DRY DAYS IN COOS

Judge Hamilton Gives Warning to Law-Breakers.

NO LIQUOR SOLD OPENLY

"Reuben" Who Is "Rolled" in Town Goes Back to the Ranch to Work and Vote for Prohibition.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Sept. ZL-(Special) Erected to the memory of John Bar-ycorn. Died at Coquille City, Oregon. tember 9, A. D. 1966. Age unknown Such is the inscription on a significant monolith etanding in front of the saloon door of the Hotel Coquille, in the center of a little square of earth that in the rainy season is a lawn.

The grame is all dead now. The hill-Nevada. It has been one of the driest Summers ever known in Coos County. But this drouth is as nothing to the one inaugurated by Judge Hamilton at the opening of the September term of the Cir-

The court talked to the cul-prits in a fatherly way and advised com-He said he would suspend sentence until the case now on appeal before the Supreme Court is decided. If the decision uphoids the legality of the local option election he will administer the sinimum fine of $50 for the first offense. But he held out the warning that if they came before him again on a similar charge the fine would be ten times as great with a term in prison.

With this admonition the offenders re turned home and with long-drawn faces viewed the scene of happy days, turned the picture of the Parisian maiden with its face to the wall, locked the saloon door from the outside, never to open again.

That is, if you wish to believe this fiction, all right. It takes some time even for a blind pig to get its eyes open. A day was spent in storing away liquors, and then the joints opened up with purely temperance drinks. The mahogany that once shone resplendent with port and bourbon was now degarded to the use of buttermilk and soda water.

Surprise of the Old-Timer.

Imagine the disappointment of the oldtimer as he leaned up against the bar and called for "something" when he was handed out a weak solution of seda and told that was all there was in the shop. Bad news should be broken to him gently. For 52 years the historic town of Empire had been ready to welcome the stranger with a drink. Now, for the first time in more than half a century, its saloon doors were closed, and the only relief for the visitor, no matter if his throat was affame, was to jump to the Empire is dry with not even butter-chronological order. There is a ray of re-lief in this picture of gloom. The court held that the amended charter of Marshfield passed by the Legislature last Winter after the local option election gave the town Council jurisdiction over the liquor traffic. Many a life has been saved in the last few days by an early morning Carmencita and arrest McLean. tramp over the swamps to Marshfield. city of North Bend is dry as a bone, that is, if you believe the saloon men themselves. And no doubt some of them have closed up in good faith. But the open charge is made that others are "bootlegging." And if one knows the ropes he can manage to take on board a mfortable jag without going beyond the city limits. This forebodes only trouble. It is merely a question of time till some one is caught and punished. If the prohibition is to stand in Coos the authorities That can be depended will enforce it. upon. matter which side wins in the Supreme Court the battle will be fought over again will make sure next time that the petition is filed in ample time for the County Court to give due notice. And the liquor men will take the same precaution in case the decision goes against them. They have a feeling of extreme confidence that Coos County will reverse itself on the local option issue with another trial. But will it? If the election was held today there would hardly be change of a dozen votes from the result last time.

The Coos County people are not change-able in matters of conviction. The rural communities are opposed to the liquor traffic and nothing has occurred to alter their determination. In fact the opposition to the enforcement of the law has made them only more rigid in their pur-condition of affairs? Every candid ob-server will say that it is the saloon men themselves. If they had been content with a legitimate profit, had conducted order-ly houses, it is safe to say that the local option question would not today be a disturbing factor in Coos County politics. The saloon has not been content to sell its victim a poor quality of goods, but it must first "dope" him and then "roll" him. For 80 years the "Reubs" from the farm and the mines have been coming into town. Pitiful are the tales that are told of a Summer's wage gone in a night, of the wife and children left at home without bread.

"Reub" Goes Home Mad.

The "Reub" knows his weakness. He comes to town and gets full, but he goes home and votes for local option. If he was sure of being able to go off on a little spree without being robbed the result might have been different.

It was North Bend that lost the elecseem paradoxical when it is known that North Bend gave a larger majority, two to one, against local option than any other town. North Bend maintains a hurdy-gurdy. It was the flaunting of this vice in the face of virtue that turned the respectable element against the liquor

It is not too much to believe that if the saloons of the county had been con-ducted as they are in Marshfield, Coos-County would today be "wet" instead of field regulates the saloon and places it

It is a far distance between the radicals of both sides, the prohibitionists and the dive keeper. The one wants total abstinence and the other free license the leaves them there is no compromise, but between them also is a temperance element that controls the situation. This Por element would favor a saloon run under strict regulations, or it would approve of a moderate use of stimulants even with local option. It will vote for prohibition to do away with the dives and it will supply its own needs from a private de-cauter at home. The fight applicant the Prohibition Is the Issue.

The present dilemma keeps the politi-cians guessing. It will take a diplomawith the art of John Hay to win a nomina-tion next year. The question will not be is he a Republican or Democrat or So-cialist, but is he prohibitionist or anti-prohibitionist? Those whose views are known and those whose activity in the past has savored of the pernicious strips are marked for slaughter. It will be a stable of dark horses that get the word

"go" next April.

In the meantime the cemetery in front of the Hotel Coquille with its dry goods box draped in black surmounted by a whicky bottle, bearing stient tribute to the deceased Barleycorn, correctly represents the verdict of the Coos County peo-ple at the present time. But if Marsh-field is allowed to run while the other precincts must remain dry it is fair to predict that the whole county will be thrown wide open at the next election.

Agreement Reached by Majority of Equalizers.

MEAD FAVORS THE PLAN

If Sum Raised Is Insufficient for Running Expenses of Washingten, School Fund Will Be Resource.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 21 .- (Special.)-On the basis of classifications practically agreed upon by the State Board of Equalization, the assessed valuation of the state will be fixed at $330,000,000 in round numbers, and the levy will remain the same as last year, 2½ mills for the gen-eral fund, with the levies for the school and military funds as prescribed by law at mills and 1-10 mill respectively.

This valuation will raise for the general fund $800,000, or about $200,000 less than the apparent amount necessary to be raised by taxation in order to prevent an increase in indebtedness.

It is understood that the valuations about to be adopted are favored by the three members of the tax commission and Land Commissioner Ross, forming a majority of the board. Secretary of State Nichols and Auditor Clausen favor the adoption of last year's classifications to the increased valuations returned by the mount of running expenses.

The work of the board is being done in informal session, but behind closed doors. The stand taken by the majority of the members of the board is the result of a conference summoned by Governor Meade, a few days ago, at which it was agreed that it would be policy not materially to increase either the levy or the valuation and await another year the efforts of the tax commissioners to increase the amount of property on the tax rolls, borrowing, if necessary, from the permanent school fund for general state

The valuation of $330,000,000 is practically that returned by the county boards of equalization, but is $32,000,000 more than the valuations fixed by the state board last year. On a valuation of $300,000,000 the amount raised for the school fund will be $1,650,000 and for the military fund $33,000, making a total with the general fund of $2,483,000 to be raised by the ounties of the state, or an increase over last year of about $250,000.

That this conference will not redistrict its territory, that the Methodist churches of Portland will remain divided according to the windings of the Willamette River, are statements that may safely be made now. At the conference in Eugene last year Bishop Spellman reduced the number of districts from four to three, making the willamette River the dividing line; the entire "west side" constituting one district, the "east side" south to Harrisburg another, and Southern Oregon a third. This division divided the City of Well-Dressed Stranger Who Paid Portland, with three churches on the west side and II on the East Side, and almost resulted in breaking up the organized work of the Epworth League and kindred

Bishop McDowell is unacquainted with conditions in Oregon, however, and feels some reluctance to reverse an order made by an older hishop, and that within a year of the change. Because of this, Portland Methodists who are anxious to have the old districts reinstated, uniting Portland, will drop their fight this year, with the understanding that next year, when Bishop Moore, of Portland, presides at the conference, the number of districts will be increased to four, with the entire City of Portland in one.

The City of Portland will retain the same Methodist ministers next year, as far as can be judged at present. Assignments will not be made until the last of this week or the first of next, but there seems a disposition to leave Portland charges unchanged. A possible exception to this is the talked-of exchange of places between Rev. S. E. Meminger, of Mount Tabor, and Rev. L. F. Young, of the Cen-tral Methodist Episcopal Church. Portland's Methodist Churches will, in

When He Gets a Stake He Will Try to Break the Bank at Monte Carlo.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 21 .- (Special.)-H. Chester Doerfeld, an Atlin mining man, brings south a remarkable story of a former Cambridge instructor's years of study over the percentages of the gambling table and his intense ambition to attempt to break the bank at Monte Carlo.

William C. Cameron, formerly an instructor in dead languages at the English University, is said by Doerfeld to have exiled himself for the sole purpose of studying out a system which will beat the game. On his shelves in the professor's cabin in the Atlin dis-trict are several volumes written in Sanskrit, Greek and Latin, which him occasional solace, but most of his time has been spent on tables or percentage.

"He has a number of pretty good claims, some of which I have attempted to buy," said Doerfeld. "But Cameron of papers wherein had been in scribed a record for fifty years of the losses and profits of the Monte Carlo games. In some instances he had the results by days. From this mass of figures he has evolved his table of per centages, indicating the numbers he beto sell his claims and get money enough ATTRACTED BY FARM COURSE to put the system to a trial." The action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver and regulate the bow-els, but do not purge.

If your boy slides down a cellar door once a day he slides down cellar doors, and anything he can slide on, twenty times once. Yet you buy him a cheaply put together suit of loosely woven cloth made of twenty threads of cotton to one of wool and then wonder why he goes through it so quickly.

Next time buy him a "Hercules-Kantwearout" Shower-Proof Sult-will cost you no more than one "ordinary" suit but will last as long as two-will look better all the time and save you hours of mending.

A "Hercules" suit free if you find a thread of cotton in the fabric-neither sun, rain nor wear will fade the colors. Fabrics or linings will never shrink. Coat and pants will always keep their shape. Coat lined with extra heavy double warped Italian cloth. Two sleeve linings instead of one-outside lining wears out, rip it off and you have a new lining ready for wear. Pants full lined with cold shrunk irish linen-makes them sanitary, stronger and more comfortable in cold weather. Seams double stitched with heavy silk thread-inside leg and seat seams covered with tapecloth will wear down to paper thinness before a seam will give. Look sharp for imitations-"Her-cules" label on inside coat collar and on sleeve.

Made in double breasted two-piece Knee Pants suits for boys 6 to 16. Five Dollars everywhere. Send us name of your clothes man and age of your boy and we will send you a

"Hercules" free for your inspection. Daube, Cohn & Co., Chicago Kantwearout will not sell until he gets his price. He wants money enough to test his 'system.' He told me his passion for Portland's Methodist Churches will, in all probability, he increased numerically within the next year. Dr. Ford, of Sunnygide, is urging the necessity of a church at Lentz, and the Church Extension Society has indicated a willingness to put E56 into such a fund. With this start a new church for the suburb is practically assured.
