

PRY FINAL TRIBUTE

Clackamas Citizens Attend the Funeral of Sheriff.

SERVICES IN COURTHOUSE

Hundreds Hear Last Services Over a Faithful Officer and an Honored and Respected Citizen of the County.

OREGON CITY, Or., May 2.—(Special)—In performing the last sad rites over the remains of their assassinated Sheriff, the late John R. Shayer, the people of Oregon City and Clackamas County united this morning. Business was suspended by the business men of Oregon City and all joined in paying a final tribute to a good and faithful officer and a highly respected and honored citizen. Scores of the dead official's old neighbors came from Molalla to attend the services, at which were also present numerous persons from Oswego, New Era, Park Place, Canby, Hubbard, Woodburn and Salem. Sheriff W. J. Culver was among those from the Capital City.

An hour before the time set for the services every available seat in the Circuit Courtroom at the Courthouse had been taken. When the funeral party reached the building there were more people in the Courthouse yard than had been able to gain admittance to the courtroom. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the county and the services were especially impressive. There were many floral offerings from the different orders to which the deceased belonged, besides a great many less elaborate floral contributions from friends of the family.

At the Courthouse Rev. E. S. Bolinger, of the First Congregational Church, officiated, his remarks being especially pertinent to the text: "Thou good and faithful servant." Goodness and faithfulness were praised as the highest qualities of the human life and for the possession of these qualities in a marked degree a beautiful tribute was paid the departed. "The goodness and faithfulness of the dead officer," said the speaker, "are an enduring monument to his memory."

The honorary pallbearers consisted of a representative from each of the four fraternal orders to which the deceased belonged, one of the county officers and a member of the Clackamas County Bar Association. They were W. H. Howell, of the I. O. O. F.; A. J. Smith, of P. O. E.; T. W. Artisans, a member of the W. O. W.; Kincaid, County Treasurer, and C. B. Latourette, of the Bar Association. The active pallbearers were Major Hunsate, J. R. Cole and H. N. Everhart, of Molalla; Dr. George Hoocy, James E. Campbell, of this city, and D. H. Dimick, of Canby.

After the services at the Courthouse the funeral party proceeded by river steamer to Riverside Cemetery, near Portland, where interment took place under the auspices of the I. O. O. F.

Ballaine, proprietor of the Seward Gateway, at Seward, Alaska, announces that he will prefer formal charges against the Army officer, and will insist upon a court-martial. He has secured local attorneys to make the fight.

"First—Why were these messages not transmitted? Second—Why did you not notify me that they were not transmitted? Third—Why did you pretend you knew nothing about them when my secretary repeatedly called at your office, making inquiry about them? Fourth—When you were finally forced to admit that you had held them up, why did you refuse to deliver them to my secretary or myself?"

"I ask these questions in writing, and request an answer in writing, as I purpose to take this matter up with the Secretary of War and the President in formal charges against you."

Glasford has only recognized one correspondent for Alaska papers, and alleges he had General Greely's approval, because this did away with overcrowding the wires.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ELECTION.

PLANNED BY MANUFACTURERS OF THREE STATES.

CONTROL SHINGLE OUTPUT

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2.—(Special)—Shingle manufacturers of British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and California will meet here Saturday to form a combination intended to control the shingle output of the Coast.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2.—(Special)—A group of Eastern retailers is on its way West to attend the meeting and to urge the elimination of the shingle gamblers from the trade. They will make a strong protest against the class of wholesalers who have been bearing the market price lists quoting shingles at less than the existing selling prices.

indignant men seems to be a fact well known to the chief Holy Roller, for when he left the seaside camp he went alone and by a route unknown to his followers, and has studiously avoided Benton County, where he is wanted.

By some unaccountable power, Creffield holds a terrible influence over his followers. In the last gathering of the Holy Roller clan were women who left pleasant homes and infant children to the care of strangers. Men have become delirious with indignation, and those who were seeking Creffield last evening were terribly in earnest. Reports have reached Albany of one attempt by a wronged husband to kill the apostle at Waldport, whether the apostle had been followed.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., May 2.—(Special)—The annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus was held here yesterday, with all the lodges in the state represented. After transacting the state business, Tacoma was selected as the next place of meeting, and the following officers were elected:

State deputy supreme knight, T. J. Gorman, Seattle; state secretary, E. J. Gorman, Tacoma; state treasurer, B. A. Clark, Bellingham; state advocate, John H. Lynch, North Yakima; state warden, Mr. Hammell, Spokane. Delegates to the National convention are William H. Dunphy, of Walla Walla, and E. J. Walsh, of Tacoma.

When the Creffields went to their camping ground on the coast, they were immediately followed by many of the women of Benton County, who had been under the spell of the "prophet," and the orgies of the Holy Rollers were reported to have begun again. People in Benton County became aroused and heads of families that were broken up by the teachings and practices of Creffield began talking ominously. Some gun play was indulged in by irate fathers and husbands, who followed Creffield to Waldport, and Creffield found things too hot for him.

When Mrs. Creffield appeared in Albany, she was trailed by a number of Corvallis men, who were seeking through her to ascertain the whereabouts of her husband. Last Sunday information was sent from the law that Creffield had departed from his camp, and the Holy Rollers were dispersed. The head of the new organization was said to have headed for Junction City, where Mrs. Creffield appeared on the way to Portland. It was immediately suspected that the prophet had headed for Junction City for the purpose of boarding the train there, joining his wife in Albany, and thence go to Portland.

Last night every train, freight or passenger, that passed through Albany from the south was watched by a number of Corvallis men, who were seeking the religious fanatic and despoiler of homes.

Just what was in store for Creffield is not known, for he failed to show up, although every freight train was searched thoroughly. That he is wanted by justice will be a rousing affair. Invitations have been extended many prominent men from all over the state. Thus far replies have been received from the following: Governor Chamberlain, M. J. Buckley, T. G. Halley, R. B. Miller, A. L. Craig, J. P. O'Brien, Jonathan Bourne, William McMurray and R. M. Hall. Of these Governor Chamberlain and T. G. Halley have accepted and stated their intentions of being present. The others have agreed to do so if possible.
