

CARRIAGE FOR LOOT

New York Thieves Get $10,000 Worth of Silverware.

COACHMAN IS IN LIVELY

While Watchman Is Absent, Entrance to the Store Is Made With False Keys and the Show-cases Are Robbed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—During the absence of the private watchman on guard at Schumann's Sons' jewelry store, at Broadway and Twenty-second street, thieves entered the place today and carried off $10,000 worth of silverware.

The presence of the carriage attracted no attention, and half an hour later the robbers came out, placed their plunder in the carriage and drove away.

The robbery was discovered a few minutes later, when the watchman returned and found the door open.

All the silverware was taken from show-cases in the store. An attempt by the robbers to open a safe in the basement containing several hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewelry was unsuccessful.

POISON DID NOT KILL HIM

Absconding Government Printer Concludes to Face the Music.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Henry M. Allen, an employe of the Government Printing Office at Washington, who last week wrote a letter to the secretary of the committee which he intended committing suicide and that he should be found at a certain spot north of Philadelphia, surrendered himself to the police of this city today.

Allen stated that he was short $200 in his accounts of the Printers' Beneficial Association, which is composed of government printers, and of which he is the treasurer. He stated that he intended to go to Washington and take the train there he purchased laudanum and went to the spot designated in his letter, drank the poison and lay down to die.

The poison did not produce the results desired, and after a long, heavy sleep, he awoke. After that, he said, he decided to live.

Shoofs to Satisfy Revenge.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Seeking revenge upon the man who he declares has mortified the affected wife of Morris Jacobs, a physical culture instructor, tonight shot and perhaps fatally wounded F. H. Force, a painter and paperhanger, besides accidentally shooting two other persons.

The shooting occurred in a saloon, where Jacobs found Force drinking with several friends. As he entered the door, Jacobs fired three shots at Force, one wounding him in the back, the other entering the abdomen, while one of the other two struck Edward J. Fox, porter in the saloon, in the shoulder.

A boy, for whom the police are searching, was hit by a stray bullet from Jacobs' revolver during a storm chase that followed the saloon affray. Jacobs was arrested while he was pursuing Force.

Died After Gay Drive.

DENVER, Nov. 12.—A Republican special from Cody, Wyo., says that R. A. Roth, a wealthy business man of that place, died today soon after returning from a drive with two women well known in the town. Roth was unconscious when the party reached Cody, and physicians who attended him said he was suffering from poison.

The women were arrested, but refused to make any statement bearing on the death of their companion.

None in Mob Recognized.

HENDERSON, Tex., Nov. 12.—All has been quiet here since the lynching of the three negroes this morning. The bodies of the victims were cut down shortly after the hanging and had been claimed by relatives. After the men were hung the mob quietly dispersed. None of those who participated has been identified.

The crime with which the negroes were charged was having killed Miss Howell, a white farmer.

Worked on the Sabbath.

LAFAYETTE Ind., Nov. 12.—While laying a switch a construction crew of the Big Four Railroad, numbering 20 men, and C. A. Pasquette, superintendent of the Chicago division, were arrested today for working on the Sabbath.

LID OFF PANAMA CANAL

Attacks on Commission Force It to Abandon Secrecy.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Nov. 12.—A secretive policy having proven a dismal failure, the Panama Canal Commission has determined to take the public into its confidence to a limited degree, in the hope of allaying some of the unfriendly comments that are going the rounds. Incidentally the Commission hopes to avert a congressional investigation next winter.

From the start the Commission, the present body as well as that which immediately preceded it, took the stand that no information about conditions on the isthmus or work on the canal should be given to the country save through periodic reports to the Secretary of War. Seekers after information were turned away; all official information about progress at Panama was denied.

The result was that public men and the newspapers sought their information from other sources; they sought out men who had been to Panama and the information gleaned from such sources threw much light on the situation and reflected little credit upon the Commission. This information was to the effect that no progress was being made; that sanitary conditions were wretched; that there had been mismanagement; if not corruption, and the impression prevailed that the Commission had squandered $10,000,000 appropriated by the law, Congress and had little to show for it.

Things became intolerable, and the Commission was forced to speak in self-defense, especially when various Senators and Representatives publicly announced their intention of asking for a congressional investigation. First it was officially declared that the sanitary conditions on the isthmus were being materially improved, and that the delay in getting down to construction was due to the preparations for the care of laborers and other employes. Then, to head off criticism because of the extension of the eight-hour law to the canal zone, it was announced that the digging of the canal would be done by contract, thus avoiding the charges of unnecessary delay and the predictions of some engineers that the canal would not be completed in 50 years. It has been officially declared that the canal will be open to commerce not later than 1913, ten years hence, and now comes the assurance that the Commission has only spent about $4,000,000 of the $10,000,000 appropriated.

If the Commission is perfectly frank and continues its plan of publicity, it may escape a Congressional investigation, but if it returns to its old methods of secretiveness, there will be trouble in store. The American people have become accustomed to knowing how great public works progress; they are used to hearing how large sums of public money are spent, and when enterprises of this enormity are put through under cover, the American people become suspicious.

Publicity to all that will save the Panama Canal Commission from scandal and even that remedy may not, in the end, be altogether effective.

NO BILL, SAYS MR. BURTON

APPROPRIATIONS MUST STAY AT LOWEST FIGURE. Why No General Appropriation Will Be Made for Rivers and Harbors at Coming Session.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Post tomorrow will say:

No general river-and-harbor bill will be passed by Congress at the approaching session. This forecast was made by Representative Burton, of Ohio, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, before he left Washington for Hot Springs, Va., for a short vacation.

There are two cogent reasons for not passing such legislation next winter, according to Representative Burton. The first is because a large bill passed last session carried appropriations for all projects deserving immediate attention from Congress; second, the most of the holding down appropriations to the lowest figure to prevent, if possible, another deficit in the Treasury.

ADMIT BUT ONE NEW STATE

Congress Likely to Heed Protests of Two Big Territories.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—When the Fifty-eighth Congress adjourned it was understood that the joint statehood bill admitting two new states to the Union was to be brought forward first thing in the coming Congress, and in the minds of the leaders, the bill prevailed that the much-debated legislation would be put through after brief debate.

It appears now that this program will not be carried out, and there is a strong probability that Congress will admit only one state, comprising Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

When the omnibus statehood bill began it was proposed to create three new states—the one named a state of New Mexico and a state of Arizona. But great opposition was raised to granting separate statehood to New Mexico and Arizona, and after two sessions of fruitless effort it was decided to combine these two territories and admit them as a single state. But that plan failed, partly because of honest opposition, but more especially because the statehood bill became a buffer and was used to kill other legislation which the Republican leaders of the Senate opposed.

In all the fight which has been made on the statehood question, the opinion has prevailed that the Senate committee on territories, whose origin had most of the trouble, did not know very much about the conditions and needs of New Mexico and Arizona. True, the committee made a flying trip through the territories, but it went there with minds made up, and learned little of actual conditions.

During the past Summer many influential Senators and Representatives have been to Arizona and New Mexico, and it is strange to note that these men, who were not junketers, all came back with the opinion that the two territories should not be joined, and with the further opinion that neither should be admitted at this time. These men, seeking accurate information, were stationed to learn what the people of Arizona and the people of New Mexico, that is, the better class of people, were not clamoring for admission. They found them content to remain under present conditions for the time, until they have developed sufficiently to justify Congress in granting them separate statehood. They found the conditions in Arizona very different from those in New Mexico, and, like the people of the two territories, they realized the folly of creating one enormous state of what is now Arizona and New Mexico.

It is impossible to accurately forecast the result, when the statehood bill comes to a vote, but it is evident that the men who visited the territories will make a fight against the joint statehood bill which was brought forward last session, and which it is understood will again be brought forward this winter. Because many of these men have announced their intention of carrying weight, and it is reasonable to suppose that neither New Mexico nor Arizona will have statehood forced upon them.

Separate statehood is out of the question, under present conditions; joint statehood is objectionable to the people of both territories. Under these circumstances, the problem can be readily solved by admitting one state, Oklahoma, with Indian Territory annexed, leaving the other territory to develop.

OPPOSE A RECOUNT

Tammany Points to Decision Written by Judge Parker.

AGAINST OPENING BOXES

New York Court of Appeals Opposed in 1904 on the Ground That Great Danger Was Incurred Thereby.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Charles Knox, the chairman of the Tammany Hall Law Commission, announced today that every step taken by Mr. Hearst and the Municipal Ownership League for a recount of the votes cast at the recent election would be bitterly opposed. Mr. Knox said that the basis for the opposition would be the decision of the Court of Appeals in 1904, written by Judge A. S. Parker, now Mayor McClellan's senior counsel. This decision was against the opening of the ballot-boxes, and is, according to Mr. Knox, the law of the State now.

The language of the decision was to the effect that the opening of the ballot-boxes was fraught with great danger and was inadvisable.

PREPARING FOR A CONTEST

Republican Aldermen Will Win With Municipal Men.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The campaign managers of the Municipal Ownership League continued their activity today in preparing the contest to be made before the Board of County Canvassers this week on the Mayoralty election. The law committee held its quarters open and received additional affidavits in alleged cases of election fraud.

Twelve of the successful candidates for Aldermen on either side of the Municipal ticket or Republicans who had received the endorsement of the league met at the Hoffman House for a conference. It was decided by them to act as a unit in the body, and by fasting with the straight Republican Aldermen the league hopes to control the board.

It was also decided at this conference permanently to keep up the organization of the league, and plans and policies for future political action were discussed. Mr. Hearst gave out a statement tonight advising against the further holding of mass meetings of protest in the present excited state of the public mind.

Black Declares for Weaver.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—Hugo Black, one of the three Philadelphia County Commissioners and a prominent ward leader in the Republican organization of this city, announced tonight that he would in future stand with Mayor Weaver and aid him in carrying out the measures which the people have so emphatically demanded.

Mr. Black, who is now serving his second term as Commissioner, was nominated for a third term, but withdrew from the ticket along with the other candidates as a result of the opposition which developed against the Republican organization during the fight.

SENATORS WHO DISAGREE

Colleagues From Same State Are at Daggers Drawn.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Nov. 12.—The clash during the late campaign between Senator Gorman and Senator Rayner, who will attend the National Mining Congress, has been renewed in the next Senate by men who personally or politically disagree. The estrangement between Gorman and Rayner dates back some years; they have never agreed politically, though both are Democrats. It is a notorious fact that Rayner would never have been elected if Gorman could have prevented it, but Rayner's strong personal following overcame his colleague's opposition. The Maryland Senators will not work together for the interests of the state; they have few friends in common, and Maryland will suffer.

Perhaps the most striking instance of ill-feeling between the Senators from any one state is in Wisconsin. Spooner and La Follette will not mix any more than oil and water. They are bitter political enemies, and each harbors a personal hatred of the other. Yet both are Republicans. Spooner is against everything that La Follette wants, and vice versa. It is doubtful if these two Senators speak, but it will not be the first time such a thing has happened.

For more than a year prior to his retirement, Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, did not speak to Senator Gallinger, his colleague, though a truce was patched up towards the end, a truce of short duration. The intense feeling between Senator Tillman and his late colleague, McLaughlin, reached such a state that Tillman openly struck McLaughlin, creating one of the greatest sensations ever witnessed on the floor of the Senate. Then there was the case of Senator McBride and Senator Simon, of Oregon. They never openly clashed, but each had a knife out for the other, and there were frequent secret thrusts. In the last Congress the relations between Senators Foster and Ankeny were becoming quite strained, but before a crisis was reached Foster retired.

One of the amusing cases of friction in the Ohio instance, where Foraker and Dick are arrayed against each other politically, just as Hanna and Foraker were prior to the death of the general Mark Dick in carrying out the Hanna idea, which are diametrically opposed to the Foraker idea. And yet, divided as are the two factions in the Republican party in Ohio, neither make a life-and-death struggle to defeat the Senator favored by the opposition; Hanna did not demand Foraker's scalp; Foraker will not go out of his way to get Dick's.

The two Senators from Idaho are on anything but friendly terms, personally or politically. One is a Democrat; the other a Republican. Naturally Heyburn will do his utmost to prevent the re-election of Dubois, but Dubois in the meantime has landed some sledgehammer blows, which will hold down material obstacles which Heyburn must overcome before he himself can be returned. Heyburn and Dubois profess to be personally friendly, but it is all for effect. They do not visit together; they do not mingle; they are far apart. Dubois might make terms, but Heyburn does not want to, and his colleague, who is at odds with their colleagues.

There are other instances of similar nature, but these are the most pronounced. Meanwhile the Senate derives lots of amusement from the embarrassment of Senators who are at odds with their colleagues.

AUSTRIAN STRIKE IS GROWING

Government Has Negotiations for a Settlement.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—The employes of the Northern Railroad of Austria tonight joined in the "passive resistance strike." The reiterated of Baron von Frankenthurn, the Austrian Premier, to the effect that the government's proposal to introduce a suffrage project at the next sitting of Parliament this month have been received with satisfaction, and will doubtless go far toward insuring quiet and minimizing effect of the demonstrations. Negotiations are proceeding between the Ministry of Railroads and the representative of the strikers, with a view to a settlement, and there is considerable hope that they will be successful.

The government stands firm against the disorders, but probably will meet the men half way. The strikers are pursuing their "passive resistance" tactics with only partial success.
