Shrewdest Agents in the United States Secret Service Are Carrying On Investigation With Utmost Precaution.

SEATTLE, Wash, Oct. 25 .- (Special.) Six of the shrewdest agents of the United States Secret Service are now in Seattle at work on a big case of alleged violation of the Federal laws in timber land matters, involving som of the most prominent citizens of this city, including among them a United States official of prominence and high standing and a prominent local politician, formerly an official of the State of Washington.

The work here is being conducted with the greatest secrecy, the utmost precaution being exercised by those having it in charge to prevent the nature of it from becoming public, thereby possibly interfering with the in vestigations and giving those who are involved an opportunity to cover up their tracks.

On account of the prominence of those involved, the case is a highly sensational one and should the effort to involve those who are being investigated finally reach the state of indictment by a Federal grand jury the case will rival in widespread National interest the recently developed landfraud cases in Oregon.

Rheumatism is usually worse in Winter because of the cold and dampness and other changed conditions of the climate. The occasional twinges of the disease that are felt during the warmer weather are changed to piercing pains, the muscles become inflamed and swollen, the nerves get sore and excited, the bones ache, and Rheumatism, the terror of winter, takes possession of the system. Then the sufferer turns to the limiment bottle, the woolen clothes, the favorite plaster or some home remedy, in an effort to get relief. But Rheumatism is not a trouble that can be rubbed away or drawn out with a plaster; these things relieve the pain and reduce the inflammation, but do not reach the real cause of the trouble, and at the next exposure another attack comes on. Rheumatism is caused by a sour, acid condition of the blood. The refuse matter and bodily impurities which should be carried off through the channels of nature have been left in the system because of indigestion, weak Kidneys, torpid Liver and a general sluggish condition of the system. These impurities sour and form uric acid, which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to the different muscles, joints, nerves and bones, causing the painful symptoms of Rheumatism. S. S.
