STOCK EXCHANGE WILL BE FOUNDED

Louis J. Wilde, San Diego Capitalist, Is Back of the Project for Portland.

SELL STOCKS AND BONDS

No Dealings Will Be Had on Margins, but Market Will Be Provided for Portland Real Estate and Mortgages.

Portland is to have a stock exchange which will open up in the Brooke-Giesy building, Second and Stark streets, about April 15. H. C. Keller, of Los Angeles, will arrive in Portland this week to make arrangements for the organization of the Portland Stock Exchange. He has had a long and varied experience with stock exchanges and will be manager of the one to be established in Portland. He will be accompanied by Mr. Potter, formerly of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Louis J. Wilde, a banker and capitalist of San Diego, Cal., who has been in Portland for some time, is largely responsible for the establishment of a stock exchange in this city. He wrote to parties in Los Angeles and acquainted them with the conditions, which they thought warranted an enterprise of this kind. Other than a member Mr. Wilde will have nothing to do with the exchange.

Quarters in the Brooke-Giesy building have been leased. They comprise a large court and several offices. The stock exchange which is to be started up in Portland will be similar to those in San Francisco and Los Angeles. The membership will be limited to 100 and seats in the exchange will be sold at $100. It is stated on reliable authority that Seattle made an attempt to secure the stock exchange in the place of Portland and offered to secure 100 members at $100 each. But the men who are backing the enterprise favored Portland and would not consent to go to Seattle.

Will Not Deal in Margins. The exchange will not deal in margins but in stocks, bonds, real estate mortgages, legitimate securities, etc. All bonds, stocks and securities which come from Portland and vicinity will be listed and the quotations called daily. All sales and the bid and asked prices will be reported daily. "The Portland Stock Exchange will be the meeting place of the buyer and the seller," said Mr. Wilde yesterday afternoon. "If an individual has stock or bonds or securities to sell he has a place to go to offer them. The sales will be made strictly on their merits, and the buyers will have an opportunity to ascertain just what they are obtaining." "In my opinion, the stock exchange will be of immense benefit to Portland. It will encourage legitimate enterprises, which want to place part of their funds in Portland, to locate here. Brokers, real estate men, bankers and other dealers in securities will belong to it.

Los Angeles Exchange Success. "The well-conducted exchanges of San Francisco and Los Angeles have proved to be a great success. Two years ago the Los Angeles Stock Exchange was reorganized and seats sold at $100. Only recently a seat in the Los Angeles Exchange was sold for $250. The day's sales in San Francisco and Los Angeles at times amount to $50,000 or more."

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—(Special.)—At the home of her father, in this city, tonight, Miss Emily Cerf became the bride of Isidore Koshland, a prominent business man of Portland. With a simple ceremony Rabbi Vooranger united the couple. After the ceremony a supper was served. It had been intended to have a large wedding, but, owing to a recent death of a relative of the bridegroom, the plans were changed, and only the families of the bride and bridegroom and a few intimate friends were invited.

Miss Cerf is one of the most beautiful young women in San Francisco Jewish society. In which she has been a leader. Her father is a retired merchant. After a honeymoon trip the couple will take up their residence in Portland.

POWER DIES OF WOUND Wife Whom He Shot Will Probably Recover.

The wounded woman is resting easily in the women's ward of the city prison and will recover.

MARQUAM TO CLOSE

Syndicate Plans to Lease or Build Another Theater.

RUMORS ARE CONFIRMED

President Hellig, of Northwest Association, Talks at Tacoma. Property Now Too Valuable for a Playhouse.

It is altogether probable that before many months have passed the Marquam Grand Theater will be closed forever as a playhouse, and that the theatrical syndicate's attractions visiting Portland thereafter will appear at some other place.

Just what arrangements will be made has not yet been determined. The Belasco Theater may be reopened for the large traveling companies, or a new theater, larger and more modern than any of the present playhouses, may be erected. Rumors that some changes were contemplated in the local theatrical world had been in circulation in Portland for several days. Last night they were confirmed and enlarged upon by Calvin Hellig, president of the Northwest Theatrical Association, in a telephone message to The Oregonian from Tacoma. Mr. Hellig stated that negotiations were in progress whereby a lease may be obtained from Belasco & Mayer, owners of the Belasco, and that if these negotiations are consummated the attractions which are now appearing at the Marquam will be transferred to the uptown theater. If this plan is not adopted, a new playhouse will be erected for the syndicate in Portland.

Mr. Hellig is now negotiating with the owners of the Downing property at the northeast corner of Park and Alder streets, for the erection of such a building. At all events it is likely that the curtain will be rung down on the Marquam Grand, for many years Portland's leading playhouse, in the near future.

Property Now Too Valuable. The reason for the probable closing of the Marquam is that the building is now becoming too valuable for theatrical purposes, as a consequence of which its owners, the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, has for some time been considering the advisability of remodeling the entire block for other purposes. It was announced some time ago that no changes would be made until the title to the building, which has been in litigation, should be confirmed finally by the Supreme Court.

The matter has been forced, however, by the action of the Executive Board, which recently ordered that extensive alterations be made in the theater to bring it up to the requirements of the fire ordinance. These alterations would cost approximately $20,000 and under the circumstances the owners have expressed themselves as unwilling to proceed. On the other hand, the theatrical association, knowing that it may soon be forced out of the Marquam, is unwilling to meet the expense.

There are other considerations which it is stated, are factors in bringing about the change. The owners of the Marquam Grand will not permit attractions to show there on Sunday. This eliminates one of the best show days of the week, from a box-office standpoint. If the Belasco is leased, or if a new theater is erected, it will be possible for the site of attractions to appear in Portland on Sunday.

Besides this, it is probable that as large a room as the Marquam can be secured in a less central location at a reduced expense. The Belasco, a smaller theater, could be secured for very much less. If a new theater is built the cost would be greater, but a greater seating capacity would be provided.

If the Marquam is converted into a business block, alterations doubtless will be made that will involve a large expenditure of money. The Marquam property includes a large Alder-street frontage for the site of a new building, corresponding to and adjoining the present structure.

Sues John P. Sharkey & Co. A suit of John P. Sharkey & Co., tanners at Eugene, against James P. Sharkey Company to recover for goods sold was heard by Judge Sears yesterday and was taken under advisement. The defendant deposited $153 in court to pay the claim, which is an old one, but declined to pay interest amounting to nearly $100. The question of interest is all the court has to pass upon. John H. Hall, attorney, stated that Mr. Sharkey lost money in the harness business and not desiring to go through bankruptcy had resorted to the expedient of paying his creditors as fast as he could, and was willing to pay this claim, but would not be legally held for interest.

PIONEER LUMBERMAN DEAD

JOHN H. JONES, WHO CROSSED PLAINS IN 1852, PASSES AWAY.

Built and Operated Mill in Washington County More Than Half a Century Ago.

John Halsey Jones, the oldest lumberman in Oregon, if not in the entire Pacific Northwest, died early yesterday morning at his residence, 315 East Sixth street, north in this city. Mr. Jones had been engaged in the lumber business mill on the Macadam road. This mill burned soon afterward, as did also a second one which he established in 1891, with his brother, he organized the firm of E. K. Jones & Co., which was incorporated in 1901, with J. H. Jones as president. Jones was always held in high esteem among his business associates and the public, and had a wide acquaintance due to his long residence in Oregon. He never sought or occupied public office or joined any society or fraternal order, preferring to devote his entire attention to his business activities. The children who survive him are: Mrs. George D. Schalk, Mrs. W. H. Grindstaff and Herman H. Jones, all of Portland, and Mrs. W. E. Towne, of Holyoke, Mass. The funeral services, which will be conducted by Dr. T. L. Elliot, of the First Unitarian Church, will be held at the family residence today at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Lone Fir Cemetery.

INJURIES INFLICTED BY ROBBER ARE NOT FATAL.

Burglar's Hat is Only Clew Police Have Found to Aged Man's Assailant.

Dr. John J. Fisher, the druggist shot by a robber in the former's drugstore, at Twenty-first and Glean streets, Tuesday night, will recover if he continues to improve as rapidly as he has done since the shooting. The wound in the hip, which, on account of the doctor's age, was thought to be quite serious, is not as bad as was at first thought. He rested quietly yesterday and last night, and reports from the hospital say that he is now out of danger. His wife and daughter are attending him.

The police detectives, Vaughn and Hellig, who have been assigned to the case by Captain Reith, have made no report of their investigation, and the captain admits that there is "nothing doing" on the case as far as he knows. The detectives, however, have not made a capture, and other than the burglar's hat, which is still at police headquarters, there is no clew to the perpetrator. Several persons who it was thought might have been implicated were questioned yesterday, among them Fred Hoffman and two boys named Voss. The report that the name of Hoffman was found in the sweatband of the hat lost by the robber is unfounded. The hat is a plain black felt, containing nothing besides the size, which would lead to identification of the robber. Hoffman, when questioned by the detectives, proved that at the time of the shooting he was home with his parents. The boy is only 15 years of age, and in no way answers the description given of the robber.

The last seen of the man who shot Dr. Fisher he was running, bareheaded, down Glean street. Some believe that he made for the terminal yards and escaped on an outgoing freight train. Others say that he is still in the city concealed in one of the rooming-houses. The detectives admit that they have nothing to report on the case.

Buck Convicted of Murder. LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 21.—Morriss Buck was today convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Charles A. Canfield, wife of the millionaire oil operator.

Buck had been discharged from the Canfield's employ as coachman, and when Mrs. Canfield as she sat on her front porch.

GAMBLING CASE IS CLOSED

Judge Frazer Declines to Hear Argument Against Milwaukee Men.

Judge Frazer yesterday refused to reopen the gambling case against Peter St. Marie, Martin Ready, Isaac Gratton, Tim DeBoest and others connected with the County Club at Milwaukee. They were arrested three months ago in a raid made by members of the Portland police force for conducting Faro and other games. Judge Frazer after a hearing decided that as the constitution of the State of Oregon provides for the trial of a person in the county where the crime is committed, the Multnomah Circuit Court had no jurisdiction, because the Milwaukee Club is in Clackamas County. Henry E. McGinn, as special counsel for the city, yesterday requested Judge Frazer to reopen the case. Mr. McGinn desired to argue the case under the section of the city charter which provides that the City of Portland has authority to suppress gambling in the city limits and for a distance four miles outside of the city limits. Dan J. Maloney, attorney for the defendants, opposed the motion, and said the case had previously been fully argued and determined. Judge Frazer sustained the position taken by Mr. Maloney.

Seven Years for Menomy. Several C. Menomy, tried and convicted many days ago of robbing D. B. Rand, was sentenced by Judge Claborn yesterday to serve a term of seven years in the Penitentiary. Menomy is 29 years old, and previously served a term in San Quentin Penitentiary. At his trial he endeavored to prove an alibi, and his sister, Mrs. Florence Thompson, of Seattle, testified in his behalf, in an effort to save him.

Clackamas Fishermen Arrested. OREGON CITY, Or., March 21.—(Special.)—Warrants today issued in the Oregon City Justice Court for the arrest of Gus Rosenstrater, R. C. Worthington and John Erickson, all of Oswego, on a charge of fishing without a license. Fish wardens in this locality are extremely alert in patrolling the Willamette and Clackamas Rivers, and all violations of the fishing laws will be punished.
