The ex-Congressman's last illness began at the time of his final campaign for Congress. In spite of falling health he continued his business activity, working as an agent for the Defreest-Draper Land Company, of Chicago, and operating an extensive ranch near Roswell. Six months ago his condition became such that he went to Chicago to consult a specialist, who pronounced his malady hopeless. From that time he continued to grow weaker until finally compelled to abandon business. He was brought to the hospital here September 21.

An autopsy over the body of Mr.

examination confirmed what the doctors had maintained that the trouble was aneurism of the thoracle or as-cending norts. This means that there an enormous distension of the blood vessel leading from the heart.

When the National Livestock Association met in Portland a year ago last January, the life of the meeting was Jerry Simpson, of Roswell, N. M. At that time there were mutterings of discontent on the part of the stockyards interests and others that a year later resulted in division at Denver and formation of the American Stockgrowers' Association, which would doubtless have taken place at Portland but for the effervescent wit and powerful logic of the ex-Congress-

Whenever there was any appearance of the anticipated wave of warfare between diverse interests of the industry, Jerry Simpson was ready to dissuade the ad-vocates from their purpose and thus what promised to be a lively convention fight was averted. It is singular that the merging of the livestock men again into one body was accomplished and the re-port came almost simultaneously with that of the demise of the man who more than any other, with the exception of the late Charles F. Martin, secretary and founder of the National Association. eradicated the differences between cattle and sheepgrowers and united all under

In this connection the true story of how the distinguished Kansan gained the sobriquet of "Sockless Jerry" is apropos. When Populistic political honors fell up-on his head as a nominee for Congress, Mr. Simpson was Marshal of Medicine of the Southwest. Its bizarre character had not entirely vanished and the job was not exactly a sinecure, but the man the assets in favor of any particular.

Jerry Simpson stepped to the wings of the stage and quickly shoved the tops of his socks down into his shoes, and when his turn came to speak parried the jest of his opponent by exhibiting ankles undefiled by hosiery of aristocracy. From that time he was "Sockless Jerry," whose happy, simple life appealed to the Populist vote with an overwhelming power that thrice swept to defeat the strongest leaders of Kansas Republicans, among them Chester I. LIVED DOWN HIS NICKNAME

Simpson Won Respectful Hearing for Populism in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—"The Sage of Medicine Lodge," as Jerry Simpson was called, was, in every respect, one of the most unique characters which adorn the histories of Congress. He was swept into the 52d Congress by a wave of Kansas Populism, charged with the task of reforming the whole Government and living down the only advance information his colleagues had of his personality—that he colleagues had of his personality-that he wore no socks. The latter task he succeded in accomplishing in fact, although he never quite lost the title, "Sockless His legislative accomplishments consisted in turning popular Eastern sentiment regarding Populism from scorning ridicule to respectful consideration during his service of six years in the 52d, 53d and 55th Congresses, when he was swept out by another Kansas wave.

There was not a question of Congressional action during that time on which Jerry Simpson did not think, and on which his conclusions were not strikingly and entirely different from those from anyone else. His language and manner of speech were quaint in the highest degree. Jerry Simpson always tried to make his adversaries look ridiculous, always threw adversaries look ridiculous, always threw new light on every subject, made a per-sonal friend of every member of the and, his political opponents de-neevr changed a vote on any on. As an entertainer and as a personality, the House came to have the warmest regard for him.

OFFER TO SHARE PROFITS

Compromise Terms of Cotton Manufacturers to Textile Workers.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 21 .- The textile situation here was more critical to. night than it has been at any time since the great strike last January. The Manufacturers' Association, representing all the print cloth mills in the city with the exception of those controlled by M. C. D. Borden of New York, this afternoon worden of New York, this afternoon worded to refuse the request of the Tex-tile Council for a direct restoration of the wage schedule which prevailed pre-vious to the 12½ per cent reduction of July 25, 1904. This action will be considered at a special meeting of the Textile Council tomorrow night, when it is probable the entire matter will be referred to special meetings Wednesday evening of all the unions represented in the Council. Many of the business men fear that another strike will be decided on by the unions. The Association today considered a let-ter sent by the Textile Council, which had rejected the manufacturers' proposition and requested that the full restor-ation be granted.

The plan of the Manufacturers' Asso-ciation provided for a direct increase of 5 per cent and a profit-sharing arrange-ment, the profits due to the employes to be figured monthly on the market price of cloth, which, however, must show at least a margin over the cost of cotton of 5 cents per cut. The present condition of the market would net the employes about 8 per cent, which would make a total increase in wages of about 13 per Every Truckman and Teamster in City May Strike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.-It was admitted last night by Valentine Hoffman, business agent of Local No. 708 of the Teamsters' Union, that unless the 225 employing truckmen sign an agreement for a closed shop within a few days the strike which has already been declared against Thomas Orr, a truckman, will be made general. Over 4500 teamsters will be involved in the event of a strike. So far only about a dozen of the employers have signed such an agreement and they are not among the largest em-ployers. If the others continue to stand firm all the drivers will be ordered out. It is declared by the men that other locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters stand ready to aid them by a mathetic strike.

With the 50,000 men of the 22 chapters of the Teamsters' Union on strike many branches of industry in the city would be paralyzed. That serious rioting, such as scurred in Chicago, is feared even in the present stage of the conflict, is evident from the orders which have been given to the police. The force of mounted men who guarded trucks on Saturday will be reinforced this morning.

Anticipating such a conflict as is im-pending the Truckowners' Association is declared to have several hundred strikebreakers on the ground. By the drivers it is charged that most of the strikebreakers have been imported from Chi cago, where they were used in the battle against the union, but this is denied by the employers.

Both sides were farther apart than ever last night after megtings had been held to discuss the situation. Mr. Hoffman declared there was no thought of withdrawal or compromise "If there must be a test of strength between the truckowners and ourselves,

The New York district council of the International Association of Teamsters will meet tomorrow to decide on what action to take. OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.-The Supreme Court today denied a writ of certiorari in the case of Ah Sou, a Chinawoman against the United States. Sou was ar rested in Seattle and ordered deported and this ruling has been sustained by all the lower courts. It appears from the record of the case that "in 1900 Ah Sou's foster-mother sold her to a Chinaman named Moy Bun-Thereafter Moy Bun, conspiring with Moy Sam, brought the petitioner to the United States and procured her entry at Port Townsend as the daughter of Moy Sam. Moy Bun then took her into his home in Portland and about one year thereafter placed her in a house of prostitution and continued her as his slave, taking her to various towns in Oregon and Washington for the purpose of prostitution. During this time the petitioner was maltreated in the most inhuman way and compelled to lead a life of shame. During the latter part of 1903 the pe titioner, learning she was to be sold to Chinese slave-owners in San Francisco, escaped from the slave house of Moy Bun and fled to the Presbyterian Misston Home in Portland conducted by Mrs Holt, where she became acquainted with Lam Kong, a Chinaman, and was mar. ried to him under the laws of Oregon. Since her escape from Moy Bun he has been following her about and attempting to secure here return and, of she is deported to China, it is feared he will follow her there and claim her as his slave." The case is also before the Supreme Court on appeal.

HOW TO HELP PHILIPPINES

Newlands Proposes Improved Machinery, Not Tariff Reduction.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—United States Senator Newlands, of Nevada, who returned today from a visit to the Phil-ippines, and the Orient, has made the following statement regarding conditions in the Philippines:

the surra, which destroyed their horses and mules; the cholera, the locusts and the typhoons. The Islands are not prosperous and the revenue is not sufficient to accomplish what the Government has set out to do. The sugar and tobacco inteerats are languashing. The suggestion of the administration is to restore these by giving free access to the United States markets for their products. I am not convinced that this is the best method. The sugar industry is suffering because of the calamities I have mentioned and because of the primitive methods of production. Our tariff duty on raw sugar, which is nearly 100 per cent, has doubled the price of sugar to the consumers. The Philippines can only get $40 per ton for their sugar in the world's market, but in our markets with the duty off they can get $75

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON KING OF ALL DISEASES

To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of a Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting ever part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunal enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insignificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollu the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and ho rible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the gland in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colors spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poise even works down and destroys the bones. No other disease is so highly contagious, and many have contracted it and suffered its awful consequer through a friendly hand-shake, handling the clothing of one afflicted wit it, or drinking from the same vessel. S. S. S., The King of Blood Purifier is the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It goes down into the ci culation and forces out every particle of the virus. It is nature's antido
