REMOVED FROM CANADA

Fitting Services Will Be Held at the Williamette University to Commemorate Work of Pioneer Missionary in Oregon.

Arrangements are being made to bury he remains of Jeson Lee, the ploneer distionary to Oregon of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the Lee Missionary Cemetery near Salem. The interment will be preceded by fitting services, in which representatives of the church, ploneers and state governments of Oregon, Washthe day before the regular graduation

As Appropriate Tribute.

The services in connection with the in-terment, which will be an appropriate tribute to the life and work of Jason Lee, is being arranged by a committee con-sisting of President J. H. Coleman, of Wilamette University: A. M. Smith, of Portland, president of the board of trus-tees of Willamette; Rev. Waiten Skip-worth, of The Dailes; Mrs. Smith French, of The Dailes; Mrs. Smith French, of The Dailes; and F. H. Grubbs, of Portland, a son-in-law of Jason Lee. June 14 has been set as the date for the memorial, but it is possible that it will be changed to a few days earlier, as the Pioneer Association holds a meeting upon that day and it is desired to keep meetings from conflicting.

Three Meetings Planned.

Three meetings will be held in connection with the service. The morning meeting will be in charge of the Methodist Episcapa) Church, and Bishop B. H. Moore will preside. In the afternoon the planeers will pay their tribute, with A. Bush, of Salem, presiding. In the even-ing Judge F. A. Moore will preside, and the Governors of Oregon, Washington and Idaho will be asked to deliver addresses. Among the clerygymen who will be re-

Among the cicrygymen who will be requested to take part in the services are Rev. John Film, of Vancouver; Rev. P. 8. Knight, of Salem; Rev. John Atwood, of Seattle; Rev. D. L. Rader, of Portland; Rev. I. D. Driver, of Eugene; Rev. A. J. Joselyn, of Seattle and Rev. Nelson Chark, of Spokane.

It is especially appropriate that the memorial ceremony should be a part of the commencement exercises of William-ette University, as Jason Lee was the founder of the Oregon Institute, which began its career in 1863 and afterward grew into Williametic University. Representatives of the university, including Work of Jason Lee.

Jason Lee came to Oregon in 1834, as a here is familiar to every person in touch with the early history of the state. He established his bend mission at Salem, whence branch missions were opened at Oregon City, The Dalles, Clatsop and on Puget Sound. The first settlement of the missionaries was on Mission Prairie. South of Salem. Jaron Lee died in 1845 while on a visit his old home at Stanstead, Canada His body was interred in the cemetery at that place, but was sent to Portland about one year ago at the request of the Columbia River and Oregon Conferences of the Methodist Episconal Church, It was placed in the vaults in the Cham-ber of Commerce building and will be left there until the time of the services that will precede its final interment.

OFFICE OF CORONER. Four years ago Mr. Finley stated through the newspapers that if elected Coroner he would remove bodies to the morgue only when it was absolutely necessary, and no bill would be presented to the county. Let us see how faithfully he has kept his promise. According to the books and records of the County the books and records of the County Auditor there has been collected from the county up to the first of April, 1906, for hauling bodies to the morgue, 1587.90. A portion of the increased business of the Portland office during the past year was doubtless due to the Lewis and Clark Exposition, but even without the influx of Fair visitors, this city would probably show a higher sale than any other point in the Northwest. JOHN GAY'S FUNERAL.

Impressive Ceremonial at the Grave by Clan Macleay.

The wailing notes of sorrow from bagpipes; tartan-clad clansmen, and a futerday afternoon, reminded one of a stately ceremonial in a land over the Atlantic, and seemed to be a living reality of more than one scene pictured in Sir Walter Scott's romantic poetry. The event was the funeral of John Gay, re-spected member of Clan Macleay, of this city, No. 122. Order of Scottlish Clans, and the funeral arrangements were carried out just as Mr. Gay had in life asked his wife that they be done. "Place my net and plaid on my coffin, and have

"I knew him as few had a chance to do, he was often at my home and I never returned to Portland that he did not early come to greet me, and his greeting was always radiant.

"There used to gather on Monday hight in my cabinet a group of kindred spirits like Mr. Gorman, Mr. Pomeroy and Mr. Drake. We lighted a big lamp at 8 o'clock and the study of nature. Illustrated from my cabinet, continued until the smoking-out lamp closed the scientific research at midnight. There was no charge to attend these seances, but each paid $2 a night to be absent, and there never came one $2 into the treasury for the many months it continued. None could have been more loved in that select group than Mr. Hawkins.

In that room was born in his heart the great museum he afterward founded. I remember the day that museum took definite form in his loving heart. We had gone to Goble and, putting in a blast, had blown out the finest scollieg group of crystals ever found. At the grave the impressive ritual of the clan was used, and shen the dead map's bonnet and plaid were tenderly lifted from the coffin. As the latter was committed to earth, again the pipes lifted up a voice of lament and then the echoes sank to arise no more. A chieften was buried. As a last mark of respect, the clansmen each placed a pebble at the side of the grave to form a funeral cairs.
