TESTIFY FOR LADD

Witnesses Tell of Hard Times During Panic.

REAL ESTATE UNSALEABLE

Suit of the Heirs of the Johnson Estate to Oust Administrator Is Continued in Judge Webster's Court.

All yesterday was taken up by the defense in the petition of the Johnson heirs for removal of W. M. Ladd as administrator of the A. H. Johnson estate, and the end is not yet in sight. Judge Webster will take the case up again this morning and at the conclusion of today's session postponement will be made at the request of Attorney C. E. S. Wood, representing Mr. Ladd.

The most important evidence on behalf of the defense yet adduced was brought out yesterday. The plan of defense is seemingly to establish that Mr. Ladd's management has been as effective as possible under existing financial conditions during the time of his service. Witnesses were put on to show the depressed condition of the real estate market, especially during 1893 and the succeeding years when Ladd first had charge of a portion of the Johnson property under a deed of trust for the purpose of making a settlement of Mr. Johnson's enormous debts.

Testimony of this character occupied most of the morning session, being supplemented by the testimony of Mr. Wood, who was acting as Mr. Ladd's attorney at the time of the elder Johnson's demise. The first witness was M. W. Smith, who stated that it was next to impossible to realize on real property anything of its value during and after the financial panic of 1893. Similar testimony was offered by L. A. Lewis and Frank Korman.

Mr. Wood told of his personal part in the making out of a trust deed whereby Mr. Johnson set apart a portion of his property to Ladd. Acting under Ladd's instructions he conferred with Johnson, who was seriously ill, and made out the deed of trust in accordance with the wishes of the two men.

The feature of the afternoon session was an attack on the deposition made by one of the heirs, Arthur Johnson, who was unable to be present at the trial. Mr. Johnson stated in this deposition, among other things, that his father said in his last conversation with Mr. Ladd and attorneys that he understood the deed over of the property relieved his estate from further liabilities. Attorney Richard Williams, who was present at the interview in question, denied having heard any such conversation.

Testifies for Ladd.

Benjamin I. Cohen was the first witness of the afternoon. Mr. Cohen gave further testimony concerning the panic of 1893, saying it was extremely difficult at that time to dispose of property at anything like its real value.

Attorney A. C. Emmons testified that on behalf of one of his clients he held a claim against the Johnson estate, he had occasion, several years ago, to investigate Mr. Ladd's management of the estate.

"What conclusion did you reach regarding his handling of the estate's affairs?" asked Attorney Lintholm, who conducted the examination of witnesses for the defense.

"As far as we could tell, he was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances," replied Mr. Emmons.

W. B. Roberts, credit man for Lang &

Co., testified that he had been directed in February, 1902, to investigate the value of the Johnson estate with an idea to determining whether it was sufficient to meet all obligations. He said that he went over the property and concluded it was insufficient to pay off the debts against it.

When cross-examined by Attorney Riddell, Mr. Roberts said he made his investigation from a list of properties given him by Mr. Lang, and had no knowledge as to whether the whole of the Johnson estate was included in this inventory.

Mr. Williams, the last witness of the day, gave testimony pertaining to the issuance of the deed of trust by Johnson to Ladd. His sole connection with that transaction, he said, was his reading of the deed as Mr. Johnson's attorney. He understood that the property was to be devoted to the payment of Mr. Johnson's debts. He said he advised fighting the suit in foreclosure brought by Isaac White, believing it an unwarranted thing that Mr. Johnson should be attached on his deathbed. Mr. Johnson's idea in signing a deed of trust was to relieve his wife from the responsibility of meeting the obligations of the estate, he said.

Tells of Hard Times.

Regarding the hard times that came after Mr. Johnson's death, Attorney Williams said the depression was heavy, and that there was in fact no real estate market at all for several years.

"I thought I was well off in 1893," said Mr. Williams, "and was planning a new home, but when that panic came I was glad to stay where I was, and have been in the same house since. A year which I built the time I did not get paid for until a year. For the first time in my life, too, I went into debt, and am only recently beginning to get straightened around."

SWOPE IS ARRESTED

Accused of Criminal Libel in Linn County.

SUNDAY MERCURY'S EDITOR

He Is Charged by Mrs. M. Senders, of Albany, With Publishing an Untruthful and Defamatory Article.

William F. Swope, proprietor of the Sunday Mercury, was arrested yesterday by Sheriff R. L. White, of Linn County, for criminal libel. The complainant is Mrs. M. Senders, the wife of a well-known business man of Albany. The article causing the complaint was published April 7, and refers to Mrs. Senders and Dr. Blake, a dentist. Ed Mendenhall was engaged by Mr. Swope to defend him, and late yesterday afternoon filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, which was set for hearing at 10 o'clock this morning by Judge Sears. Mr. Swope was released on bail.

"I don't know a thing about it," declared W. F. Swope, the defendant, last evening. "I don't remember the story, and no complaint was ever made to the office about it until I was arrested today. I think it's an outrage that such a suit should be started up there in Albany. They just want to get me up there. Why couldn't they have brought a civil suit for damages here—that would have been the right thing to do.

"I don't even know when the story was published, and as a matter of fact, I don't know really what article is meant, as it wasn't stated in the warrant. I do know that there was a deal of money paid for extra copies in mad for about a week ago.

"And say, why did they wait seven weeks to bring this suit? Would you have waited all this time if you thought your character had been injured? Not on your life."

ATTACK ON MRS. M. SENDERS

She Informs District Attorney, Who Files a Complaint.

ALBANY, Or., May 11.—(Special.)—About a month ago the City of Albany was set agog by an alleged libelous article which appeared in the Sunday Mercury, a paper printed in Portland, concerning several Albany persons, among them being the wife of M. Senders, one of the prosperous and prominent business men of the city. The few copies of the paper which are gossipers, and every one in town soon knew of the attack that had been made by the editor of the paper. The standing of the people whom the Mercury had attempted to bring into public scandal and disgrace is such that the article was immediately branded as absurd, and popular indignation was aroused, particularly among friends and relatives of those whom the article besmirched.

Talk of libel suits was general for a day or so, and an effort was made to ascertain if the author of the story was a resident of Albany. No developments were announced, however, until the District Attorney quietly filed a complaint in the Justice Court, with Mrs. Senders as prosecuting witness.

The complaint alleges that "William F.

Swope, on the 7th day of April, 1906, in the County of Linn and State of Oregon, unlawfully, maliciously and willfully contrived and intending to injure and defame and annoy one Mrs. M. Senders, and to bring her into public scandal and disgrace, did unlawfully, wrongfully, willfully and maliciously compose, publish and print in a certain newspaper called the Sunday Mercury, a certain false and malicious matter and libel of Mrs. Senders." The article alluded to is set forth in detail in the complaint, which is a long one, occupying several typewritten pages.

Mrs. Senders, the prosecuting witness, is a popular Albany woman, the mother of a family and prominent in lodge circles. Against her not a word of scandal was ever breathed prior to the publication of the Swope story. The story is here branded as infamous and given no credence whatever.
