

GALLOWS FOR ALL SAYS McPARLAND

Dynamiters Cannot Escape the Toils.

EVIDENCE IS NOW COMPLETE

Many Are Involved in Murders by Infamous Club.

MORE ARRESTS TO FOLLOW

Funds of the Western Federation of Miners Are Alleged to Have Been Used to Pay Assassins for Taking Lives.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—"Heywood, Moyer and Pettibone will never see Colorado again," says James McParland, head of the detective agency employed by the State of Idaho to run the Steunenberg case. "Their days are numbered. We have absolute evidence that will convict them of complicity in the foul assassination of ex-Governor Steunenberg, and evidence that will convict a great many others, too, of the same offense."

"They cannot escape in any possible way, and the legal knowledge of all their attorneys cannot keep them from the gallows. You can say for me that the day of dynamite outrages in the West is at an end. Heywood, Moyer and others know that they are guilty, and they know that their time has come. The Steunenberg assassination was the final straw that broke the camel's back and was their undoing."

"But it was no worse than the Independence outrage, the murder of Collins in Telluride, the blowing up of the Smuggler-Union mine, the Vindicator killing, the Stewart assault or the many other crimes for which they were responsible," continued McParland, this morning in the denunciation of the three men. "The anarchists at the head of the Western Federation of Miners will never trouble this state again."

Hiding Under Flimsy Disguise.

"We got Vincent St. John in Burke, Idaho, last night. He has been there under the clumsy disguise of John Vincent, ever since he left this state. He will be prosecuted with the others. There will be a great many surprises to the people of this state before the case is ended and all the arrests have been made."

"I cannot state how many more will be taken into custody, or where those arrests will be made, but there will be enough of them before this case ends."

"I was employed by the State of Idaho, not by the mineowners, to run down the Steunenberg case. I went to work January 10, after Orchard had been arrested, and I did not cease my labors until last week. The evidence against all of these men is so strong that they cannot possibly escape punishment this time."

Orchard Did Not Assist.

McParland states that Orchard did not assist in the running down of the alleged conspiracy, and that Orchard did not charge Heywood and Moyer with the crime.

The next question was the connection of Heywood and Moyer with the assassination club. Governor McDonald was furnished evidence in plenty that the treasury of the Western Federation of Miners had been used to the extent of many thousands of dollars in aiding Orchard, Pettibone, Sam Adams, Thomas Hogan and several others.

Evidence was also forthcoming to prove that the leading spirits in this plan of wholesale assassinations had associated with Heywood and Moyer. It is not charged that either of the officers arrested had taken a direct part in the murder of Steunenberg or the killings in this state, but it is made evident that they or one of them, must have known what they were paying large sums of money for to such men who were fugitives from justice.

Confession of Many Pages.

A bulky confession, containing over 1000 words, from Orchard, sets forth that the Western Federation of Miners were privy to the deeds and the aims of the men, who had been paid large sums from the treasury of the Western Federation of Miners, but the single confession of this man Orchard is not relied on.

Corroborative proof of what Orchard confessed regarding the operations of the Dynamiter Club was found in Denver. He confessed to plots that were on foot in this state to do murder, and he told where the explosives that were to be used could yet be found. This confession was transcribed and a copy submitted to the authorities in Denver. They went to the spots designated by Orchard and found the bombs. These instruments of death were to have been used against public officers in this state who had taken part in the overthrow of the Western Federation.

In the Idaho courts, Heywood and Moyer will be given an opportunity to clear their skirts, and, should they escape Idaho, the Colorado authorities will have something to say.

Startling evidence is in the possession of the authorities of this state regarding the hitherto mysterious death of Merritt B. Wallri, who was blown up on a vacant lot at Colfax and Emerson streets, last May. Many stories were advanced at the time.

The deceased had been a mining engineer in Leadville and Cripple Creek, and was an opponent of the Western Federation of Miners and subsidiary unions. His body was blown to pieces by a nitro-glycerin bomb. The police could find no clue. The Colorado Mineowners' Association and relatives and friends employed detectives who worked for months, always tracing the mystery to the organized gang of dynamiters, but never quite able to secure evidence against the individuals.

It was known that Wallri had been followed that morning by a man on a bicycle. With the confession of Orchard the matter is made plain. The man on the bicycle trailed him until he reached the vacant lot and threw the explosive or placed it where he was certain Wallri would strike it.

Pettibone Has a Record.

Pettibone, who was arrested at the same time Heywood and Moyer were taken in charge, is notorious in the Cour d'Alene, and was connected with the outrages on the Sullivan mine, at Wardner, which brought the Federal troops to the scene. He was arrested by the troops. For some time past he has been living in Denver, and has been around the headquarters of the Federation of Miners. He is connected by strong evidence with the assassination of Steunenberg.

Denver was the head center of the Dynamiters' Club. The refugees from Cripple Creek and Telluride and other places gathered here and planned assassinations by the wholesale. It is stated by those who are in possession of the confessions and the testimony of the witnesses that the club and its doings will be brought dangerously home to all the men now under arrest.

First Appearance of Orchard.

Orchard was well known in Cripple Creek. The first time he came into prominence was previous to the discovery of the plot to deal a train of miners in a cut near Independence, when he was in some way connected with the local union. It is asserted by those who have seen his confession that he was one of the men selected to do the work of the "Inner Circle" whose duty was to initiate a reign of terror which would cause the mineowners to end the strike in favor of the Western Federation of Miners.

When the case came to do the work that would wreck the train and throw it down the embankment, Orchard willed and alleged he gave information that prevented the horror. But this is doubted, as the next heard of him was in Denver, where he says he drew from the treasury of the Western Federation money for services rendered. Soon he became a valued member of the "club" and was let in on all of the jobs. Through his connection with the "club" he was able to know of all the plots concocted.

History of Many Crimes.

In his confession, it is said, Orchard tells the history of the blowing up of the Independence mine, June 6, 1904, when 40 people were marked for death and 12 fell victims. He gives facts of the murder of Martin Gleason, a mine superintendent, who was brutally stabbed and his lifeless body later thrown into a shaft to give the crime the appearance of accidental death. He recites the facts of the blowing up of the Vindicator shaft, when Shift Boss Beck and Foreman McCormick went to their doom.

All this and more, Orchard freely confessed to, calmly detailing what part of the dastardly work he himself performed. That executed by his own masterly hand he explained could be distinguished easily. His ingenious mind was responsible for many sensational devices in executing plots wherein the deadly dynamite was the weapon of death.

Orchard referred particularly to the blowing up of the Independence depot and the Vindicator shaft. The mechanism of the machines that were both to destruction was of the same pattern. Both machines with the set pistol and wire attachment were identical. It was a master stroke for him in making such a mechanical appliance to perform the deadly work, he seemed to think.

In these two crimes, Orchard, it will be shown by the confession when that document is given to the public, was the leader.

HEYWOOD WAS LONG WATCHED

Wife Says She Expected He Would Be Kidnaped.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 19.—John C. O'Neill, editor of the Miners' Magazine, Western Federation of Miners' official organ, now in charge of the federation headquarters in Denver, denies that Harry Orchard was in the employ of the Western Federation of Miners or received any cash from the association. He says Orchard's family was cared for after his deportation from Cripple Creek by the federation, as were the families of other deported miners.

John C. Williams, of Grass Valley, Cal., is on his way to take charge of the headquarters of the federation in the Cour d'Alene. Attorney F. M. Richardson left for Idaho last evening to appear for Heywood and Moyer. He will apply to United States Federal Court for a writ of habeas corpus and will fight the case for the federation officials in the courts.

Mrs. W. D. Heywood has been an invalid for several years; she expects to see her husband set free in a short time, and is not worried over the outcome. Mrs. Heywood states she expected the kidnapping for several weeks, as it was known that Heywood was being shadowed.

O'Neill says that mineowners were responsible for the blowing up of 12 men at Independence depot, near Cripple Creek, June 6, 1904, and he challenges the Mine-Owners Association to try any of the federation men for the crime.

O'Neill alleges evidence will be brought out in the trial which will put the blame on the owners' association. The Colorado workingmen object to the methods used in getting the accused officials outside of the state. They blame Governor Jesse McDonald with catering to the mineowners and violating the constitution.

having charge of the powder magazine. During the period of his employ his life was several times threatened by anonymous letters, and he was given the privilege, on showing these letters to the

SWIFT SPECIAL BRINGS TO BOISE

Federation Officials, Charged With Complicity in Steunenberg Murder, in Jail.

PRISONERS VERY RETICENT

Train on the Way From Denver Does Not Stop at Principal Cities, and Engines Are Chained at Obscure Points.

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 19.—(Special.)—On a special train that made no stops at the principal cities and towns on the way from Denver, and changed engines and took water at obscure points, Charles E. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners; William D. Haywood, secretary of the same organization, and G. A. Pettibone, a former member of the executive board of the federation, who were arrested in Denver Saturday night charged with the murder of Frank Steunenberg, ex-Governor of Idaho, arrived at Boise this morning in custody of a strong guard of Idaho and Colorado officers.

The officers in charge of the prisoners were Adjutant-General Bulkley Wells, of Colorado; Colonel D. W. Strickland, of the Governor's staff; Meldrum, Watson and Fisher, operatives of a detective agency, and James Mills, Deputy Warden of the Idaho Penitentiary.

The train left Denver at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, and reached Boise at 9:15 this morning. A large crowd was at the Boise depot. The train would have been in two or three hours earlier had it not been for a hot box. Nothing occurred during the journey out of the ordinary.

The prisoners seemed ill at ease and had little to say. They entertained themselves part of the time playing cards, and kept their own counsel. At no time did they discuss the charge upon which they were arrested.

The party was taken to the Penitentiary in two vehicles. Arriving there, they were searched, their belongings being taken in charge by Warden Whitney. They were assigned to separate cells. While they were in the office Attorney Richard Cunningham, of Silver City, stepped in and walked up to Haywood, who was in the office. Warden Whitney stopped him at once.

Cunningham stated he had known Haywood at Silver City and done business for him. The Warden asked him if he were Haywood's attorney, and Cunningham said he was not. The Warden then, in response to a question, said no one would be allowed to speak to the men without an order from Attorney Hawley or the Governor.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

WAS HE DYNAMITER'S VICTIM?

Suspicion Revived That Federation Killed Ingram at Rossland.

ROSSLAND, B. C., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—The revelations in regard to the dynamite operation of the Western Federation of Miners have revived the question whether the explosion which killed John S. Ingram, ex-Chief of Police of this city, at the Center Star mine recently, was not due to conspiracy against his life instead of accident, as the coroner's jury decided.

Ingram quarreled with the Miners' Federation seven years ago, since which time certain members of the federation at the union meeting filed charges against him and endeavoring to have him removed from his position as Chief of Police, which he held for two years. This resulted unsatisfactorily. He was afterwards deposed from the police force, and during the strike of 1904 he was actively engaged in bringing into the camp non-union miners from Winnipeg and elsewhere. In 1902 he was again appointed chief, and served for a year and fought the federation while in office.

In 1902 he accepted a position with the War Eagle and Center Star Companies.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

During the formalities in the office Haywood and Pettibone smiled, but Moyer was as impassive as an Indian. The Denver officers will leave for home in the morning.

police authorities, of carrying firearms for his protection.

The circumstances attending the explosion which resulted in his death were suspicious to some people, though no direct evidence has ever been procured to prove that his death was the result of the deliberate act of his enemies, but there are a few who believe that his death was not due to accident. He was most careful in the performance of his duties and brave and fearless.

Arrest Made at Cripple Creek.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 19.—Information reached here tonight from Cripple Creek that Edward Green, a Federation man, had been arrested on a warrant forwarded by the Idaho authorities, charging him with connection in the Steunenberg assassination. Two other warrants are in the hands of Cripple Creek officers.

DYNAMITE BOMBS DUG UP

PLACED TO KILL SUPREME JUSTICES IN COLORADO.

Orchard Gives the Locations and a National Guardsman Goes to Denver to Give Testimony.

DENVER, Feb. 19.—Publication was made today of the complaints on which Governor Gooding, of Idaho, based requisitions for Charles H. Moyer, president, and William D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, and G. A. Pettibone, a former member of the executive committee of that labor organization. From these it appears that the men, who were secretly arrested here Saturday night and hurriedly removed to Idaho, were charged directly with the murder of ex-Governor Frank Steunenberg, of Idaho, and not merely with being accessories to the crime.

The complaints and requisitions in the three cases are identical, and charge the accused men with having discharged the bomb, by means of which Steunenberg was killed at Caldwell, Idaho, December 26, 1905. The specific charge of murder was made, it is explained, in order to forestall habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of the accused men, but no attempt will be made to prove that they were in Idaho at the time of the commission of the crime. It is alleged, however, that they conspired with others to murder Steunenberg and furnished funds to carry out the plot.

The atrocious murders committed during labor troubles in the Cripple Creek and Telluride districts in this state, which have been shrouded in mystery, the ex-Governor of Idaho charges.

House passed bill to encourage anti-foreign movement. Page 5.

President recommends lock canal for Senate free-way for vote on pure food bill. Page 4.

Supreme Court renders important decision against railroad. Page 1.

President declines to accept creation of forest reserve. Page 1.

Longworth's way to Florida and Cuba. Page 4.

Woman interrupts performance at theater by shouting on stage. Page 4.

Labor strike causes practical civil war in Colorado. Page 1.

Hawaii's new law on excise rate to Pacific Coast for summer. Page 16.

Packers summon government official as witness in case against them. Page 5.

Suit begun by Mutual Life against McCurdy. Page 5.

McCarthy alleged to have "doped" winner of Idaho race. Page 1.

Gans and Sullivan matched to fight at Los Angeles. Page 7.

Police Court.

Detective McPherson says Federation officials will be hanged. Page 1.

Special train from Denver arrives at Boise with the prisoners. Page 1.

Valencia investigation commissioners find rough weather in the Straits. Page 6.

Five tract in the Deschutes Valley to be put under water. Page 5.

Strife over right of way in Naches Valley is ended. Page 5.

President Dr. woman is heir to millions. Page 6.

Commercial and Marine.

Renewed movement in local box market. Page 11.

Stock market well supported. Page 15.

Buying activity causes strength in wheat at Chicago. Page 15.

Oregon potato situation at San Francisco. Page 15.

Charles B. Dox leaves Martin docks for term of five years. Page 14.

Dock owner proposes to raise deep-sea vessels ballast charges. Page 14.

Schooner Virginia makes remarkably fast run from San Francisco to Columbia River. Page 14.

Portland and Vicinity.

Four big deals in Portland realty consummated. Page 16.

Argument for Jew Nun, who shot Lee Yee and threatened to kill him. Page 10.

Differential eliminated the Port of Portland put on equality with Puget Sound in wheat shipments. Page 1.

Three hundred thousand Japanese are starving and twice as many more in dire need, and Portland plans to help them. Page 11.

If effort to close saloons in Sunday on Sunday succeeds, Anti-Saloon League will try to close all such establishments in Portland. Page 11.

Vote in his own says Congressman Masters, and he will not be influenced by church petitions. Page 16.

Many terrified for hours by man who threatened to kill his members. Page 16.

Many Republicans file their petitions, but only Tom Wood among the Democrats has done so. Page 10.

CIVIL WAR AMONG COLORADO MINERS

Miners' Federation and Mine- owners Rule by Physical Force.

EACH CONTROLS ONE CAMP

Silverton Under Domination of Anar- chist Organization, While Tel- luride Forcefully Excludes All Members From Its Borders.

PUEBLO, Colo., Feb. 19.—(Special.)—Governor McDonald, of Colorado, may be called upon at almost any day to repeat the action of Governor Peabody and call out troops to suppress an outbreak of what will be practically civil war in min- ing camps.

In two districts in the San Juan region the tension between the Western Federation of Miners and the nonunion men, backed by the mineowners, is so strained that no man can say how long it will be before the breaking point is reached.

Telluride, under the control of citizens and mineowners since Governor Peabody sent militia there last year, is a veritable fortress, guarded on all sides to prevent an incursion of Federation forces.

Silverton, always under the complete domination of the Federation, and only 25 miles distant as the crow flies, is likewise an armed camp, with every avenue of entrance guarded and no "suspicious characters" allowed to enter.

Trains entering Telluride are searched and men who cannot give a satisfactory account of themselves, or who are suspected of being union emissaries, are promptly ordered away.

Sheriff Minion of Anarchists.

In Silverton the Sheriff of the county acts as chief watchman and bouncer. He is a creature of the Miners' Federation, guards its interests and obeys its mandates faithfully. His deputies are unionists and the union employs others in the work of keeping nonunion men out of the camp. Open boasts are made that the Federation will raid Telluride and drive out the "scabs" and "Citizens' Alliance," but the Telluride men are defiant, declaring they will never again be dominated by the Federation.

Some years ago Telluride was a union camp. Its largest mine, the Smuggler-Union, had become unprofitable through the shiftlessness of the union miners, and the owners made a proposition to place the men on piece work and abandon the daily wage system. This was scornfully rejected by the Federation, and when the management insisted the men struck. The mine was closed and hundreds of men were thrown out of work. A compromise was effected, and the mine was reopened. Eighteen months ago the miners struck for an eight-hour day with out change in wages. The company closed its mine and imported miners until it had a large enough force to resume.

One day a band of armed Federation men marched to the company's mill, shot several nonunion men and seized the mill. The workmen were compelled to leave, armed men driving them out of the district over rocky trails, beating and robbing them on the march.

Charles S. Thomas was then Governor. He sent his Adjutant-General to investigate when the Telluride mineowners asked for troops. The Adjutant-General reported that no troops were needed, as the camp was peaceful.

Mine Superintendent Murdered.

Another compromise was made with the Federation and the Smuggler-Union was again started. Then the millmen struck for an eight-hour day, the miners walking out with them.

Soon after this Superintendent Collins, of the Smuggler-Union, was assassinated. He was sitting in his office in the evening, playing whist with a party of ladies and gentlemen, when some one crept up to a window and shot him in the back.

Another mine superintendent went to a livery stable for his horse one evening when he was seized and dragged outside by armed men. He drew a revolver, but was disarmed and beaten. He was heard

ADAMS IS FOUND AT HAINES

Wanted at Boise in Connection With Steunenberg Case.

BAKER CITY, Or., Feb. 19.—A detective late today located Steve Adams, alias Steve Dickson, said to have been a member of the Western Federation of Miners, who is wanted by the authorities at Boise in connection with the Steunenberg murder.

Adams was found at Haines, from where he had fled after the shooting at Baker City to Sheriff Brown. The Sheriff and a deputy went to the place and arrested Adams. He was brought here and lodged in jail tonight. Adams is cool and collected and refuses to talk.

Little Known of Simpkins.

HAINES, Or., Feb. 19.—Little is known here of the man Simpkins mentioned in dispatches from Boise, Idaho, some months ago, but he is reported to have gone to Western Oregon. He is said, however, to have been in Oregon several years and he bears a good reputation.

Argue for Alaska Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The Lovering bill to construct Alaskan railways by guaranteeing the interest on their bonds was considered again by the House committee on territories today. John E. Ballaine, of Seattle, declared that, though the placer wealth of the territory has only been scratched over and the quartz properties have scarcely been touched, it is impossible to do anything with or unless better transportation be provided.

W. B. Poland, of Seward, Alaska, chief engineer of the Alaska Central Railway, urged the necessity for such a measure as the Lovering bill.

Rich Coal Man Shot Dead.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 19.—J. H. Hill, president of the Park Coal Company, and one of the wealthy men of the Guyandotte Valley, was shot and killed today by Erwin Porter, 35 years of age, with whom he had quarreled.

The camp was terrorized, the city and county officers being mostly Federation sympathizers, and Telluride leaped into a state of practical anarchy. Merchants and others who had dealings or were friendly with the Smuggler-Union people were boycotted. Men who made efforts to find the murderer of Collins, or who denounced the deed, were driven away or made victims of outrages.

Brave Editor Declares Himself.

One day the editor of the Daily Journal defied the Federation by charging it with the murder of Collins and calling upon all good citizens to hunt down and punish the assassins. It charged the Federation with concealing and protecting him. That this brave editor lives today seems nothing short of a miracle. He was boycotted, ostracized, and attempts were made to wreck his office and drive him out of town. Merchants who advertised in his paper were forced to quit it until he was reduced to one paying local advertiser.

He kept up the fight, and finally the seed he had planted bore fruit. The reign of terror grew worse, and when the Cripple Creek Federation caused trouble which resulted in the seceding of militia there, Governor Peabody was called upon for help by the Telluride mineowners. He sent a state officer to Telluride, who reported that troops were needed there. Peabody sent the troops and a Citizens' Alliance was formed. The county officers who had sympathized with the Federation were forced to resign and good men were put in their places. Nonunion men were imported, and the big mines, all of which were closed when the mill outrage occurred, were reopened. As soon as the green men gained skill as miners development increased until today Telluride is perhaps the most prosperous camp in the state. It has several mines which are yielding better than the Smuggler-Union, the best mine in the camp. The latter is now worked entirely on the leasing system, and is not only paying its lessees well, but is more profitable for the company than ever before.

Dare Not Send Out News.

The only untoward feature of the Telluride situation is its irregularity. The people know they have done right and deplore the fact that they must maintain a vengeful attitude and guard against invasion of Federation organizers and agitators. But they know, too, that this same guard is the only guarantee they have for the continued peace and prosperity of the camp. That a clash will come between the Federationists at Silverton and the nonunionists at Telluride is freely predicted by men who know the situation.

It is difficult to get news from either Telluride or Silverton regarding the conditions prevailing. Correspondents living there who gave the facts would be promptly deported. The Telluride people know they are right, but do not care to have the world know just what is going on at Telluride. The Western Federation of Miners has had so much trouble the past few years that it seeks to prevent the publication of its doings and has placed an embargo on news from Silverton. The correspondents at both places, graduates from the school of experience through the shifting sands of labor troubles, send out legitimate mining and routine news and avoid all reference to labor conditions.

Inner Circle Still Busy.

It does not appear that the lesson taught the Western Federation by Governor Peabody and General Bell will prevent that organization from renewing hostilities in Colorado, but the outbreak may be postponed until the danger from snowdrifts is over and the mountain roads and trails are passable.

The recent attempt to poison Mr. Peabody and his family and the threatening letters received by Mr. Peabody, General Bell and members of the Cripple Creek Mineowners' Association prove that the