SEAT SALE TODAY.

The Emma Eames Concert Company Seats On Sale This Morning at Marquam.
If any one should be in doubt as to the excellence of the treat promised Monday evening at the Marquam Theater, the following criticism of the concert which Mrs. Eames and her artists gave in Salt Lake Saturday will help a little. The Herald, of that city, said: "Once or possibly twice in a musician's lifetime he will unwittingly strike a concert that is an unadmitted pleasure from the first note to the last. Mrs. Eames and the exceptionally talented artists who completed her programme at the Tabernacle last night furnished such an occasion. Usually the hardened concert-goer expects to suffer at intervals for the privilege of hearing the star's numbers. Mrs. Eames' support was so marked an exception that it deserves to rank in musical history as an unprecedented combination of really great artist with adequate collaborators."

MONEY TO AID MISS LOUBET

HALF ENOUGH MONEY TO ASSIST SUFFERER IS IN HAND.

Friends of Helpless Patient Injured in Recent Fire Hope to Send Her to San Francisco.
Yesterday's contributions to the relief fund for Miss Anna Loubet totaled $14. The sum on hand is $24 and it is hoped to get at least double that amount. It is now believed the removal of the helpless patient to the County Hospital will not be necessary and that the fund for her care and ultimate removal to the French Receiving Hospital at San Francisco will be raised. The patient's condition was unchanged yesterday. She was able to sit in her cot at St. Vincent's Hospital, propped with pillows. Knowing that with a broken back she can barely hope for complete recovery the young woman remains cheerful. The kindly interest of the American people, she says, makes her burden easier to bear. Her one fear is of the County Hospital, but if Portland is not charitable enough to provide for her in her overwhelming misfortune those who know her say she would bear even the hospital for paupers with Christian fortitude.

Miss Loubet came to her hapless plight through the burning of the State-Room Inn near the Exposition. She leaped from the second story barely in time to escape death in the flames. The only part of her personal effects to escape the fire was a small Bible which she carried with her when she leaped to the earth. Later her rosary was found in the ruins and restored to her.

The contributions received yesterday at the Oregonian office were: Mrs. H. W. Corbett, $10; Mr. A. B. 50 cents; cash, $5; Mr. J. H. Mason, $1; and cash, $1. The few who have responded have been liberal in their donations but it is believed the cause justifies a greater number of contributions. Mrs. Corbett's donation of $10 is the largest that has yet been made.

Select Site for Bronze Statue.

Members of the Park Board, including Mayor Lane, yesterday morning visited the City Park and selected a point near the proposed Lewis and Clark monument as the site of the Sacajawea statue, and it will be removed there from the Exposition grounds without delay, the Board assuming all risk.
Through Oskar Huber, director of works at the Exposition, the city was offered the opportunity of selecting any of the statutory now in the Fair grounds for permanent establishment in the City Park. The group of cowboys will be accepted, and such other selections will be made as will suit the convenience of the Board in handling and placing.

WORKMAN IS KILLED.
Carlo Lognotti Is Struck by Fragments of Broken Pulley.
No inquest will be held in the case of Carlo Lognotti, killed yesterday morning in the Star Box Factory. Harrison and Water streets, by flying fragments from an iron pulley. Deputy Coroner A. L. Finley, after investigating the circumstances, announces that the death was due to an unavoidable accident. Shortly after the machinery was set in motion for the morning's run, the iron pulley gave way and fragments were hurled with great force in all directions. Lognotti was struck in the jaw with a heavy piece and instantly killed. He has a brother living near Portland, but all others of his relatives reside in Italy. He will be buried here.

Governor to Go to Klamath Falls.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Governor Chamberlain will leave November 1 for Klamath Falls, where he will inspect the lands in the Klamath irrigation project. He has been invited to speak at a celebration to be held at Klamath Falls November 4, in commemoration of the opening of bids for the construction of the irrigation system.

ONLY TWO DAYS MORE

Time Getting Short for Getting Art Treasures at the Fair.

Tomorrow night closes the opportunity for getting Japanese art treasures at a sale at the Oriental building, Exposition grounds. The Japanese concessionaires having had exhibits at the Fair, rather than "rescue" their goods, are willing to make a sacrifice in disposing of them. The crowds at the auction during the past few days have been increasing, and the auctioneer, who is known all over the United States, tells the absolute truth about every article he sells.

IMPOSING HEAVIER FINES

Court Determined to Stop Sale of Tobacco to Minors.

Rudolph L. Voelker, who conducts a grocery at 225 Mississippi avenue, was fined $25 by Judge Frazer yesterday for selling tobacco to Ernest Duboise, a minor, and Sam Lichter a cigar dealer at First and Taylor streets was fined $25 for selling tobacco to a boy named Parker. The Court scored the defendants, calling attention to the publicity which was being given to violators of the law for a month past, and said the court was determined to break up the practice. Offenders have been let off in the past with nominal fines of $5. The intention in the future is to make the fines higher, $25 and even $50.
