ORANGES PLENTIFUL BUT CLEAN UP.

No General Sciling 'Agreement on Floria Strawberries.

Four care of oranges arrived yesterday and were practically all sold on arrival. Two or three are due today, and there will be plenty next week, but no decrease in the demand is looked for until strawberries come. The first arrivals of the latter on Front street are expected in a few days.

The question of maintaining a steady price on Florin herries this season has been taken up to the local trade, but no agreement has been reached. One of the jobbers proposes to secure his supplies from independent growers, whill the others will buy from the Ploria Association, and it is likely that, unless some understanding is reached, the market will be irregular.

The egg market continued firm and active. The general quotation was 17 centa though some business was done at 17% centa. The impression prevailed that the coming week will see lower prices. The weekly price current of a Pront-street house said:

At present the egg market is very active, but we believe the top has been reached, and we would not be surprised to see the market go off a cent within the next week.

Another firm's market letter said:

The egg market firm up to 17 cents today, but stock senses to be coming in quite freely, and we do not look for further advances. Indeed, it may prove that the advance was caused by increased buying for Easter trade only, and the do not look for further advances. Portland, and M. D. Ellis, of Dallas. The sale opened at 29 cents and closed at 20% cents. M. D. Ellis being the highest bidder. Bernheim's highest bid was 29 9-10 cents, and Metager's best offer was 30% cents. None of the growers was willing to sell at the price offered, and the sale was called off.

After a short discussion, it was decided, by practically unanimous consent, to place the hair in the hands of a committee empowered to sell it for the association. The members chosen to serve as such committee are President G. W. McBee, Secretary H. L. Fenton and G. W. Myers. None of the growers was willing to sell at the price offered today, and it is eafe to predict that the pool will be held until a better figure is offered.
