Moorish Brigands Release the Captured Officers.

BRITAIN AFTER REVENGE

Marine Officers No Sooner Seized Than Warships Approach Coast and They Are Set Free.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The British Foreign Office has sent instructions to its Minister to Morocco to take the most energetic measures in regard to the capture of the two officers of the Royal Marine.

Several British warships are already off the Moorish coast in connection with the wreck of the repair ship Assistance in Tetuan Bay, so there is plenty of force available to impress the Moorish authorities with the necessity for prompt redress.

BANDITS RELEASE PRISONERS

Fear of British Torpedo-Boat Causes Quick Repentance.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Madrid says that, fearing an attack by a British torpedo-boat, the bandits of the Anjera tribe released the two British officers, Captain Crowther and Lieutenant Hatton, who have arrived at Ceuta.

CAPTURE BRITISH OFFICERS

Moorish Brigands Hold Their Prisoners for Ransom.

TANGIER, Morocco, Oct. 17.—Two British marine officers have been captured and carried off by the Anjera tribe returning to Ceuta from the British repair ship Assistance, recently wrecked in Tetuan Bay.

The officers captured are Captains John E. Crowther and Edward A. Shotton, of the Royal Marines. They had an escort of 21 Riflesmen and were attacked by half a dozen Anjera, under a brother of Valiente, the brigand chief, who was recently arrested at Tangier. The Rifles fled and the two officers were overpowered.

The same band lately assassinated the Governor of Ceuta and his son. The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mohammed El Torree, has dispatched couriers to ascertain the whereabouts of the captured officers and open negotiations with their captors, whose object supposedly is to secure a ransom and the release of Valiente, who is now imprisoned at Fez.

Later in the day communication was effected with the captives. The brigand chief demands as the terms for their release the freedom of Valiente. The consent of the Spanish government is necessary, if any further steps can be taken.

CARNEGIE INAUGURATED AGAIN

St. Andrews Students Welcome Him and Other Americans.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, Oct. 17.—Never before have so many distinguished Americans directly participated in ceremonies connected with the inauguration of the rector of a British university as took part in today's functions at St. Andrews, when Andrew Carnegie was installed as lord rector for a second term.

Whitehall Road, the Ambassador at London, Charmagne Tower, American Ambassador in Berlin; Bishop Henry C. Potter, of New York, and Dr. William J. Holland, dean of the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh, occupied seats on the platform and had conferred on them the honorary degree of doctor of laws, which also was bestowed on Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, in absentia.

The hall was crowded with scarlet-gowned undergraduates of both sexes, and the male students enlivened the proceedings with the usual amount of chaff and song. The entrance of Mr. Carnegie was the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm.

In his rectorial address, Mr. Carnegie expressed the opinion that five nations, or even three, banded together in a league of peace and inviting all other nations to join them, could banish all war in the future.

The dean, in presenting Bishop Potter and Ambassador Reid for the honorary degrees of doctor of laws, said they were both distinguished citizens of the lord rector's adopted country. In the course of his speech, the dean made a happy allusion to President Roosevelt, who was lately cheered.

Mr. Reid, in replying, thanked the dean for the hearty and kindly reception in the name of "our gallant and spirited Colonel of the Rough Riders," who had also earned the rector's praise for his astute diplomacy in the direction of peace between two great nations of the world.
