BABY BOY SOON AFLAME

Frantic Mother Tries to Rescue, but Is Driven Back After She Is Severely Seared by the Blaze.

HEPPNER, Or., April 8 .- (Special.) -The home W. B. Barratt, of Sand Hoilow, was totally destroyed by fire last evening about 5 o'clock, and his little baby, about 4 years old, was burned to death, the body being entirely con-sumed by the fire, Mrs. Barratt was badly burned.

Little children built a fire in the woodshed and thought it funny to see the blaze. The baby boy caught fire from the blaze and the mother was unable to save him. The father was away from home at a sheep camp and on returning about 6 P. M., found als home completely destroyed, the child dead and his wife in a very bad condi-

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies— calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and ex-perience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative prop-erties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to pressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medi-cines for her own family and friends.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphiets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's cine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until to-day Lydia E.
