed by ex-Governor T. T. Geer, who delivered the ora-tion of the day. of Mr. Matthieu, who was born in Mon-treal, Canada, of French parents. At the age of 12 he began clerking in a dry goods store, at which occupation he continued until 1837, when the rebellion against Eng-land on the part of the disaffected French Canadians engaged his favorable attention to such a marked extent that he was compelled to leave the country after its suppression and to seek safety in the Young Matthieu drifted about different parts of the Middle West, during which he had experience as trader with the Indians finally coming to Oregon in 1842. His party arrived at Oregon City on September 25. In describing the memorable event at Champoeg, ex-Governor Geer said, in part: "During the year Mr. Matthieu was engaged in transporting supplies from Van-couver to Champoeg, there was no place along the entire waterfront of Portland's present location where a landing could be made, so dense was the growth of tangled brush and trees which overhung the banks, and unless a landing was made where those Exposition grounds now are, the journey must be continued until a point above was reached, where a small stream put into the river and formed a gravel bar upon which it was possible to make a camp.

Need of Government.

"And there was then no government in all this land, but the need of some legal-ized authority soon became manifest to the scattering American settlers and mis-sionaries, and the death of Ewing Young. a resident of the Nehalem Valley in Yam-hill County, who left a snug property but no heirs, confronted the settlers with the fact that there was no Probate Court and no authority anywhere to take charge of "This fact, coupled with the general feeling of insecurity as a result of the anomalous situation, gave rise to a series of informal meetings of the inhabitants of the Willamette Valley, as the different calls were worded, until the contest be-

A Simple Proposition.

"Although fraught with far-reaching consequences to the entire Oregon Country, it was a simple proposition, a mere question of a preponderance of votes, a condition that has frequently confronted candidates for office in the political contests that the succeeding years have seen come and go. There were 102 men present. and the first vote seemed to be in favor of those who were opposed to an organ igation, as the ayes and noes rang out over the waters of the nearby Willamette and echoed through the adjoining forest, but before the decision was given, the stalwart figure of Joe Meek, who had come over from the Tualitan Plains, emerged from the crowd, and in the well-known voice of that intrepid mountaineer, shouted to those who favored an organ-Biography of Matthieu. ization to follow him. Immediately the friends of that movement took their places by his side, and they numbered precisely 52 men, leaving but 60 standing

FIGHT ON GUILD'S LAKE

Engagement Off Santiago de Cuba Will Be Reproduced in a Most Realistic Manner at the Fair.

Another realistic naval battle is to be shown on Guild's Lake at the Exposition this evening. It will be a reproduction of the great sea fight off Santiago de Cuba in the Summer of 1898, when the American warships destroyed the fleet of Admiral Cervera and terminated the Spanish-American War. Eight warships will par-ticipate in the battle, and Morro Castle will aid the Spanish ships in their great struggle. The "battle of Santiago" will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock this evening. The Spanish ships will steam out of the harbor past Morro Castle, and the Americans will open fire. The battle will be hot and flerce, with eight warships and the fort engaged. During the battle three Spanish warships will be beached and burned and on splte of his ancestral connections, and for several years he has been the sole survivor of all those who were present at that great meeting at Champoeg, now more than 62 years ago."

M'LOUGHLIN DAY AT THE FAIR

Historical Society Decides to Honor Father of Oregon.

The consensus of opinion among the members of the Oregon Historical Society seems to be that Dr. John McLoughlin is entitled to be styled the "Father of At the last meeting of the Oregon." board of directors of the society, President William D. Fenton appointed a committee of three-Professor P. G. Young, George H. Himes and Mrs. Maria L. Myrick-to prepare a programme for the proper celebration of a day in honor of the "good old Doctor," whose benevolence. unwearied and persevering kindness played such an important part in assisting the early pioneers in making homes in then almost trackless wilderness With this end in view the managemen of the Lewis and Clark Exposition has set aside Friday, Octover 6, as McLough lin day, and Frederick V. Holman has been delegated to deliver a fitting oration for the occasion. Mr. Holman has been an earnest student of the early history of Oregon ploneers, and is thoroughly conversant with the life and accomplishment of Dr. McLoughlin. The Historical So ciety is doing everything in its power to make this a big day at the Fair, and has extended invitations to all the ploneers and their families to attend the exercises on this occasion. It is planning a suitable programme, which will be rendered at the Auditorium. All ploneers participating in this celebration are requested to wear their 1996 pioneer badges bearing the date of their arrival in the state.

Fire Chiefs of the West Choose Other Officers and Select Calgary, Alberta, as Next Meeting Place.

Chief David Campbell, of the Portland Fire Department, was unanimously chosen president of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs Association at the annual election of that organization held yesterday afternoon. Chief Campbell is one of the most pop-ular members of the association, and when his name was proposed for the presidency, motion was made immediately to close nominations and declare the choice unanimous, which was carried without a dissenting vote. Chief Campbell was then escorted to the platform, from which he made a few remarks. He "Fellow members of the Pacific said: Coast Fire Chiefs Association-To say that appreciate the high honor you confer spon me is about all my limited vocabulary will permit me to say, and I wish to assure you that I shall use every endeavor to fulfill the trust you have imposed in me for the betterment of this organization. Talking is not in my line, so gentlemen, again thanking you for the courtesy, I will conclude my remarks."

Chief Campbell Applauded.

Williams, which the committee states is the finest and best-equipped craft of its kind in the United States, and the efficiency of the alarm system now in operation at the Lewis and Clark Exposition grounds, which was tested for the benefit of the visiting chiefs. A resolution of thanks was also extended Chief Campbell and A. G. Long, of this city, for the courteous treatment extended the vis-iting chiefs and the ladies of their party while in the city.

The long-looked for reorganization of the Portland detective force, which has shown no glimmerings of improvement but which was, according to rumors, to have been rearranged September 15, is still in a state of lethargy. Detectives are at work on the go-as-you-please order until special blanks can be propared by the printer. These blanks, it is supposed, are to set forth specific times for de-tectives to work, with blank spaces for figures setting forth the time at which the force is expected to report.
