BACK TO MOUNTED PATROL

SAM D. WHITE RETURNS TO HIS OLD DUTY.
He Objected to Kay's Stool-Pigeon Method and So Suffers for His Temerity.

For criticizing the methods of Acting Detective Kay, Sam D. White, for three weeks working as Kay's partner, has been transferred back to mounted patrol duty. This is a rebuke, administered by Acting Chief of Police Grismacher, to please Mayor Lane. The rebuke is very frequent and is said to approve of his tactics in handling the job of driving the disorderly women of the city into the vice quarter north of Burnside and east of Fifth street.

AFTER an absence of two seasons from Portland "Human Hearts," one of the most popular melodramas on the American stage today, received a warm welcome at the Empire Theatre yesterday, where it opened a week's engagement to crowded houses, evening and matinee. The company which presents it is under the direction of W. E. Nankeville, and is one of the most capable and evenly-balanced organizations seen at the Empire this season. Every role is well taken and played with a thorough understanding of the part that contributes to the perfection of the whole.

HE RETURNS FROM SEATTLE

W. W. COTTON TELLS OF APPLICATI-ONS FOR FRANCHISES.
Thinks City Imposes Onerous Conditions for the Railroads in Building of Bridges.

Attorney W. W. Cotton, of the Harriman road, returned to Portland yesterday after spending ten days in Seattle where he was engaged in working for a franchise over Whatcom and Railway avenues along which the proposed line of the Washington and Northern desires to enter Seattle. The matter has not yet been settled and Mr. Cotton will return to Seattle today or tomorrow to continue the negotiations.

SOUTHERN DELEGATES LEAVE

Delegates from California and Nevada who have been attending the convention of the Seventh-Day Adventists in this city left last evening for their homes. They spent Saturday—their sabbath—with the northern delegates in the morning services, beginning in the morning and continuing in the afternoon. The delegates from the southern district were opposed to division of the union conference and the formation of two separate union conferences, but they accepted the decision of the majority. They take the name "The Pacific Union Conference," and their northern brethren take the name "The Northern Pacific Union Conference." The separation was accomplished without friction of any sort. In fact, the sessions of this body of Christian workers was free from all friction and wrangling, although there was a wide difference of opinion on points and there were large interests involved, running up to $1,000,000 or more in church, school and sanitarium property, there was not the slightest hitch in the proceedings. The conference committees appointed by both conferences will accomplish the delicate work of dividing the funds on hand, adjusting the publication interests and settling all other questions involving both sections. It may be said that one of the most important branches of the Seventh-Day Adventist work is their medical departments. On this coast, in Oregon, is the big sanitarium at Portland, while in California they have four large sanitariums, besides the one at Arizona, where nurses are trained and lectured on the subject of medicine, additional to the great work of medication. The south conference made provisions for a medical convention, but the northern conference left that question open for the present.

WILL RETURN EAST

Bishop J. M. Thoburn, who has been resting at the home of his daughter-in-law, on the East Side, for the past three months, will leave for the East this week. He remained quietly in Portland on the advice of his physician on account of his health. He preached yesterday morning at the Centenary M. E. Church. His work in this country at present has to do with raising funds and preparing for the 50-year jubilee to be held in India in honor of the quarter-century anniversary of the establishment of missionary work there.

IS THE SAILOR TO BLAME?

When the Sailor Boarding-House Runner is Not Punished.

PORTLAND, Feb. 25.—(To the Editor.)—The recent communication of Council Laidlaw and your rejoinder that better conditions for shipping sailors will not obtain in this or any other port until the "reincarnation of the sailor" is effected, has been read with interest. James White, who, I understand, is yet conducting a sailor boarding-house in this city, some three or four years ago, this trial was convicted and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. The crime was preventing by means of a fraudulent bill of lading, the sailing on a vessel to which they had contracted and kidnapping one of them and taking him out of the state. I was on the jury, and these three sailors were honest-looking lads and evinced their intelligence and self-reliance by their conduct and testimony. They took care of themselves while in this port and undertook to ship themselves to the boarding-house, and were prevented by the defendant White, as aforesaid, one of them being roughly handled and injured. Now here comes the "reincarnation of the sailor" and the sailor's "reincarnation" that is necessary, but that of those responsible for the existence of sailor boarding-houses, protected in the commission of crime. These young men tried to act in the manner of legal and official persons, and the "reincarnation of the sailor" and they found it impossible by the strength of the fortifications thrown around a criminal institution and out with saloonkeepers are keeping the law. Next, that he did not say that he was only 19 years of age. He actually said: "Not quite of age." Next, that he had been in the city, but not always in the same way, but a young man of brilliant parts who has been making his own way in the world for three years and a half, and for more than a year and half has been working for the public good, are set at naught by such absurd delays as in this case, where the man is permitted to run at large and continue his criminal career on an appeal to the supreme Court pending three years or more.

JEWISH TEMPLES ABROAD

Dr. A. S. Isaacs Delivers Illustrated Lecture at Temple Beth Israel.

Dr. A. S. Isaacs, professor of German at the University of New York, gave a thoroughly instructive and interesting lecture at Temple Beth Israel last night under the auspices of that congregation at the Mount Scott Lodge No. 418, I. O. E. B. "Among the Synagogues Abroad" was the subject of Dr. Isaacs' discourse and he used about 100 lantern views to illustrate the many beautiful temples built in various foreign climes. The general features were distinctive of the countries in which they were located, the speaker referring to the fact that the Jewish people have a peculiar style to which they adhered in such matters. The lecture was a panorama of Jewish history and was enthusiastically received by the large audience present. Miss Edwina Jastic rendered a delightful musical programme, accompanied by Miss Fisher.

LOAN EXHIBITS FROM THE BRUSHES OF NOTED PAINTERS

THE loan art exhibition which will open with a private reception at the Museum tonight, will be a revelation to many of Portland's citizens who do not realize that the majority of practically every school are owned by individuals here. There are now hung in the Portland Art Association building at Fifth and Taylor streets 148 paintings belonging to various art lovers of the city which would do credit to a much larger city and one nearer the large centers where art museums and fine collections are numerous and kept in the best. While many schools are represented in the exhibit in question, the many fine examples of the best American artists which are shown is considered remarkable.

Got the Fever From Eugene.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 24.—(To the Editor.)—In the Oregonian last Sunday, in referring to the report of the Health Officer here, I was glad to see that the epidemic of typhoid fever at Eugene, the impression was given that we had several cases of the fever at Springfield. I take this opportunity to correct the impression. In fact, he was here we had no cases of the fever at all, and did not have for almost a week before he left. The case was contracted in Eugene, and the man was brought to Springfield and given merely to relieve the impression caused by the published report. R. A. JAYNE, M. D., Mayor.

Steamer Beaver Given Trial Trip.

The new river steamer Beaver, recently off the ways of the Portland shipbuilding yard, was given her first trial run yesterday and gave every satisfaction. She was moored at the Couch-street dock last evening, and will be put on the Clatskanie run in a few days.

EYE CHAT No. 55

Fitting eyes is an exact science, requiring skill, patience and experience on the part of the optician. Yet there are men practicing optometry whose sole knowledge has been derived, at long distance, from schools of correspondence. There must be some of these long distance fellows in Oregon, judging from the flagrant mistakes in the way of spectacles exhibited to us occasionally by exasperated and discouraged victims.
