

JURY SAYS REIS IS NOT GUILTY Did Not Kill James Foss at Mount Hood in May Last.

AUDITORS SHORT VERDICT More Than an Hour Taken in Deliberation Results in Liberation of Man Incarcerated Since Spring.

THE DALES, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—At 5 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the case of the State vs. Frank Reis for the killing of James Foss on May 11, 1904, in his homestead cabin in the Hood River valley, brought in a verdict of not guilty, after a deliberation of one and a quarter hours.

At the close of the trial, Judge Bradshaw had taken his seat, Deputy District Attorney Fred W. Wilson rose and proceeded to address the jury. For an hour Mr. Wilson presented the state's case. He reviewed the evidence given during the trial up to the point of Mrs. Mary Riggs' story and the statement made by Reis in his own defense.

Mrs. Riggs was the cause. To the presence of Mrs. Riggs in the settlement of Mount Hood, Mr. Wilson said the cause of the crime. Both Foss and Reis were her neighbors, both were admirers and Foss had become violently jealous of his young rival.

Eclectic in his ways and living the lonely life of a bachelor upon his isolated homestead claim, the miseries of jealousy were added to his growing melancholy. The fact that Mrs. Riggs did not reciprocate his affection but added fuel to the fire of his already inflamed imagination, resulting in the outbreaks of violence which had shocked and terrified his neighbors.

San Francisco and Sacramento very materially aided the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to raise the $100,000 bonus asked by the West Railroad people to build into the Falls. About $15,000 was raised in these two cities and the balance is now being made to get the business men to turn all their trade to the men who subscribed to this bonus.

Under the present feeling regarding Portland's attitude toward assisting in getting a railroad into this county it has gone so far that it has been suggested and strongly advocated by some that Klamath County be cut off from Oregon and annexed to California.

During the trial, Reis was most anxious to remain in the courtroom, as he had throughout the trial, beside his mother, anxiety clearly depicted on his face but no embarrassment. He was permitted to remain in the courtroom, and many of his friends and sympathizers occupying their seats in the hope of an immediate verdict.

As Judge Bradshaw pronounced the words a routing round of applause broke from the benches and the crowd closed in about Reis, shaking his hand and evidencing in many ways the popularity of the verdict. After receiving the congratulations of his friends and shaking hands with the jury, Reis was permitted to return with his mother to her hotel, the party being accompanied by a group of retreating friends.

With the acquittal of Reis rises the question of who shot James Foss in his cabin and buried his lifeless remains on May 11, 1904. Blind justice may yet walk abroad in the quiet little community of Mount Hood, and, as in the Norman Williams case, years afterward reveal the murderer.

"IT IS AN OUTRAGE" Register West Expresses His Opinion at Removal.

HIS RECORD IS UNTAINTED Deposed Official States Pleasure at President's Action and Will Now Practice Law and Mix in Politics.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—The title of this column is a comment here over the reported removal of J. B. West, Register of the Lewiston Land Office by President Roosevelt. While Mr. West has not received official notice of his removal, the information appears to be authentic and as a consequence there is much speculation as to who his successor will be.

KLAMATH SAYS SECEDE BASIN IS NATURALLY TRIBUTARY TO CALIFORNIA. People Vexed at Portland's Apathy Turn South Unless Railroad Facilities Are Furnished.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—"What is Portland going to do toward getting railroad communication with Klamath County?" is the question heard among the business men and citizens of Klamath Falls.

Every business man in the city feels the same way regarding giving their trade to Portland. At present everything goes to San Francisco, simply because it is nearer and freight is lower from the Bay City than it is from Portland.

The road, recently purchased by the California Southern, is being pushed this way as rapidly as 250 men and machinery can push it. It is announced that this road has engaged several hundred men from the saw mills and lumbering camps, and as soon as winter closes them down, a much larger crew will be placed on the extension.

San Francisco and Sacramento very materially aided the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to raise the $100,000 bonus asked by the West Railroad people to build into the Falls. About $15,000 was raised in these two cities and the balance is now being made to get the business men to turn all their trade to the men who subscribed to this bonus.

Under the present feeling regarding Portland's attitude toward assisting in getting a railroad into this county it has gone so far that it has been suggested and strongly advocated by some that Klamath County be cut off from Oregon and annexed to California.

During the trial, Reis was most anxious to remain in the courtroom, as he had throughout the trial, beside his mother, anxiety clearly depicted on his face but no embarrassment. He was permitted to remain in the courtroom, and many of his friends and sympathizers occupying their seats in the hope of an immediate verdict.

As Judge Bradshaw pronounced the words a routing round of applause broke from the benches and the crowd closed in about Reis, shaking his hand and evidencing in many ways the popularity of the verdict. After receiving the congratulations of his friends and shaking hands with the jury, Reis was permitted to return with his mother to her hotel, the party being accompanied by a group of retreating friends.

With the acquittal of Reis rises the question of who shot James Foss in his cabin and buried his lifeless remains on May 11, 1904. Blind justice may yet walk abroad in the quiet little community of Mount Hood, and, as in the Norman Williams case, years afterward reveal the murderer.

"IT IS AN OUTRAGE" Register West Expresses His Opinion at Removal.

HIS RECORD IS UNTAINTED Deposed Official States Pleasure at President's Action and Will Now Practice Law and Mix in Politics.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—The title of this column is a comment here over the reported removal of J. B. West, Register of the Lewiston Land Office by President Roosevelt. While Mr. West has not received official notice of his removal, the information appears to be authentic and as a consequence there is much speculation as to who his successor will be.

KLAMATH SAYS SECEDE BASIN IS NATURALLY TRIBUTARY TO CALIFORNIA. People Vexed at Portland's Apathy Turn South Unless Railroad Facilities Are Furnished.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—"What is Portland going to do toward getting railroad communication with Klamath County?" is the question heard among the business men and citizens of Klamath Falls.

Every business man in the city feels the same way regarding giving their trade to Portland. At present everything goes to San Francisco, simply because it is nearer and freight is lower from the Bay City than it is from Portland.

The road, recently purchased by the California Southern, is being pushed this way as rapidly as 250 men and machinery can push it. It is announced that this road has engaged several hundred men from the saw mills and lumbering camps, and as soon as winter closes them down, a much larger crew will be placed on the extension.

San Francisco and Sacramento very materially aided the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to raise the $100,000 bonus asked by the West Railroad people to build into the Falls. About $15,000 was raised in these two cities and the balance is now being made to get the business men to turn all their trade to the men who subscribed to this bonus.

Under the present feeling regarding Portland's attitude toward assisting in getting a railroad into this county it has gone so far that it has been suggested and strongly advocated by some that Klamath County be cut off from Oregon and annexed to California.

During the trial, Reis was most anxious to remain in the courtroom, as he had throughout the trial, beside his mother, anxiety clearly depicted on his face but no embarrassment. He was permitted to remain in the courtroom, and many of his friends and sympathizers occupying their seats in the hope of an immediate verdict.

As Judge Bradshaw pronounced the words a routing round of applause broke from the benches and the crowd closed in about Reis, shaking his hand and evidencing in many ways the popularity of the verdict. After receiving the congratulations of his friends and shaking hands with the jury, Reis was permitted to return with his mother to her hotel, the party being accompanied by a group of retreating friends.

With the acquittal of Reis rises the question of who shot James Foss in his cabin and buried his lifeless remains on May 11, 1904. Blind justice may yet walk abroad in the quiet little community of Mount Hood, and, as in the Norman Williams case, years afterward reveal the murderer.

"IT IS AN OUTRAGE" Register West Expresses His Opinion at Removal.

HIS RECORD IS UNTAINTED Deposed Official States Pleasure at President's Action and Will Now Practice Law and Mix in Politics.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—The title of this column is a comment here over the reported removal of J. B. West, Register of the Lewiston Land Office by President Roosevelt. While Mr. West has not received official notice of his removal, the information appears to be authentic and as a consequence there is much speculation as to who his successor will be.

KLAMATH SAYS SECEDE BASIN IS NATURALLY TRIBUTARY TO CALIFORNIA. People Vexed at Portland's Apathy Turn South Unless Railroad Facilities Are Furnished.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—"What is Portland going to do toward getting railroad communication with Klamath County?" is the question heard among the business men and citizens of Klamath Falls.

Every business man in the city feels the same way regarding giving their trade to Portland. At present everything goes to San Francisco, simply because it is nearer and freight is lower from the Bay City than it is from Portland.

The road, recently purchased by the California Southern, is being pushed this way as rapidly as 250 men and machinery can push it. It is announced that this road has engaged several hundred men from the saw mills and lumbering camps, and as soon as winter closes them down, a much larger crew will be placed on the extension.

San Francisco and Sacramento very materially aided the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to raise the $100,000 bonus asked by the West Railroad people to build into the Falls. About $15,000 was raised in these two cities and the balance is now being made to get the business men to turn all their trade to the men who subscribed to this bonus.

Under the present feeling regarding Portland's attitude toward assisting in getting a railroad into this county it has gone so far that it has been suggested and strongly advocated by some that Klamath County be cut off from Oregon and annexed to California.

During the trial, Reis was most anxious to remain in the courtroom, as he had throughout the trial, beside his mother, anxiety clearly depicted on his face but no embarrassment. He was permitted to remain in the courtroom, and many of his friends and sympathizers occupying their seats in the hope of an immediate verdict.

As Judge Bradshaw pronounced the words a routing round of applause broke from the benches and the crowd closed in about Reis, shaking his hand and evidencing in many ways the popularity of the verdict. After receiving the congratulations of his friends and shaking hands with the jury, Reis was permitted to return with his mother to her hotel, the party being accompanied by a group of retreating friends.

With the acquittal of Reis rises the question of who shot James Foss in his cabin and buried his lifeless remains on May 11, 1904. Blind justice may yet walk abroad in the quiet little community of Mount Hood, and, as in the Norman Williams case, years afterward reveal the murderer.

"IT IS AN OUTRAGE" Register West Expresses His Opinion at Removal.

HIS RECORD IS UNTAINTED Deposed Official States Pleasure at President's Action and Will Now Practice Law and Mix in Politics.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—The title of this column is a comment here over the reported removal of J. B. West, Register of the Lewiston Land Office by President Roosevelt. While Mr. West has not received official notice of his removal, the information appears to be authentic and as a consequence there is much speculation as to who his successor will be.

KLAMATH SAYS SECEDE BASIN IS NATURALLY TRIBUTARY TO CALIFORNIA. People Vexed at Portland's Apathy Turn South Unless Railroad Facilities Are Furnished.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—"What is Portland going to do toward getting railroad communication with Klamath County?" is the question heard among the business men and citizens of Klamath Falls.

Every business man in the city feels the same way regarding giving their trade to Portland. At present everything goes to San Francisco, simply because it is nearer and freight is lower from the Bay City than it is from Portland.

The road, recently purchased by the California Southern, is being pushed this way as rapidly as 250 men and machinery can push it. It is announced that this road has engaged several hundred men from the saw mills and lumbering camps, and as soon as winter closes them down, a much larger crew will be placed on the extension.

San Francisco and Sacramento very materially aided the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to raise the $100,000 bonus asked by the West Railroad people to build into the Falls. About $15,000 was raised in these two cities and the balance is now being made to get the business men to turn all their trade to the men who subscribed to this bonus.

Under the present feeling regarding Portland's attitude toward assisting in getting a railroad into this county it has gone so far that it has been suggested and strongly advocated by some that Klamath County be cut off from Oregon and annexed to California.

During the trial, Reis was most anxious to remain in the courtroom, as he had throughout the trial, beside his mother, anxiety clearly depicted on his face but no embarrassment. He was permitted to remain in the courtroom, and many of his friends and sympathizers occupying their seats in the hope of an immediate verdict.

As Judge Bradshaw pronounced the words a routing round of applause broke from the benches and the crowd closed in about Reis, shaking his hand and evidencing in many ways the popularity of the verdict. After receiving the congratulations of his friends and shaking hands with the jury, Reis was permitted to return with his mother to her hotel, the party being accompanied by a group of retreating friends.

With the acquittal of Reis rises the question of who shot James Foss in his cabin and buried his lifeless remains on May 11, 1904. Blind justice may yet walk abroad in the quiet little community of Mount Hood, and, as in the Norman Williams case, years afterward reveal the murderer.

Gold Seal THE WINE OF CLUBMAN AND CONNOISSEUR America's Favorite Champagne Special Dry-Brut Possesses a pungency, bouquet and sparkling head equaled by no others.

CROSETT SHOE $3.50 $4.00 "MAKES LIFE'S WALK EASY" It's called a Flying Machine, and you'll have more good fun with it than any plaything you ever had.

See what I have! It's called a Flying Machine, and you'll have more good fun with it than any plaything you ever had. Resides, it doesn't cost you a cent.

DAMIANA Bitters The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher In Use For Over 30 Years.

DR. W. NORTON DAVIS & CO. We treat successfully all private venereal and chronic diseases of men, also blood, stomach, heart, liver, kidney and throat troubles.