Horse Killed by Lave Wine—A fine bay horse owned by Albert Ordway was killed yesterday morning at the intersection of Hawthorne avenue and East Twentieth street, and Ordway narrowly excaped losing his own life and also his other horse. Mr. Ordway was driving his team to a lumber wagon west on Hawthorne avenue, and turned on the street extending through the Ladd Fleid, when a very slender wire that hung across a large electric street-car feed cable came in a very siender wire that hung across a large electric street-car feed cable came in contact with the horse. The wire had scarcely touched the animal when the horse dropped as if shot to the ground, where he lay with the wire entangled around his hind legs and back, carrying fully 500 voits, which was surging through the horse's body. The other horse was standing close by, but had not yet been touched. At the risk of his life, Mr. Ordway succeeded in unhitching the uninjured horse and getting him out of danger. All this time electricity was slowly burning the horse's hind legs and body, although the animal was not yet dead. After some little delay the cable carrying the heavy voltage was cut, but it was then too lais, as the horse was dead. Mr. Ordtoo lair, as the horse was dead. Mr. Ord-way said he valued his horse at $250, as he was a large and powerful animal. Mrs. C. M. Woods Spray.

Mrs. C. M. Woods Speaks.—Mrs. C. M. Voods, president of the Home Training Association, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Mothers' and Teachers' Club yesterday afternoon at the Brooklyn School assembly hall. Mrs. Wood's address received close attention. Mrs. Armstrong read an original poem, which was well received. Miss A. L. Dim-ick told what was being done along philanthropic lines. It was reported that a clock for Brooklyn School would be pur-chased. Announcement was made that the federation convention would be held this evening in Unitarian Church. There was a large attendance. Mrs. Thomas NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE.-The Weatherly Creamery, on Bast Morrison street, had a close call yesterday from a fire that might have "destroyed the building. The case is a very singular one. It was found that in some way the electric wires that feed the electric motor in the rear of the building got crossed. The metal casing around the motor was melted with the heat, and the woodwork was burned and blackened by fire, but the fire was in some way extinguished, but how is not known, unless it was smothered by the smoke. When discovered, there was no fire to be seen, but the work of the

DARRACH'S SHAKESPEAREAN RECITAL

THE second of a series of three Shakespearean recitals by Marshall Darrach was given last night at the White Temple before a large and appreciative audience, which turned out in spite of a heavy drizzle. "Julius Caesar" was rendered by Mr. Darrach, who proved even more impressive and effective in tragedy than in the com-edy, "Twelfth Night," which he re-cited Thursday night. His interpretation of such parts as Julius Caesar, Brotus, Marc Antony and Cassius was powerful. His version of Antony's oration over the body of Caesar was especially well delivered. During the many interse scenes Mr. Darrach held the attention of als audience so closely that the dropping of a pin could have

OFFENSES IN BAY CITY

Will Return to San Francisco Tonight Under the Charge of an Officer With Requisition Papers.

Mrs. E. S. Gordon, known also as Mrs. Bertha McCord, whose maiden name was Bertha E. Lerch, a fugitive from justice, ccused of beating boarding-house-keepers and hotel proprietors, of forgery and of innumerable other offenses, will leave tonight for San Francisco with Detective

Detective Ryan arrived from Salem last night, where he obtained requisition papers from the Governor yesterday. He left San Francisco Tuesday night for Portland. Detective Ryan is well acquainted with Mrs. Gordon. He believes that the woman is capable of almost anything, and says the stories, except the counterfeiting one, told about her do not surprise him. prise him.

She is not capable of engineering any "She is not capable of engineering any counterfeiting scheme," said Detective Ryan last night, "though she may be an accomplice of a band of spurious coinmakers, but I can hardly believe that."

Mrs. Gordon will be taken back to San Francisco on a fugitive-from-justice warrant, but will face other charges which are held against her if she escapes pun-

Mrs. Gordon has not only swindled her own father. A. Mrs. Gordon has also, up to date, not set-tled with the management of the Portland Hotel, where she owes a bill for a month a room rent. She is also said to have forged two checks on the Bank of California for two checks on the Bank of California for $500 each, having signed the name of her husband. E. L. Gordon, so cleverly that the signature fooled the bank officials. She admitted, in a letter to Dr. Vo-winckle, which she wrote before decamp-ing, that she was not the wife of E. L. Gordon, and had only assumed his name to help her out in personal transactions.

Through making such an admission she has got E. L. BACK PAY FOR EBERMAN Executive Board Recommends It Be for salary from the patrolman during the time he was under suspension for being mixed up in a row at his Seventh-atreet lodging-house, last Summer.

The police committee of the body dismissed Eberman from the force on account of this episode, but on appeal to the Municipal Civil Service Commission, the finding of the police committee was reversed and Eberman restored to duty. His salary for the period of his suspension amounts to about $85, and upon the advice of Attorney McNary, a resolution was adopted recommending that the Council appropriate this sum for him.

Peter Rasmussen was appointed a special policeman for the Title Guarantee & Investment Company's bank, and J. W. Inakeep was named as a special for tendays to assist Patrolman Kay.

Frank L. Gillin, a ladderman of truck company No. 3, was ordered discharged from the fire department for neglect of duty. According to Chief Campbell, Gillin was in the habit of doing pretty much as he pleased around the department, as he pleased around the department, coming and going whenever the spirit seized him. Last January he was fined 230 for being absent, but even this pro-ceeding did not produce the desired result so he was let out peremptorily, as it was hinted that any further leniency might have bad moral effect.

Emil L. Neisel was appointed a temporary machinist in the fire department, and the balance on hand, as shown by the report, is $55. The property was heavily rary machinist in the fire department, and at the request of C. A. Cogswell, chairman of the street-cleaning department, six more men were added to that force. The wages of C. De Groat, James Hayden and Alex Mitchell were also increased is a month each temporarily for extra services in the street-cleaning department. City Attorney McNary rendered an opinion that the fire department could legitimately expend $60 in the purchase of a machine lathe, and the Council was asked to make the necessary appropriation.

Bids for sewer work were opened as follows: imbered with mortgages, and was sold to satisfy indebtedness, and moneys were used to pay running expenses, and for Smith, and allege that they were not per-formed wholly in the interest of the es-tate. The foreclosure of a mortgage on the home property by August Kloaterman, it is alleged, was due to the fault and deception of Mr. Smith. It is averred by the objectors that there was sufficient property to pay all of the indebtodness, includent erty to pay all of the indebtedness, includ-ing the mortgage debt, and that Smith said he would do so, but falled, and Mrs. Said he would do so, but tailed, and Mrs.
Sechtem redeemed the home by giving her individual note and mortgage.

Objection is made to the sale of property to Jacob Unger, subject to a mortgage for $4500, as unfair, and for less than Sewer in East Main street-J. B. Slemmons, $63.44; George Gordan, $68.19; Bechill Bros., $673.35; John Keating, $632.24. On account of the urgent demand for the construction of sewers in Hawthorne avenue and East Main street, a resolution gage for $600, as unfair, and for less than its actual value, and also to the transfer of certain property to Henry Weinhard.

Other similar objections are made, and also to the expenditures made as detailed in the report. Mrs. Christina Sechtem was executrix, but says she took no particular part in the management of affairs, and that Mr. Smith conducted the business of the estate, sold the property, paid the debts and handled the money.
