GROCERT STORE ROBBED.-The grocery store of Albert Johnson, on the northeas orner of East Stark and Twentieth creets, was entered by a burglar yesterday morning at an early hour, at first without disturbing Mr. Johnson, who was sleeping in a room back of the store. The burglar cutered the store through the front window, by breaking the glass. In entering he missed setting off the burglaralarm fixed for such emergency. He broke open the telephone box, securing about $2. Then he gathered up a few articles in the store, when, while rummaging around, he set off the burglar alarm which awakened Mr. Johnson, who realhed at once what was taking place. His object now was to effect the capture of the burglar, and so calling in Mr. Bennett, a near neighbor, they guarded the builduntil the patrol wagon with policewas found that the burglar had escaped. When he touched off the burglar alarm he sprang through the front window and

SNYDER'S FATHER COMING

Kansas City Man Will Investigate · Disappearance of His Son.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 19,-R. N. Snyder, a well-known financier of New York, re-ceived a telegram today from Portland, Or., indicating that his son, Carey Snyder, had been murdered by men suspected of a bank robbery concerning which young Snyder was supposed to know too much. The bank rubbed was at Forest Grove, Or., and the authorities at Porest Grove and Portland notified the police of this city tonight that they suspected Carey Snyder, "Pinky" Blitz and George Perry of committing the robbery. Blitz and Perry, who are cousins, are notorious po-lice characters here, and Snyder has been involved in serious trouble.

R. M. Snyder said today that he did not believe his son had been killed, but that he would go to Portland soon to investigate the case. He thinks that his son has run away to escape trial on a charge of shooting cattle which has been preferred against him to Oregon.

Carey D. Suyder, the young man re-ferred to in the dispatch, disappeared mysteriously from Hillsboro on December 4. He was sent to Hillsboro a year ago by his father, who purchased a farm about ten miles north of that town. The farm was encumbered with a morigage for $50, which was to have been paid off by the young man, according to his agree-ment with his father, who sent him out West on account of the mode of life he had been living in Kansas City. When he disagragated his wife, together

When he disappeared, his wife, together with a number of his friends, entertained the suspicion that he had met foul play, but the authorities are inclined to think that the young man skipped out to avoid trial for having shot a cow belonging to a neighbor, which trial was set for the next day after his disappearance. A rumor was also in circulation to the effect that Snyder was implicated in the robbing of the Porest Grove Bank on the morning of December 2. Although admitted by the authorities that there is no evidence to connect young Snyder with the robbery nevertheless they entertain strong suspi-cions that he is implicated in the affair, clons that he is implicated in the am and the foul-play theory is scouted them on that acco

At the annual meeting of Multnomah Engine Company No. 2. Benevolent Association, held at the City Hall, Thursday evening, the following officers were elected: George Tuttle, president, vice Adolph Burckhardt, deceased: Joseph Buchtel, vice-president; R. T. Chamberlain, secre-tary, and C. H. Dodd, treasurer; George Tuttle, Joseph Buchtel and Prank Wascher were elected trustees for the term three years.

The following resolutions of respect were adopted for the memory of the late president of the association:

Whereas, in the mutation and change of this mortal life it is a stern decree that the meny twilight of death shall blot out the golden huse of life; Autumn that the requiem shall not only be sung, but its harmonies be broken by sobs and tears of the loved ones;

Adolph Burckhardt, our president, our coun-sellor, our friend and leader, is dead. There will be many sad hearts and tear-dimmed eyes when this is made known to all who knew him. Noble, faithful, forgiving, patient, gen-erous and wise, he led our councils for many years, and always with a stern justice and re-

They say that if they take over the property of the Oregon Traction Company every cent of the liabilities of that corporation will be paid and that the stockholders will have every dollar of their investment refunded. The United Railways Company, however, is not ready to build the Forest Grove line, unless it receives other franchises in Portland, so that it can go ahead with its other projects.

"I have visited Portland several times." said W. D. Larrabee, who is at the head of the United Railways Company, "and I believe that there is a great opening here for an up-to-date interurban system. Just what the routes of our lines would be what the routes of our lines would be with the exception of the one to Forest Grove, we cannot say at present, for ob-vious reasons. It would, however, be a complete system. We have millions to spend in this enterprise, and only ask that your city give us the right to use its streets for our connections.

THEY LEFT GAS TURNED ON

Two Young Women Are Nearly Asphyxlated Before Rescued.

Miss Lena Hoffman and Miss Permosa, young women of about 18 years, occupy-ing a room above the saloon of the for-mer's father, Henry Hoffman, Union and Hawthorne avenues, were rescued from Hawthorne avenues, were rescued from death from asphyxiation by gas at an early hour Thursday morning. When Mr. Hoffman went to their room to arouse them he detected the odor of gas issuing from the door, which was closed and locked with the key still in the lock on the inside. It was not possible to unlock the door with the key in the door, and the girls could not be aroused. Realizing

THE GILTNER-FORRESTER NUPTIALS

EDMOND C, GILTNER, the popular secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Zors Mae Forrester, of Gresham, were married, yesterday afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bruce Wolverton, pastor of the Christian Church in Portland, who went down for the occasion. Thirteen persons made up the bridal party. Miss Georgia Glitner, sister of the groom, and Miss Porrester, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaids, and Pinkerton C. Patterson, of Portland, the fiance of Miss Glitner, was best man. The others in the party were: B. F. Glitner, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Forrester, their two young sons and two aunits of the bride.

I hope there were many plastic and impressionable minds at the Marquam Grand Theater last evening, when Louis James played "Virginius." played "Virg I have rem embered up to now, and will

I have remembered up to now, and will remember all the rest of my life, the inspiration, the hope, the mental exhilaration, the eternal heauty of that glorious play when first I heard it from the lips of John McCullough and Mary Anderson. It is the highest compliment that I can pay Mr. James and Miss Aphle James—and also an earnest acknowledgment of the godsend to the world they themselves are—when I hope that meny malicable. are—when I hope that many malicable mentalities, not too old to relish life's grand possibilities and young enough to feel true heart throbs, were there last night to listen to the worthy successors of of the greatest names in the history of the American stage.

If there be any who came to that theater (and I believe the house was full of superb rendering of this star we have among us, then they are richer by an experience that will add to their character and belp them until their dying day.

This grand epic of Rome's decadence was spoken nearly to its fullest height.
So wonderfully does it cause every soul to vibrate in responsive thrill to many of the holiest, tenderest and most lofty emotions of which mankind is capable, that the actor but plays upon his audience as on an instrument producing melodies and on an instrument producing melodies sad and sweet and solemn, and creating rever-berations that will never be forgotten. To let such truth and feeling sound into the depths of your soul strengthens the sinew of your nature and is of fasting value, just as is the memory of a sainted mother's spoken precepts.

The voice of James and his skill in de lineating Virginius is mainly responsible for the importance and substantiality of this uncommon impression I am endea oring to describe. I was also delightedly amazed at the delicute grace that marked the role of Virginia in Miss Aphie James. Her flutelike tonality and maddenly inno-cence, the tenderness of her filial manifestations, her fear, her terror, her love, her trust—she was just the object on which Virginius' great devotion could center. Futher and daughter have never had a lovellag poetral. loveller portrait. Mr. James' Virginius is his best and most potent part. In the company, Charles Stedman is a sterling man, who is very welcome in these plays. He plays with unction and strength. Mr. Hackett made love to Virginia in a convincing way. William Thorne looked Nu-mitorius and made the noble uncle stand out prominently. Arthur Young is a hard-working actor and a regulation "heavy." Appius Claudius he displayed a quick intellect, but he mars a capital per-formance by an annoyingly throaty meth-od of enunciation.

"Ingomar" this afternoon, and "Merchant of Venice" tonight, then good-bye for a year to charming Mr. James and his tine influence. A. H. BALLARD.
