Clerk in Employ of Teal & Minor Tries to Harm E. B. Piper.

STRIKES HIM WHILE SEATED

Demands That Oregonian Cease Its Policy in Regard to the Gas Fight, and Then He Becomes Belligerent.

W. A. Johnson, a clerk employed in the law offices of Teal & Minor, made a vio-lent assault upon E. B. Piper, managing editor of The Oregonian, in the latter's private office, at 10:30 o'clock yesterday orning. The fellow's action was prompt ed by resentment of criticisms by The Oregonian of President C. F. Adams and J. N. Teal of the Portland Gas Company he described as his personal

E. W. Wright, of The Oregonian editorial staff, was in the office at the time, and when Johnson sprang at Mr. Piper, who was seated in front of his desk, Mr. instantly interfered, grappling with the fellow and quickly pinioning his arms and thrusting him helpless into the corner. Before the intruder, who is about 22 years old, and powerfully built, was rendered helpless by Mr. Wright, there was a slight exchange of blows between Mr. Piper and his assailant, no great injury being inflicted, however.

Goes to Summon Police.

Mr. Piper then left Mr. Wright in charge of the captive, and went out of the room to summon the police. Johnson prevailed upon Mr. Wright to release him, promising to behave. But no sconer was he released than he attempted an assault with a chair. Others came into the room and the young thug was thrown out. He immediately set about escaping from the building before the arrival of the police. Running down the eight flights of stairs to the ground floor, he used the broken handle of a broom to keep off S. B. Vincent, local manager of the Associated Press, who sought to intercept the fellow's flight. Lloyd McDulin, a messenger boy, followed the culprit, who hurried, hatless, east on Alder street, passed through the Meier & Frank store and made direct to the Security Savings & Trust Company's bank, where he entered the office of President C. F. Adams with-

Mr. Teal Expresses Regret.

Shortly after the affair, Mr. Teal, Johnson's employer, called in person at Mr. Piper's office and expressed deepest regret at the occurrence, saying he was not in any way responsible for it. Later, warrants were issued at the police station for Johnson, charging him with assault and threatening to kill. The warrants were served by Detectives Hartman and Vaughn, and the offender was taken to the station, where he was booked.

Very well, Mr. Johnson, I will take the matter under consideration.

"See that you do or you'll hear from me." said Johnson, and he retired.

As he went out E. W. Wright, of the editorial staff of The Oregonian, came into the office and Mr. Piper asked him: "Did you see that young fellow who just went out?" who just went out?"

"Did you know him?"

Visit of an Anarchist.

Well, I'm tired of being threatened and I am going to find out who insticeived a similar call last week from an anarchist who objected to any crit-icism of Herr Most or Eugene Debs. and disappeared without leaving trace of his identity. Mr. Piper then went into the hallway and called to Johnson as he was getting into the elevator to return. He did so. Going back into the office Mr. Piper again seated himself and said to Mr. Johnson: "Now, let us talk this thing over.

"Well, I'll show you." was John-son's retort, as he jumped upon Mr. Piper, who was still seated Mr. Wright immediately grabbed Johnson and prevented him doing any serious bodily harm to the man he had thus assailed. Johnson, however, was in the most violent fury, He struggled and swore and, getting his arms free, struck Mr. Piper two or three times, the blows being returned.

tood him up in the corner. Mr. Piper then said:
"Hold him, and I'll go and call the lephone girl to do so.
"Let me go," howled the fellow to Mr.

Well, will you behave yourself?" "Yes. I don't have any quarrel with That fellow that went out is the

you. That fellow that went out is the one I'm after."
"If you will sit down and talk it over I will let you go," responded Mr. Wright. "All right," he said.

Mr. Wright then released the pugnacious captive from his powerful grasp. The fellow immediately picked up a chair and attempted to assault him with that. Mr. Piper meanwhile had returned, in company with Mr. Vincent, local manager of the Associated Press, and they took part in the effort to subdue Johnson. He somehow worked his way into Mr. Scott's room and managed to close the door.

There were a half dozen people on hand by that time, but the fellow came out of the elevator and walking up to Mr. Piper, without provocation, struck at him again. He was immediately grabbed by a half dozen persons and thrown down the stair-way, from whence he made his escape down stairs, running all the way down A messenger boy, Lloyd McDulin, of the City Messenger Company, who had seen the affair, followed Johnson down and out into the street, where, hatless and without his umbrella, he entered the store of Meier & Frank, passed on through to Morrison street, and went directly to the bank of the Security Savings & Trust Company. Here he walked back, and without hesitation or knocking, entered the private office of Mr. C. F. Adams, who is president of the bank and the pany. He closed the door after him. The messenger boy waited for a minutes for the fellow to reappear. ing of his quest he came away, leaving Johnson in the bank.

JOE MALLEY CHALLENGES TOM

WORD. Mr. Tom Word, City.-Dear Sir. You and I are candidates for the primary nomination of the Democratic party for Sheriff of Multnomah Counfeated, I will support the nominee of party is entitled to know if you will you an opportunity of answering this question, I address to you this letter. Refusal will be accepted by many Democrats as evidence of bad faith on your part. Respectfully. M. J. MALLEY.

Democrats are agog over the question whether Tom Word will support Joe Mal-ley for Sheriff, should the latter win the party nomination against him in the primaries, three weeks from next Friday, Malley has declared that he would work for Word, in case he himself should fall to win the nomination, but all efforts to elicit a similar promise from Word and his managers have failed. Many members of the party are asking each other whether Word will bolt, in case of his defeat at the primaries, and run independent; in fact, they suspect that his boomers are counseling him to refuse to make the promise, in order that musical cocktail success. Enters Against Protest.

Word has entered the primaries against the protest of a large number of his sup-porters, who declared he did not need the Democratic nomination and that if he should try for it and fall, he would weaken himself. The opinion is often heard among them that even yet Word should withdraw from the primaries and run as a nonpartisan candidate.

Malley sent the question to Word yester-day, through the mails, in the form of a letter, which is printed in the fore-going. He was urged to do this by his chief workers, after they had to "smoke

May Be Police Chief.

Tales are floating about to the effect that Word is slated for Mayor Lane's Chief of Police, should be fall to regain the office of Sheriff. It is said that this deal was agreed on last Spring when Lane was running for Mayor and then again that the compact was not entered into until later. Gritzmacher is only acting chief and would be retired to a captain while Bruin would retain his place as head of detectives.

CANDIDATES ADDRESS MEMBERS OF THE CLUB.

Judge Webster Favors Keeping the County Jail Prisoners at Work on the Roads.

The Eighth Ward Republican Club held well-attended meeting last evening in the Justice Court. Dan Kellaher presid ed. Many candidates were present, and all were given an opportunity of presenting their views. Judge Lionel Webster, who is a candidate for re-election as County Judge, was invited to address the meeting. Judge Webster responded in a plain talk about county affairs, and re-marked that the business of Multnomah marked that the business of Multnomah County was not small, amounting to nearly $1000 a day in expenses, beside the growing probate business.

He spoke of the direct primary law, and said it had made a very great change, for the reason that April 20 it made every voter a member of the convention that would pass on the fitness of the candi-dates, and placed a very great responsibility on the shoulders of the voters to make that decision. It had been the poltcy of the present administration, he said, to wipe out the debt, and this had been done. Judge Webster declared very emphatically that Multnomah County should never owe a dollar. Of course, the tax-payers had paid the debt, but the court had provided the policy that led to the cancelling of the debt and opened the way for needed improvements. Judge Webster challenged any criticism that $175. might be made on the policy of the ad-ministration. He showed how the county prisoners had been employed in the construction of roads at a very great profit to the county and taxpayers. He had found some 250 prisoners in the jail, and they mainly had been put to work. Judge Webster said that the men sent to jail ought to work. They were not sent there for a good time, and he had no patience with the policy of coddling the prisoners. nor of abusing them. He believed that the policy of making the prisoners work was best for the men in jall, and also good from an economical standpoint. It taught them how to work, so that when they left the jail they could get a job.
"If you don't want the prisoners to work," he declared, "don't vote for me for County Judge, for I certainly shall require them to work." He spoke of the plans to construct the best roads in Multnomah County in the United States, using crushed rock from the Kelly Butte, where stockades were to be built, and where the prisoners were to be housed. He also said that a brick county hospital was to be built. After dis-cussing fairly and frankly the acts of the classing tairly and rankly to acts of the administration, from the payment of the county debts, stopping interest charges, and outlining plans for the future. Judge Webster closed his talk, when he was heartily applauded.

W. B. Steele, formerly County Commissions.

W. B. Steele, formerly County Commis-sioner, and now a candidate for nomina-tion for that office, on invitation, made a short talk. County Commissioner Lightner, who was present, asked Mr. Steele to define his position on the ques-tion of employing the prisoners in the construction of county roads, when Mr. Steele mid:

entences. I don't think that there is y economy in employing the prisoners work. They do as they please and work as much as they want to. When I employed some prisoners in building a wing of the asylum at Salem, I did not find it profitable to employ them. Some men are put in fall for assault for a short time, and it is not right to make them work. No, sir. I favor keeping the county prisoners in jail until their sentences have been completed. If put to work outside they are not serving their sentences." Mr. Lightner, in reply, declared that the experience in working prisoners at Linnton had been most successful. They worked well, he said, and it cost only & cents to handle a yard of crushed rock that usually cost $1.

Short talks were made by V. C. Dunning, Joseph Beveridge, J. S. Backostos, J. H. Reid, A. D. Keenan and W. G. Kerna, when the meeting adjourned until next Monday evening.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

They Are Drawn in Memory of the Late James R. Stoddard.

Resolutions of respect to the memory of the late James R. Stoddard, who was a member of the Multnomah County Bar, were adopted in the State Circuit Court yesterday morning, on motion of G. G. Gammans, chairman of the resolutions committee appointed by Judge Frazer. A copy of the resolutions follows:

James R. Stoddard was admitted to the mr of this state on December 10, 1877, having efore that time been admitted to practice be-ove the Circuit Court of Wisconsin, at Janesville, May 9, 1876. Ever since his admiss continued in the active practice of his seton, in which he was exceedingly careful and conscientious, going minutely cases and sparing no pains or time that the interests of his clients demanded. Of a kindly disposition, his intercourse with his fellow-lawyers was always pleasant and never a cause of grievance to any. He was a man of high ideals in business and other-wise, and his cample may well be followed. Whereas, Our associate has been removed from us by sudden death, be it

Suit for $1000 for obtaining a purchaser for a quarter of a block, being 390 feet on Savier street and 50 feet front each on North Fourteenth and North Fifteenth streets, was begun in the State Circuit Court yesterday by A. W. Lambert and A. W. Whitmer against James A. Mott.
The complaint recites that the plaintiffs were to receive all over $17,000, and they secured a buyer willing to pay $18,000.
Mr. Mott lives at Beaverton, and $200 Mr. Mott lives at Beaverton, and $300 was sent to him to bind the purchase. He refused to accept the money, saying his wife wanted a deposit of 10 per cent made. The 10 per cent—$1200—was forwarded by a messenger, and Mr. Mottagain declined to take the money, explaining as a reason for his action the plaining as a reason for his action that his wife had raised some further objec-tions. Dan J. Malarkey, attorney for Lambert & Whitmer, issued attachment papers.

Libel Vermont's Owners.

George E. Plummer & Co., owners of the bark Harry Morse, filed suit in the Pederal Court yesterday to obtain $500 from the owners of the ship Vermont. The complaint states that through careleasness of the officers of the Vermont, that ship collided with the Harry Morse at the dock of the Portland Lumber Company on February 7, damaging it to the extent specified.
