CONVICT GIVES LEG BAIL

WORKING ON PUBLIC ROAD SOUTH OF SALEM.

John Cauthorn Was Sent Up From Umatilla County for Robbing a Store.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—John Cauthorn, a convict employed on the public roads south of Salem, ran away this afternoon and has not yet been caught. He was brought to the prison last May from Umatilla County, where he was convicted of robbing a store. He was sentenced to serve two years. He was put to work on the road two weeks ago and gave no trouble until today, when he took advantage of an opportunity to secrete himself in the brush and run away.

Officers are in search but do not expect to find him tonight. Cauthorn is 35 years old, of medium height and medium complexion. The only striking feature is a large cut scar above the left temple. Sixty-five convicts have been worked on the road for over six months and there have been but three escapes. One prisoner was re-captured, leaving two at large, including Cauthorn.

ASK OFFICERS TO MAKE IT UP

Guardsmen Would Settle Quarrel Between Captain and Major.

SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Men prominent in National Guard circles are busily engaged today in attempting to bring about an amicable settlement of the trouble growing out of the angry colloquy that occurred between Major Case and Captain Inglis, of Company D, on the rifle range at Orillia, Sunday. A strong attempt will be made to have the two men settle the trouble between themselves.

A court-martial, it is believed, would be bad for the Guard. It is felt that a court-martial would result in so much hard feeling that one or the other would leave the organization, much to its detriment.

Adjutant-General Drain is in Seattle, and has made a personal investigation of the matter. He treats it lightly, declaring that it was due to a loss of temper. He is desirous that the matter should be dropped. Knowing the Adjutant-General's feelings in the matter, several of the officers of the Guard are using their influence to bring the quarrel to an end.
