SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Jan. 5 .- (Spe. cial.)-Bob Fitzsimmons arrived here at 9:30 P. M. and proceeded direct to the Cataract Hotel, where his wife has apartments. Information of his coming had reached Mrs. Fitzsimmons, and with several friends, made since her arrival in Sloux Falls, she took up a place of vantage in one of the front upstairs windows of the hotel, and was able to catch a glimpse of Bob as he stepped from the bus and entered the building. . In the lobby of the hotel he was met by Judge Frank R. Aiken, attorney for Mrs. Fitzsimmons, and they engaged in a brief conference in reference to whether Mr. Fitzsimmons desired to see his wife at once. He expressed such a desire, and Judge Aiken arranged the meeting. At 10:45 o'clock the conference was still in progress.

That Fitzsimmons would not have been disappointed had he not been permitted to see his wife is indicated by a remark he made on the train when approaching Sioux Falls. To a question as to whether or not be intended seeing his wife, be

"I am going to send a card up to her room. If she desires to see me, all right; if she does not, all right."
At midnight it was officially announced that the efforts of Fitzelmmons to effect a reconciliation with his wife had re-sulted unsuccessfully.

CACERES WILL AID TREATY

Morales Sought Its Defeat, Says Dominican Consul.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.- That the death of General Rodriguez, who led the Morales insurrection in San Domingo, will be the death blow to the uprising was the opin-lon expressed yesterday by Fablo Fiallo, Consul-General of Santo Domingo, in this

According to Senor Fiallo, President Caceres can give far more substantial aid to the pending treaty between the United States and Santo Domingo. He further declared that General Morales incited the revolution to defeat the treaty. In discussing the relation of the treaty to the present political disturbance in the country, the Consul-General said:

"General Morales" special aim was to make certain provisions of the treaty the neans of establishing his own personal power. This explains not only the friction with the Cabinet, but the mistrust with which the people generally at first re-garded article VII of the treaty, by which the Washington Government was empow-cred to help with arms and ammunition the Dominican executive whenever the latter should require such aid for the re-establishment of order.

"Had the treaty been submitted to the United States Senate without any amendment to article VII, Morales would not have gone to the revolutionary party. His support the French claims. that eventually might give him dictatorial powers, or else provoke American inter-

"Happily, President Caceres can give a ere substantial aid to the treats than Morales could. He not only has the full confidence of the Cabinet and his party, but has, moreover, the co-operation of Emiliano Tejera, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, without doubt the most intial man in San Domingo."

The news of the killing of General Rodriguez in the fighting at Puerto Plata was a shock to his friends in this city, where he lived for some time. He was a graduate of Fordham College.

ment of Ilwaco harbor, on the Columbia River. Major Langfitt and other local engineers who examined this harbor rec-ommend its improvement to the extent of an eight-foot channel to the wharves. This can be accomplished for $29,000, but it will cost $15,000 a year for maintenance. They state that the commerce of this port does not justify such expenditure, but be-lieve the Government should provide an adequate channel in order to afford satisfactory water communication with Fort Canby, located just beyond Hwaco.

General Mackenzie, Chief of Engineers, does not concur in the recommendation of his subordinates. He takes the position that the Army engineers are interested only in improving waterways in the in terest of commerce. This improven being primarily of benefit to the Army, should be made at the expense of the Army. This view will be concurred in by the rives and harbor committee, so, if liwaco harbor is ever improved, it must be by special act of Congress, not by au-thority of the river and harbor bill.

Morley Alone Declares for Home Rule, Others Declare It Impossible - Little Opposition to Nationalist Candidates.

LONDON, Jan. 6 .- John Morley, Secretary for India, speaking at Arbroath, Scotland, last night, said that personally he believed the only effective method of reform for Ireland would be an elective. representative body which would have control of Irish affairs under the direction of the Imperial Parliament. However, he stood ready to co-operate in any scheme involving a less radical depar-ture if it could be shown that such a scheme would assure the reforms needed. Ex-Premier Balfour addressed his con stituents at Manchester last night, but had some difficulty in securing a hearing. His speech was frequently and notally in Tacit Agreement With Irish.

Ireland's fate in the present election fight raises an interesting problem. While the Conservatives are doing their utmost to foment feeling in the country against the Liberals on the ground of their home rule tendencies, a tack agree ment, it would seem, has been arrived at between the Liberal and Irish lead-ers to defeat the tactics of the Conservatives, Ireland itself remains quiescent. Michael Davitt, speaking at St. Helens last night, said: "Ireland is in a state of angelic political calm. In no less than 78 out of her 162 constituencies no Chamberlain nor any advocate of labor dare intrude his Liberals Oppose Home Rule.

While the Irishmen are thus avoiding any excitement of public feeling, Liberal leaders are speaking as with one voice to the effect that home rule is im-possible in the next Parliament: in fact. that it is impossible altogether until the country has had the opportunity of giving a special mandate on the question.

Mr. Burrell, president of the Board of Education at Bristol, and Winston Churchill, at Manchester, both expressed this view, Mr. Churchill making this most interesting announcement on the question:

"Time has largely vindicated the views held by Mr. Gladstone in 1885. While there never was a time like the present, when the greater mass of opinion is arrayed against anything in the nature of a startling plunge in the Irish policy, there never was a time when a greater number of sensible, patriotic people were prepared to give fair and unprejudiced consideration to Irish affairs, to admit that a wrong system of government prenumber of sensible, patriotic people were prepared to give fair and unprejudiced consideration to Irish affairs, to admit that a wrong system of government prevalls in Ireland, and to approach without passion one of the most difficult but out passion one of the most difficult but tariff relations with Canada will depend on the result of the general election in Great Britain. It says: Great Britain. It says:

The administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is piedged to the formulation of a maximum and a minimum tariff as a scientific substitute for the chaos of the present system. Germany and the United States will pay the maximum and Great Britain the minimum, but both Germany and the United States will speedfly negotiate for reciprocal treatment. The issue obviously is dependent on the election. If Mr. Chamberlain obtains a mandate to discuss preferential treatment with the colonies, neither Germany nor the United States will be able to obtain the privileges of the minimum or preferential privileges of the minimum or preferential scale, no matter what consideration they may offer. If, on the other hand, Mr. Chamberlain, through an overwhelming maity, should fail to obtain such mandate the United States and Germany will in the end obtain what they require.

Some of the members of the Laurier administration and some of the newer corporations in Canada which helped the Liberal war shest are distinctly pro-American, but neither the pro-American politicians nor the American companies dare set themselves in opposition to a people unanimous for preferential treatment. Mr. Chamberiain's defeat, however, would release all these latent forces in opposition to the imperial idea and would so make for a commercial rapprochement with the United States.
