Unprecedented March Weather for Portland.

EFFECT ON FRUIT SLIGHT

May Thin, but Not Greatly Injure the Earlier Varieties - Rose Bushes Set Back by the Cold Span.

Portland received a touch of Winter weather yesterday. But for the absence of snow and sleet the cold snap would have been a real blizzard, the visitation of which would give Portland people an opportunity to sympathize with their cousins of the storm; swept East. It was cold enough, however, to make Oregoniens more thankful than ever that they lived in a country where such inclement weather is rarely experienced.

The cold of yesterday was intense, and those who ventured out-of-doors suffered greatly. The high and piercing winds added to the intensity of the chilly atmosphere, and made many people believe it was colder than it really was.

District Perceaster Edward A. Beals are ported that District Forecaster Edward A. Beals re-ported that the thermometer was lowest at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, when it registered 27 degrees above zero. Ice has formed upon many of the small ponds in the vicinity of Portland, and if the cold shap continues for a few more days rolle skates will be supplanted by ice skates.

Predicts Milder Weather.

The indications are though that within two or three days Portland will once again have mild weather and that the thermometer will gradually rice. The wind of yesterday came from the North

SNOW DRIFTS IN UMATILLA

Much Grain in Light Lands Is Be lieved to Have Been Destroyed.

PENDLETON, Or., March 11.-Snow has been flying throughout Umatilla County since late Saturday night, and tonight a severe wind storm is raging accompanied by fine, driving snow. The ground is freezing and every indication points to a severe cold spell.

Trains running into Portland are being delayed, the line from the east being partially blocked by snow in the Blue Mountains, while the O. R. & N. track between Umatilla and The Dalles is blocked with sand, which fills the cuts blocked with sand, which fills the cuts faster than the large gang of workmen can shovel it out. The train from Port-land, which should have reached Pen-dleton this morning at 5 o'clock, did not pass through until 10:40, and it was fol-lowed closely by the one due at 5 in the gated belt, a good deal of damage has been done to late-sown grain, according to reports, much of the seed having been blown out of the ground by the high wind else covered to the depth of several inches by drifting sand. In the opinion of prominent farmers, this same thing will in all probability happen to many of the light land fields throughout the country, especially where the fields have been reseeded within the past few weeks, but little damage is expected outside of but little damage is expected outside of this, as the grain is not far enough advanced in growth to be harmed by snow or the slight cold that prevails. Outside of a few crossed wires, no damage has been reported as a result of the high wind.

Blizzard Sweeping Montana.

HELENA. March 11.-Reports from all HELENA. March 11.—Reports from all over the state indicate that one of the feroest storms of the Winter is raging. Sundown at Marysville, a few miles west of here, it was 12 below with the wind blowing a gale and a foot of snow on the ground. In the eastern part of the state it is below zero, registering 18 below at Livingston. At Havre, usually the coldest place in the state, it is six above. The snow is general. Livestock men do not look for any losses of stock unless the storm is of unusual duration.

ALBANY. Or., March 11.—(Special.)—
Albany is today experiencing the worst storm of the season. Beginning with a snowfall last evening, the storm gradually increased in fury until today one must be in shelter to be comfortable. A cold wind is blowing from the northest, bringing with it the chill of the north, and intermittently snow and sleet falls, adding to the disagreeableness of the day.

This is the worst storm of the year, and the change from a balmy Spring day to a deficient of the sursting and itee has formed to the thickness of an inch. The ground is also frozen hard.

In the Coeur d'Alenes the coldest weather of the Winter is expertenced. At Burke the mercury fell to three below zero. Trees were blow across the stage road between Murray and Wallace. A howling gaie is blowing up and down the canyon.
