the brilliant young electrician who de-signed the splendid illuminations for the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo and the St. Louis Fair, died Tuesday at his home in Florence, Neb. Mr. Rustin was formerly chief electrician for the Portland Railway Company, and while here married the daughter of Captain Goodwin, U. S. A., who was then stationed at Van-couver Barracks. Mr. Rustin was widely known in Portland, where he made many friends. His close application to the overcoming of the difficulties in lighting the big Expositions is believed to be the cause of the undermining of his health. Death resulted from tuberculosis. When the St. Louis Fair was complete Mr. Rus-tin was so low he could not leave his bed but was conveyed on a cot from the hospital and the illuminations turned on that might see the successful culmination
