

ALL FOR THE SLOGAN

Commercial Club Decides to Enlarge the Scope of Its Work.

MUST BOOM THE STATE

Good Accomplished in the Advertisement of the Commonwealth - Through Lewis and Clark Fair Not to be Sacrificed.

"This is not the time to stop, to lag or to call a halt to the Portland development, of advertisement and of laudation of the state; it is the time to go on. There is a great future for the West and for Oregon and the people here must help in the building of it. The railroads will force the opening of the Columbia River bar by the traffic they will bring for the shipment across the sea and the people will come with the tide of immigration now flooding the Atlantic shore without letting down the bar to the Chinese coolie and his labor. California must take its part in the work of civic advancement for Oregon, for Oregon has the spirit without the soulless that are eating out the heart of the California under the sun.

Should Blow Its Own Horn.
Portland should blow its own horn, and loudly, for it is in good taste to do it. Go to the advertisement of the state and of the city as was done with the promotion of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, get every one to help in the advancement of the state so that each will feel himself an integral part in the movement to make Oregon great and will work and talk and act. For the spirit, interest and money of the whole people into the work and success will come."
This in brief space of words is a statement of the executive committee of the Portland Commercial Club as they discussed the future work of the promotion committee at the banquet given by T. H. Wilcox last night. There was not a dissenting voice to be heard when it was planned to continue the work for another year, or longer. No one could be found who had any doubt that all the work and expense and effort of the past year had not been expended for the good of all and with grand success.

Work is Promoted Good.
The work that has been carried on by Tom Richardson, secretary of the club, under the direction and the assistance of President H. M. Coker and the members of the executive committee, was pronounced to be good and to have borne fruit for the future of Oregon.
Those who had pledged money for the inception of the work, more than a year ago, renewed their pledges last night, and in the majority of cases doubled the amount. It is assumed that the work of the promotion committee will be continued through the coming year on a larger and more effective basis.

Tom Richardson's Statement.
Tom Richardson followed with a statement of the work that had been done and of some which remained yet to be undertaken. He stated that the promotion committee had secured money for advertising of the state and had been instrumental in bringing many people to Oregon during the year past. He said that one of the things to be done in the coming year was to bring the convention of the hotel men of the United States to Portland. He would like to see $500 set aside for prizes to be given for articles written on Oregon by teachers visiting the National Teachers' Convention in California and printed in papers throughout the East. The convention of the hotel men of the state, and $50,000 a year would not be too large a sum. The time had come for the state to blow her own horn as other cities were doing and this could be done without loss of dignity.

Everybody Should Assist.
Whitney L. Bose thought that all people in the state should be asked to assist in the work of advancing the interests of the state. If each one was asked to assist, with money and effort, all would give aid with voice and money and effort.
The other members of the committee who spoke were unanimous in their opinion that the work should be carried on through another year, and at the close of the evening it was decided that even more support should be given the work in the coming year than has been given in the year now past. It was estimated that the executive committee of the club should be enlarged by the addition of several more members representative of interests not now included, and that the scope of the work should be broadened. A large committee will be named to raise a sum sufficient to carry on the work for the coming year. It was also estimated that the work of the promotion committee should be broadened and extended in its purpose of advertising Portland, Oregon and the Northwest.

GEN. LOGAN'S GRANDSON

He Passes Examination for Second Lieutenant in Marine Corps.
Logan Tucker, of Illinois, who recently passed number one in the competitive examination for the position of second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, is a son of Lieutenant Colonel W. F. and Mary Logan Tucker, and a grandson of General and Mrs. John A. Logan.
He is the only one of General Logan's grandchildren who has ever seen the general. General Logan lived, young Logan would have been in the service long as he inherits the enthusiastic patriotism and military talent of his grandfather. At the death of his uncle, Major John A. Logan, Jr., his mother felt that she could not allow her son to take the chance incident to the service which had proved so fatal to her brother, and, therefore, induced him to decline the commission tendered first by President McKinley and again subsequently tendered by President Roosevelt.
Upon joining his parents in Manila a year ago the old fever to be in the Army came over him so strongly that his parents withdrew their opposition and allowed him to apply for an appointment in the service. President Roosevelt expressed his desire to give General Logan's grandson an appointment, regretting he had not felt to be able to accept the one tendered him before, so he found an opportunity by appointing him to a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps and designating him for the first examination to be held. Secretary Morton gladly added Tucker's name to the list which was then being prepared for the next examination.

He is a fine specimen of a man, tall, well developed and without a single defect physically. He has a fine mind, absolutely fearless, indefatigable in the accomplishment of whatever he sets out to do, kind, generous and manly in every sense of the word, and it is not too much to claim for him a brilliant career. His father being in the service, he has traveled extensively in his own country, abroad and in the Orient, and is familiar with the discipline, rules and regulations of the service.
Personally, he is universally popular and loyal to his friends. He has his grandfather's well-known supreme contempt for the pretensions of unworthy acts and enters the Corps unusually well equipped for whatever orders he may receive, and will perform his duty gallantly, cheerfully and with credit to his name.

What the Press Agents Say.
MATINEE TOMORROW.
George Ade's Comedy, "The College Widow," at Marquam.

Innocent Maids.
The "Innocent Maids" burlesque company takes this week for its special matinee the regular burlesque matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon and performance each evening at 8:15. It is entirely different from the usual burlesque shows of the season, in that it offers a departure in the burlesque line which far eclipses anything heretofore seen in the music line, even at the leading theaters. While the costumes, scenery and electrical effects are all that could possibly be desired by the most exacting. Manager Tomkins has given his greatest attention to the cast itself, with the result that he has selected a company that could give an entertainment of any theater in the country.

At Cripple Creek.
A true picture of life in one of the greatest Western mining camps in the world is "At Cripple Creek," which will be at the Emphie all this week. The scene for the sensational and grand from the first to the last act. The exciting rescue of Martin Mason's victims in the Temple of David, the rescue of Belle Jordan in the "Ladies' Mine," and the saving of little Tattio by the Sioux Indian Waketah, are some of the startling climaxes of the drama. The scenic effects are elaborate and the stage effects being the heaviest ever used in a drama. A picturesque crowd of miners and Mexicans add to the intense realism of the scene.

BUYS VANCOUVER PLANT

Portland General Electric Gets Control of Lighting Company.
H. W. Goodie, president of the Portland General Electric Company, in conjunction with Eastern capitalists, has just completed the purchase of the entire holdings of the Vancouver Electric Light & Power Company. It is understood that the price paid was in the neighborhood of $300,000.
Mr. Goodie last night announced that the new owners have under contemplation extensive improvements in the entire system at Vancouver. The plant at present has a capacity of furnishing power for between 10,000 and 15,000 lights. New machinery will be installed, which will double this capacity. Many other improvements will be made, necessitating an outlay of about $50,000 during the coming year.
The purchase was made, Mr. Goodie asserts, because of the confidence he and his associates have in the future of Vancouver. The plant at present is one of the most complete owned in any city of the same population in the Northwest. However, it is thought that the large extent contemplated are well justified by the prospective growth of Vancouver during the next few years.
No change will be made in the management of the plant. R. H. Harby will retain his present position of president and manager. Mr. Harvey has been connected with the plant since 1902. Up to 1891 it was owned by the city, but was operated at a loss.

"VICTOR" VS. "BITULITHIC"

Mr. Huber Speaks of Superior Merits of the "Victor" Pavement.
To Property-Owners: Before signing a petition to improve any street with hard-surfaced pavement, we respectfully request of you to give our representative an opportunity to explain to you the merits of our "Victor" Pavement on Concrete Foundation," with brick gutters. This pavement will not cost the property-owners as much as the bitulithic pavement, which has no concrete foundation. Our "Victor" will save you four inches of concrete foundation, a form of construction recognized as the standard base for highways by engineers of every important city in the United States, and two inches of wearing surface. The bitulithic specifications, on the other hand, provide for four inches of broken stone foundation, a form of construction now considered obsolete, and discarded by every city where it has ever been used, notably so Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia, Pa., and even under bitulithic surface in St. Louis and two inches of wearing surface. Very truly yours,
THE BARBER ASPHALT PAVING CO.
By Oskar Huber, Manager.

Arrested for Insanity.

J. Selzer, who conducts a dyeing, cleaning and tailoring establishment on Sixth street, near Morrison, was arrested for insanity yesterday, on complaint of his wife. Selzer appears to be perfectly sane, and says his wife pursued him for the purpose of revenge. Last Summer she had him arrested on a charge of larceny, which was dismissed, and later she caused him to be taken into custody on another criminal charge, which was also dismissed. Something definite will probably de-

FRONT ELEVATION OF STRUCTURE TO BE ERRECTED ON NORTHRUP STREET, BETWEEN TWENTY-FIRST AND TWENTY-SECOND STREETS.

Although the American Inn, like most of the buildings upon the Exposition grounds, is to be razed to the ground by the hand of the wrecker, the materials of which it is composed are destined to be of more permanent service than those of some of the other buildings. Dr. John Carlyle, the purchaser of the Inn, is now erecting a large apartment-house on the north side of Northrup street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second, and the work used in its construction is to come almost entirely from that building.
The three-story apartment-house which is being constructed occupies an entire quarter-block, but the dimensions are only 50x75, giving plenty of room on each side for light and air, no matter what buildings may be erected upon the adjoining lots. Only to the large portion of the material which is being taken from the American Inn, the building will cost only $15,000, but will be one of the most commodious and well-finished frame structures of the kind in the city. It will be known as the Washington.
The building will be thoroughly equipped with telephones, speaking tubes and elevator service. There will be four five-room apartments to each floor and each suite will be supplied with a tiled bathroom. On the ground floor there will be a large and elegantly-furnished reception hall in the center of the building. The space above this hall will be left for an open court. The occupants of each floor will have the use of a spacious front porch. Richard Martin, Jr., drew the plans. Dr. Carlyle recently came here from Seattle. He has great faith in the future of Portland and announces that this is only the first of a number of similar buildings which he will erect in this city.

OUTLAWS FOR OAKS

Baseball Grounds to Be Established by Street Railway.
Is the O. W. P. & Ry. Co. to back an outlaw baseball team in this city next season?
That is the question that is agitating local baseball circles for the present. It has been rumored for some time that the advocates of the old Northwest League circuit are planning the invasion of Portland in opposition to the Pacific Coast League, and the only tangible clue as to who was behind the move has come to light through the intention of the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company to erect a commodious ball park in connection with its resort known as The Oaks. That it intends to erect a ball park at The Oaks is an assured fact, and according to the plans of the O. W. P. officials it is not intended merely for the accommodation of amateur and semi-professional teams, but eventually to be the home of a regular league baseball club. General Manager Hurburt, of the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company, has had some experience in baseball affairs, for he was one of the principal promoters of the erstwhile Lucas league that held forth at Mr. Hurburt's East Side ball grounds for a short time in 1903.

SCHEME OF THE O. W. P.

Wants the Revenue Which Would Come From the Fans Who Would Ride on Its Car Lines During the Season.
The immense revenue accruing to the West Side roads by reason of the crowds attending the local ball games has caused the O. W. P. officials to desire to secure some of the trade, and as their lines do not extend to the regularly patronized ball park, it is evidently their intention to establish an opposition team. In this matter they will receive the co-operation of the Lucas league supporters, and some Dugdale enthusiasts who are desirous of opposing anything that is established, "just for the sake of competition."
Dugdale, Lucas and company have their eyes on Portland, for they well know that unless they acquire a foothold in this city their time-honored scheme of restoring the old Pacific Northwest circuit will be of no avail, and on that account they can be depended upon to use their utmost endeavors to place Portland on their baseball circuit for the coming season. Tacoma is an assured adjunct to the Lucas league territory, for it will undoubtedly be dropped by the Coast League, and if the plans of the "Fat Boy from Ballard" carry any weight, the Seattle club will call it quits and refuse to continue the struggle for existence in the Coast League. In the event that Dug wins out in the Seattle affair, the efforts of the combination will be directed toward Portland, and the probabilities are that the Oregon metropolis will again have two teams in the field.

Revenue From Transportation.

Spokane Wants Baseball.
Spokane is hungry for baseball, and would gladly welcome any league that would furnish it with the brand of ball it had in the days of the first Pacific Northwest League, and would readily join hands with Seattle and Tacoma in an effort to establish a team in Portland in a four of six-club circuit. Aside from the fact that the O. W. P. Co. intends to erect the park, nothing definite can be learned of those behind the movement.

Beats Employer and Takes Watch.

Kinzie Collins, who had been employed as a laborer at the house of J. Lafayette Caples, at St. Johns, became embroiled in an argument with his employer about 9 o'clock last evening, and ended the argument by striking Caples over the head with a skillet, and grabbing his victim's gold hunting-case watch and chain, made his escape. Will Caples, a son of the victim of the assault, telephoned the affair to the police headquarters immediately, and detectives were sent to the junction of the St. Johns car line, but were unable to locate the assailant at a late hour.

WILL MAKE FIGHT

Richards Will Offer Stout Defense.

CLAIM OF THE POLICE

They Declare That It is a Disorderly House, While Proprietor Asserts It is a Hotel and Restaurant Combined.

ADMINISTRATION'S "RAIDING" POLICY.

The policy of the Lane administration, according to Acting Chief of Police Grittmacher, is to enforce the laws on the city's books as they are found. Relative to the raid made at midnight Saturday on the establishment owned and operated by Thomas L. Richards, the head of the department states that he had left it all to Acting Detectives Kay and Jones, of Captain Bruhn's staff.
It is the intention of the administration officials, says the Chief, to leave all such work to the police, Jones, whose only instructions are to inform themselves on the conduct of all hotels, restaurants and saloons, and to raid any place at any time, they being expected to use good judgment and to make no mistakes.

A battle-royal is scheduled to begin Thursday morning in the Municipal Court between the City of Portland and Thomas L. Richards, proprietor of a well-known establishment at Park and Alder streets. He is charged with operating a disorderly house and violating the box ordinance. Deputy Prosecutor Fitzgerald and the police department purpose waging a hard fight to convict the defendant on both counts, while he has engaged the services of Attorney C. M. Idleman, and intends to contest every inch of the ground.

Raid on Richards.

Acting Detectives Kay and Jones, assisted by other officers, raided Richards' establishment at midnight Saturday, and arrested two men and two women. Several others escaped because the detail of police were not properly placed. The plans were to capture every inmate, but in respect a bungle occurred. Enough were taken, however, to begin proceedings, and Richards now stands accused of two offenses.

It is the claim of the police that the establishment conducted by Richards is nothing more or less than a disorderly house and drinking-shop combined. It is alleged that the proprietor keeps private boxes and maintains in the restaurant for the purposes of drinking, and that in the rear, connected by an alleyway, is a house that is used for immoral purposes. The police claim to have evidence sufficient to prove these allegations, and officers will be placed on the stand who will swear that Richards has never altered his establishment in any respect since the passage of the box ordinance.

Defense Will Fight Hard.

It is presumed that the defense will deny every portion of the complaints now filed, and that every inch of ground will be contested. Richards maintains that he is operating a proper place, it being, he contends, simply a restaurant and hotel.
Acting Chief Grittmacher declared yesterday that for the raid on Richards' establishment Acting Detectives Kay and Jones frequently cited his attention to Richards' place, saying they heard many complaints against it, and that he always told them to do as they thought best about making a raid on the place. They watched it Saturday night, he said, and thought the time had come to raid it.

Fourth-Street Franchise Discussed.

At a special meeting of the Judiciary and elections committee of the Council yesterday, called to consider the question of the ordinance introduced by Councilman Vaughn for the Fourth-street franchise of the Southern Pacific Company, W. brief with the committee opposing the proposed action of the legislative body. Mr. Fenton also made a short argument in support of his contentions, in the course of which he recited the interesting history of the entrance of the railroad company into this city, quoting from the Oregonian of April 18, 1888, to show when Oregon was first broken on that day about 89 yards from the residence of W. Lair Hill, in Carthage Addition, near the terminus of Fourth street.

E. J. Mann was on hand prepared to make an argument in favor of the forfeiture of the franchise, but the committee decided to postpone further investigation for two weeks.

C. M. CLARK COMING HERE

Will Look Over Portland Railway Company's Affairs.
C. M. Clark, of the firm of E. W. Clark & Co., of Philadelphia, which now owns the Portland Railway Company, and is expected to arrive in Portland some time during the month to look over the property of the corporation.

He is the technical man of the company and makes it his business to be in the city to make Portland one of the different properties owned by his associates. While in Portland he will make an examination of the mechanical side of the Portland Railway Company, and it is possible that some changes will spring from his visit in the way of enlarged facilities for handling the business and a faster schedule. Mr. Clark will be in Portland about the last of the present month or the first of February.
