MIDWAY WANTS SCHOOLHOUSE—Midway people, between Brooklyn and the Sellwood schoolhouses, want the Board of Education to arrange for the erection of a schoolhouse next year. C. H. Tabke, president of the Midway Improvement Association, says a building had been promised that section, but the present school, situated in a damp hole in the ground, still does duty for about 75 pupils. He calls attention to the neighborhood that will want school facilities. This includes the City View Park, that is being settled rapidly, besides the high ground between Milwaukie avenue and the Williams, which is being cleared and built over. Sellwood now extends south to the golf links. At least 50 houses are under construction south of Columbia avenue, and it is reasonably sure that the Sellwood schoolhouse, now increased to 16 rooms, will be filled up this year through this increase. A resident of Midway says the Board of Education should negotiate at once for a block of ground between Brooklyn and the Sellwood buildings while it can be had for a reasonable cost.

BILL COLLECTOR'S HOME—William McDonald, the collector of beer bills, well known in this city, has his home in the open air on the corner of East Madison street and Union avenue. Here, on a small bit of ground, at the edge of the bluff, his household goods have been dumped promiscuously, and here, with his cow and cat, McDonald lives, dependent on no one. His bed is underneath some fragments of carpet which form a sort of shelter, but his cow has his precious possession, and his furniture are exposed to all sorts of weather. Most men, however, would feel disgraced under such conditions, but McDonald the better he thrives under them. Although aged and poor, he has a name of which he is proud, and prefers independence and poverty to the humbleness of asking assistance from any source, even if he should need it. In spite of his rough attire and rugged appearance, there is dignity about the man, and a collector that commands respect, even if his habitation excites pity.

LACKS TERMINAL FACILITIES—The Portland Cumberland Presbyterian retired the Rev. W. R. Bishop from the active ministry at its recent session in Portland. He is one of the best-known men of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in this state. Although nearly 80 years old, he is still active, mentally and physically, and no meeting of synod or presbytery in this state would be considered complete without his presence. In debate he can cope with any of the younger men, and few excel him as a presiding officer. In every meeting he attends Mr. Bishop is usually the life and soul of good humor, and nobody can feel blue with him present. At the meeting of synod, while a question was being considered, Moderator Bishop asked the ministers to be brief. Mr. Bishop remarked, "My terminal facilities have been neglected; I must stop."

TO LEAVE FOR EDGEMONT—Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Rockwell will leave this week for Edgemoor to enter on their work at the Methodist Episcopal Church there. Dr. Rockwell has been on the Portland circuit for four years, coming from the New York conference to fill out the term of Rev. C. R. Thoburn, at Centenary Church. Both he and Mrs. Rockwell have become popular with the churches in the district. Mrs. Rockwell has been an active force in Methodist circles in Portland and has been constantly engaged in helping struggling churches in the country places. Through her efforts many of the parsonages have been made comfortable for the minister and his family. In this line of work, in the Y. W. C. A., and in all branches of Methodist work, Mrs. Rockwell will be greatly missed.

WHY LESS THAN 100,000—Frank Ailing, a prominent business man, who accompanied a crowd of excursionists from that city to help boost Portland day at the Fair, was taken suddenly ill upon arrival here and forced to seek medical attendance. He was suffering from a going to the grounds and attributes much of the failure to reach the 100,000 mark to the fact that he was unable to concentrate his enthusiastic words on the guard. Mr. Ailing was sufficiently improved to return home yesterday afternoon.

GRANDS FOR CITY HALL—At the regular meeting of the Milwaukie Council this evening, the following grants were reported that he has an option on a quarter of a block near the schoolhouse for a city hall and fire quarters. It is expected that the Council will purchase the ground and put up a suitable building. Money is on hand from licenses from the Milwaukie Clubhouse and the local saloon, and also from taxes, so that the building can be purchased and the building put up without incurring debt.

TO ADORN MONUMENT SQUARE—The Lone Fir Monument Association has plans for the further adornment of monument square in Lone Fir Cemetery, where the soldiers' monument is situated. The ornamental shrubbery will be set out on the ground, and it is planned to get corner pieces from the Government for the monument. The monument is part of the original plan, but it has not been carried out for lack of means. It is hoped now to raise the funds necessary to complete the monument.

FUNERAL OF MRS. DORIS FLEIDER—The funeral of Mrs. Doris Fleider took place yesterday from her late home, 67 East Ash street, and the interment was in Riverview Cemetery. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Mrs. Fleider is survived by her husband, William F. Fleider, and an infant born September 18. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Shogren, and a native of Oregon.

BANARJEE CIRCLE TO MEET—Banarjee Circle, in the interest of the child wives of India, will meet at the residence of the president, Mrs. Abigail Scott, 222 Clay street, at 2 P. M., Monday, October 2. A full attendance is desired to plan for co-operation with the chairman of the committee in charge of W. man's day at the Exposition, to be held on Friday, October 6.

TO EXTRADITE LEW CHONG—Lew Chong, Chinese woman arrested after a fight in a Chinese den on Pine street and charged with the larceny of $25 from a Chinese breadmaker of San Francisco, will be taken back to California today by Detective Mann, of the San Francisco Police Department, who has obtained requisition papers.

FUNERAL OF J. D. HENRY—The funeral of J. D. Henry, who died at Pitkin, Or., Thursday, took place yesterday from Dunning's undertaking rooms, East 5th street. The interment was in Lone Fir Cemetery. Rev. C. A. Lewis conducted the services. Mr. Henry was 60 years old, and formerly lived in Portland. Survivors: LAURENCE, of Toronto; Mrs. Merrill's housewife, N. side Morrison st.; J. B. BROWN, eye and ear. The Marquam.

START ON NEW YEAR—Methodists began a new conference year yesterday. Rev. James T. Abbott of Ashland, appointed to the Central Methodist Church, of Albina, was not present yesterday, and there was no preaching, but a general service was held in the evening at 8:15. Rev. L. F. Young, who goes to the St. Johns Church, preached his initial sermon there yesterday. Rev. Melville T. Wilson, the new pastor of the Park Church, is a graduate of the Garrett Biblical Institute of Evanston, Ill. Rev. James Monroe is the new pastor of Mount Taber. Rev. W. H. Heppie opened his second year at Centenary. There was a Sunday school rally in the morning, when the pastor made an address. Dr. Ford began his second year at Sunnyside. Rev. H. Oberg is his third year at Trinity, and Rev. C. A. Le is his fourth year at Sellwood. At this last place it is expected a new church, or an addition to the present one, will be built this year. Rev. L. E. Rockwell, of Portland, who goes to Eugene, preached there yesterday morning and evening.

W. A. THURSTEN MISSING—W. A. Thursten, day watchman at the Eastern Mills, disappeared yesterday afternoon, and is thought to have fallen into the river. Thursten was seen about the mill at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, but at 5 o'clock, when he was supposed to turn the key in the lock over to the night watchman, he could not be found. A search through the mill and the lumberjacks failed. The police were notified, but so far have been unable to find Thursten.

BUYER A GOOD CORNER—C. H. Barnell, a mill-owner from Eastern Oregon, has just purchased the property on the northeast corner of Twentieth and Second streets for $150,000. There are two flats and an eight-room house on the lot. The transfer was made through the agency of L. W. Whiting & Co.

SEEK BECKMANN'S PARDON

Douglas County Taxpayers Ask Discharge of Aged Murderer.

Attorney Charles J. Schnabel, of this city, is working hard in his efforts to secure the discharge of an elderly man who was arrested here last July under peculiarly distressing circumstances. He is charged with the murder of his stepson, 11 years ago. Beckmann is now in the Roseburg jail, and a strong petition is now being signed by the principal taxpayers of Douglas County praying that the District Attorney and Circuit Court there do not place Beckmann on trial. Beckmann was indicted for killing his wife and stepson, Robert Ring, almost simultaneously. He was tried on the charge of killing his wife, and was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to imprisonment for life. In 1902, owing to extenuating circumstances, he was pardoned by Governor Geer. Beckmann went at once to his former home in Wisconsin, later entering the soldiers' home at Milwaukee, Wis. Owing to his age, about 80 years, he was advised to leave that rigorous climate and enter the soldiers' home at Los Angeles. It was when he was on his way to the latter place via Portland, thence by steamer, that he was again arrested, presumably upon the ground that he had violated the terms of his pardon. That being without foundation, the old indictment was quashed, and Beckmann was released, with murdering his stepson, was re-arrested and he is being held on that for trial at the October term of court. From evidence brought out at his trial in 1894, it is believed that Beckmann's life was far from happy, that continual "nagging" by the members of his family and others made his life a burden, and that early one morning after a particularly distressing scene, the double murder was committed. It is said that Beckmann is now in ill health and that he cannot live very long, anyway.

GRANT FERRY FRANCHISE

St. Johns Council Will Consider Several Applications Tonight.

The several applications for a franchise to operate a ferry across the Willamette river in 1894, were considered by the St. Johns Council this evening. Only two definite applications have thus far been made, with the possibility of a third coming in this evening. Brink, Blumauer & Hoch were the first to apply, and the St. Johns Navigation & Development Company, represented by T. T. Parker, the other. It is not disclosed who are back of the latter company, and not even the Councilmen who investigated the landings last week have been informed. At the meeting this evening they will have to get consideration from the Council. Both applicants are asking for a 10-year franchise.

The Brink company offers to build a plank roadway the full width of the street from the river to the O. R. & N. spur, start a temporary ferry at once, and then put on a 10-ton ferry as soon as it could be made ready. The St. Johns Navigation & Development Company offers 20 per cent of its income, but as the backers are unknown, the offer does not have much weight. The Lantron road has been closed, and when a ferry is in operation the Willamette boulevard will also be put in first-class condition, thus making a line driven by the city.

The water question in St. Johns will also probably be considered this evening at the meeting of the Council. It was dropped two months ago, owing to other pressing business, when there was a movement favoring the issuing of bonds for the purchase of the present plant at cost. The owners offered it to the city for $300,000. The present company has a 10-year franchise.

There is also a disposition to overhaul the proceedings of the Council in the vacation of streets extending to the wharves, with the object of restoring these streets to the public. Now that the Council has got together, these and other matters will be disposed of.

TWO FOR MARRIED ONES

Most attractive little bachelors bearing the legend "Portland" on the way, and the trade mark of Eilers Piano House were much in evidence at the Fair on Portland day, the entire Eilers Piano House force having been granted a holiday. The employees being furnished a souvenir ticket by the firm while all married people in every department were supplied with two.

Gaudinella, the chief male shining light in the first piece presented "The Health Resort," illustrating a hotel presided over by a jealous landlord whose pretty wife married him for his money. Mack was a typical Dutch role and his comedy work is new and refreshing. Nearly all the hotel guests are troubled with imaginary bad health, and this thought is cleverly worked out in shaping the characters, the rich uncle who was operated on by a fake massage artist, and the hotel proprietor who was carried away by mistake to an insane asylum.

A real river bridge over real water, a police patrol boat steaming through a raised drawbridge, a woman thrown bodily into the river, a sensational rescue, humor, laughter and tears, until the audience is nearly breathless with excitement—such is one of the greatest scenic attractions on the popular price stage anywhere in this country: "On the Bridge at Midnight," the attraction this week at the Empire. It's a thriller to the end, and the scenery is far above the ordinary. The story told is an intense one, often heightened by welcome flashes of humor. Yesterday, at both performances, the theater was occupied to the last available seat, and the applause was like a gust of young cannon getting busy in a battle.

This picturesque $10,000 play has a plot full of interest and Mrs. Vera Hamilton plays the part of a blind mother whose child is taken from her, relative so that the latter could unlawfully divert money to himself, and the strange adventure of this child, who turns out to be a star attraction, is the feature for Miss Katherine Crego to shine as Reddy, convenient person who knocks the head villain's schemes away every time. "Humble virtue gets in the neck," is the motto of the play, and it is not only a laugh, and easily captures the gallery. Eva Lewis, a woman with a past, is handsomely dressed in the last act, and makes a fine contrast with the interesting scene with Mr. Weed. Daniel Reed makes a realistic stage Italian.

Story of the Dancing Girls.
At least this is the story told by Miss McDonald and Miss Clay, who allege that they have been cruelly mistreated by Bolosky Kiraity, of the Carnival of Venice Company. To an Oregonian reporter last night Miss McDonald and Miss Clay stated that they were two of 20 dancing girls who had been brought from New York through misrepresentations, and that the Carnival of Venice Company refused to live up to the contracts they were to receive ticket and sleeping-car berths back to New York. Now they say Kiraity offers them a railroad ticket and docks them for part of their salary because of the bad days when no shows could be given.

POULTRY SHOW IN OCTOBER

MANY LISTS OF FINE BIRDS ARE ANNOUNCED.

Pierce County, Washington, Leads With Largest Number, Two Hundred and Thirty-Five Entries.

Poultry breeders are looking forward with much interest at the exhibition of the poultry show that will be held at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, which opens on October 5 to continue until October 12, inclusive. Already more than 3000 birds in 1888, it was shown that his home on the show as a very fine exhibition and have entered only chickens which they think will stand an excellent chance to win. As far as quality is concerned, it will exceed anything of its kind ever held in the West.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.

Calvin Thaddeus Pomeroy, who died September 27 at Cedar Mill, Or., was born in Chicago, Ill., April 22, 1833. He crossed the plains to Oregon with his father in 1842 and settled at Oregon City. Three years later he removed to Washington County, where most of his life was passed. He was married November 7, 1854, to Miss Henrietta M. Bligh. He was converted by Rev. Mr. Hooford then of Hillsboro, and joined the M. E. Church in 1860. He had been a great sufferer for 40 years, but a patient Christian and loving husband and father. He died with perfect trust in his Savior. He left to his wife and seven children—Walter G., of Scappoose; Dwight C., of Hillsboro; Charles T., of Salem; Elias H., Mrs. Una H. Kirtz, Mrs. Lela E. L. Bunker and Mrs. Stella M. Pomeroy, of Portland.

RUNAWAY GIRL RETURNS

Beverly Smith Tells Story of Strange Man's Misconduct.

Beverly Smith, the 12-year-old girl who on Friday afternoon ran away from her guardian, appointed by the Boys and Girls' Aid Society, was found this morning at the Winward residence and given over again to the officers of the institution. The girl, who is of a wayward disposition, was enticed into the woods about 10 o'clock on Friday afternoon. She was met by a man, who was induced to walk with her. She took her into the thicket in the vicinity and kept her there for several hours, after which they went to the Exposition grounds for food. She said that the man threatened to kill her if she told of what had happened. Having eaten, the girl was taken back to the woods and afterwards to the Hotel Detroit, near the entrance to the Fair grounds, where she remained until late Saturday night. The man then took her close to the Winward home and told her to go home. The girl took refuge in the Winward residence, where she was cared for until the officers of the Aid Society could be located. No trace of the man has been found.

CAN NOT GET THEIR SALARIES

Dancing Girls at the Carnival of Venice Are in Mourning.
DOCKED FOR RAINY DAYS
Three Dollars and Ninety Cents Paid Them With Which They Must Provide Berths and Meals en Route to New York.

Thirty little New Yorkers spent all of yesterday in mourning. These 20 little New Yorkers are dancing girls, who have been filling an engagement with the "Carnival of Venice," and for whom yesterday was full of disappointments, as it is said they will have to ride back to old New York in the chair cars, unless they care to dig into their own pockets for Pullman tickets.

At least this is the story told by Miss McDonald and Miss Clay, who allege that they have been cruelly mistreated by Bolosky Kiraity, of the Carnival of Venice Company. To an Oregonian reporter last night Miss McDonald and Miss Clay stated that they were two of 20 dancing girls who had been brought from New York through misrepresentations, and that the Carnival of Venice Company refused to live up to the contracts they were to receive ticket and sleeping-car berths back to New York. MAKES CHILDREN HAPPY

Ben Selling Sends Youngsters to the Exposition on Portland Day.

The inmates of the Receiving Home of the Boys and Girls' Aid Society and Clark Exposition on Portland Day. Ben Selling furnished all the children with free tickets and free transportation to and from the Fair. Each child also had a horn furnished by Mr. Selling, and it is reported to say that they made them selves heard from the time they left the Receiving Home until their return. Superintendent Gardner found it necessary on account of the large crowd at the Exposition, to divide the children up into small parties, each in charge of an officer. Therefore, there are no losses to report, and the children both large and small had a delightful day.
