PREFERS LIFE IN CITY

Tells Judge Cameron That Slavery Is Abolished, but Is Warned to Choose Between the Farm

"I thought I sent you to the County Parm," said Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday morning, when Jim Hill was brought out and arratement on "Yer Oner, I wuz ordered to go. and I started out," Jim replied, "but I'd ruther ye'd set up gallows for me." "Why did you return?" asked Deputy

City Attorney Fitzgerald.
"The road was too rough," said Jim.
"How far did you get?" asked Judge Cameron. "Oh, I guess about to the city limits," replied Jim.

"Well, what are you going to do now?"
asked the Judge.
"Work fer an honest livin', as usual,"
said Jim. "I have allus carned my livin'
and will keep ut up."

and will keep ut up."

"Yes, but you come in here one day and go out the next; you do not earn a living and you are making too much trouble." said Judge Cameron. "The County Farm is the proper place for you, and you've got to go there."

"I thought, Yer Oner, that slavery was abolished in 1861," drolly replied Jim.
"Yes, the farm is the place for you, Ilm." said Judge Cameron.

Jim." said Judge Cameron.
"Whut good am I there?" queried Jim.
"I can't milk a cow, fer I've tried ut, and I'm no hand on a farm; I like the

"I'll give you this one chance," said Judge Cameron. "You will go to the County Farm, or serve 90 days in jail. I can't afford to have you coming in here very day or so."

Jim is expected to return to court in a

"I will not decide that a woman is dis orderly or a vagrant simply because an officer says so, or because they have been before me in the past, especially when they swear they have reformed." declared Judge Cameron, in announcing his decision in the cases of Bertha Hayward and Mrs. Glenn Brown. "The testimony must be absolutely complete and convincing in such cases to bring conviction."
The two women were arrested by Acting Detective Kay in John Conrad's saloon, and the only evidence that they were disorderly was that given by Kay. Both defendants swore that they had reformed.

Rosa Van Vleet, arrested by Patrolman
Galbraith, was very obstinate and angry. Galbraith, was very obstinate and angry, and refused to answer any question. She admitted that when "mad" she used unprintable language, and Judge Cameron fined her $50. She was charged with being drunk, but pleaded not guilty. When taken to headquarters Wednesday evening, she nearly tore down the jall, and at last had to be shackled by Matron Simmons to been her in check. nons to keep her in check.

Joe Stutt was fined $25 for permitting

Myrtle Cox, a minor, to enter his saloon and purchase liquor therein. The young woman was taken into the place by a lating the I o'clock closing ordinance by keeping open his saloon at 475 Williams avenue, until 1:46 A. M. He had previously been fined for a similar offense. Lee Sing pleaded guilty to having lottery tickets in his possession, and was fined £10.

M. Miller, charged with larceny from the person, was sent to the City Jail for ten days for contempt of court. He was angry because his case was continued, and used profamity.
