Ex-Governor of Idaho Stepped Over Wire Attached to Hidden Bomb.

HOT ON SIMPKINS TRAIL.

BOISE, Idaho, Peh. 28 .- (Special.)is reported here tonight that Jack tion with the assassination ex-Governor Steunenberg, is surrounded by detectives near the dividing line of Washington and Idaho. He was seen in the vicinity of the Cocur He is evidently trying to get into the State of Washington.

BY W. G. MACRAE.

BOISE, Idaho, Peb. 38 -(Staff Correpondence.)-Bit by bit the full story of the prearranged plans for the assassination of ex-Governor Steunenberg is sifting from beneath the lid. The story of the murder by the bomb has been told, so has the story of the plan to shoot him on Christmas eve. In all there were three efforts to murder Idaho's ex-Governor, and the story of the first attempt leaked out today for the first time, as told by Harry Orchard in his confession.

Orchard first arrived in Caldwell early in November, and stayed there for two weeks. During this visit he boarded with a man named W. H. Schenck, out near the Steunenberg home. For the first couple of days he had no visitors. Each morning when Orchard left his boardinghouse it was noticed that he turned toward ex-Governor Steunenberg's residence and scouted around the country, getting information about the ex-Governor's habits and taking in the topography of the country.

First Attempt at Murder.

After Orchard had been living with the Scheneks about a week a couple of men answering the description of Jack Simpkins and Steve Adams began calling upon him in the evenings. Sometimes they came together and sometimes only one would call. Orchard began boarding with these dates that the first attempt to as- ry Orchard." sassinate ex-Governor Steunenberg was Lantern for a Signal.

With this knowledge in their possession the assussins waited in Caldwell until the ex-Governor started home. The man who was to place the bomb across the path hurried after his victim and obtained a lend of some 200 yards. The other murderers kept a safe distance behind. He carried a lantern, and at a given signul the man, who had gone in front stopped, placed the bomb on one side of The bomb had a piece of wire attached to it, and this wire was fastened to a stake which was pushed into the soft ground on the other side of the trail. Unconscious of the terrible fate which awaited him, ex-Governor Steunenberg walked over the path, and instead of striking the wire and setting off the bomb he stepped over it.

Off in the distance waited the two men who had planned this diabolical crime When it failed they carefully removed the bomb and went back to Caldwell.

Either Simpkins or Adams. It was impossible to learn today whether it was Jack Simpkins or Steve Adams who that night was Orchard's companion. It is believed, it was Adams, for a detec tive dropped a few words, which were to the effect that while they were anxious to get hold of Simpkins, they had Adams, who was just as important, This fact has not lessened the efforts to get

Simpkins. Today a man named W. Russell came from Two Rivers, for the purpose of telling Governor Gooding that he had played cards with a man whom he believed to be Simpkins, at Two Rivers. ITCHING SCALP

Eczema Broke Out Also on Hands and Limbs - Suffering Intense -Doctors Said Too Old to Be Cured-An Old Soldier of 80 Years Declares:

"CUTICURA TREATMENT IS A BLESSING"

"At all times and to all people I am willing to testify to the merits of Cu-ticura. It saved me from worse than the tortures of hades, about the year 1900, with itching on my scalp and temples, and alterwards it commenced to break out on my hands. Then it broke out on my limbs. I was advised to use salt and water, which I did, to no effect. I then went to a Surgeon, who commenced treating me with a wash of borax. This treatment did me no good, but rather aggravated the disease. I then told him I would go and see a physician in Erie. The reply was that I could go anywhere, but a case of ecsema like mine could not be cured; that I was to add (80). I went to an that I was too old (80). I went to an eminent doctor in the city of Erie and treated with him for six months, with like results. I had read of the Cuticura Remedies often. I was strongly tempted to give them a trial, so I sent for the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent and continued taking the Resolvent until I had taken six bottles, stopping it to take the Pills. I was now getting better. I took two baths a day, and at night I let the lather of the Soap dry on. I used the Ointment with great effect after washing in warm water, to stop the itching at once. I am now cured. "The Cuticura treatment is a blessing and should be used by every one who has itching of the skin. I can't say any more, and thank God that He has given the world such a curative. You can use this letter as you please. A very much befriended man, Wm. H. Gray, 3303 Mt. Vernon St., Philadelphia, Pa., August 2, 1905."

connection, and I am prompted to add a few notes to the already voluminous beesfew notes to the already voluminous bees-wax discussion. The late agitation of the matter arises from the recent find by Colone! Hawkins of a sand nodule which was im-pregnated with a waxlike substance that was thought to be of the same material as the Nehalem wax. I have within the last week examined a portion of this specimen and find it to be of an entirely different nature from the Nehalem material. It has a characteristic resinous odor and yields turpentine on distillation, which stamps it as a pitch. The nodule was probably form by a stream of molten pitch which poured from a burning log pile or stump, souking into the sand beneath and comenting it into the form in which it was found

The matter of the identification of beer-war or any other kind of war is a chemical-not a geological, problem; and, furthermore the distinction between beeswar and paraffine or oxokerite is not one of great diffi-culty. In the first place, becawax has a characteristic honey-like odor which is entirely wanting in the mineral waxes. A Treshly out sample of the Nehalem wax has this characteristic aroma well pronounced. Furthermore, the color, specific gravity and melting point of the Nehalem wax are in close agreement with those of genuine bees-tain proportion of a fatty acid which is capable of neutralizing alkali. In paratine and ozokerite this acid is entirely wanting. Aguin, true Beenwax contains a fat which is capable of being saponified or converted into a soap by an alkali. The mineral waxes do not admit of this saponification. I have analyzed a sample of the Nehalem wax side by side with genuine beeswax, and find they agree very closely in the above properties Professor Stafford, of the State University examined the Nehalem material some years ago and pronounced it genuine beeswax. Dr. Dillard, of the United States Geological Survey, agrees that it is beeswax. In fact, have not found any opinion to the rary that was based on an analysis of the substance. The origin of the wax on the beach is an open question, but whether washed from a wreck or carried thither from inland it is certainly beeswar. Possibly the letters and hieroglyphics we find engraved upon it were carved by some ship-wrecked sailor, who was traversing the beach, but, however this may be, they are indisputably carved in beeswax. Presumably, these certificates were held by some man who found himself liable to prosecution for land frauds, and rather than disclose his identity he let the paybecome delinquent and thus forments become delinquent and thus for feited his right to the land. It is alleged by the complainants, that there is often a difference of from 2 cents to 4 cents a bushel in the price of wheat as between Portland and Puget Sound, whereas the difference in foreign freight rates is scarcely 1 cent a bushel. It is alleged a large percentage of the difference in foreign freight rates is scarcely 1 cent a bushel. It is alleged a large percentage of the differ-ence in price is accounted for by the so-called miliers' and exporters' combination at Portland, which is able to on ractically on its own terms in O. territory in Eastern Washington Another advantage alleged for wheat suyers in Portland is the difference in grading as between Oregon and Wash ington, there being an arbitrary standard of the pounds to the bushel maintained by the Portland exporters, while the Wash ington State Grain Commission has fixed the standard for this state at 58 pounds. The question of a hearing on the joint rate complaint on wheat may now be said to be up to the complainants in the case, and the members of the Railroad Commission, while refusing to be quoted on the point directly, do not appear to think that the proposed move of the O.
