Italian Girl Tells Why She Killed Uncle and Aunt.

MADE SLAVE AND DRUDGE

Gaetano Degraded Her and Caused Husband to Desert Her-Voice Whispered "Kill Him." and She Obeyed.

NEW YORK, May 22.-(Special.)-Josephine Terranova, on the witness-stand in her own behalf in her trial for the murder of her uncle and aunt, today told as remarkable and at the same time as horrible a story as had ever been heard in the Criminal Courts building. She re-vealed all. Only once did she hesitate. and then, when ex-Judge Palmieri told her she must tell everything, that she need not feel ashemed, she laid bare the whole story of abuse.

Beginning with her coming to this country, she went on through the whole chapter of horror, and, gaining courage with each utterance, held Judge and jury and spectators breathless as she recounted the wrongs headen upon her by the man and woman she murdered. In good English and in a clear, strong voice, she teracly pictures the scene in the Reggio house on the night she went there to wips out the stain on her life.

Graphic Story of Killing.

'Before I entered the house," she said, "I crossed myself. The voice of God told me to go in and kill. I went in." And she smiled quietly. "I called my uncle a traftor and I stabbed him. The voice of God told me to stab any one came between my uncle and me, aunt came, and I stabbed her."

Again the girl smiled.
"I hear the voice of God in my cell in the Tombs," she went on. "I see the face of my uncle in the stones of my cell, He holds out his hands to me as if ask-ing me to forgive him. I hang my apron over his face in the stones."

"I did not go to church or school." she said, "for seven years after I came to America. My uncle and aunt would not let me. I wanted to go. I did everything—washing, scrubbing, everything—and sometimes there were 10, 11, 15 boarders in the house." "Do you remember one Winter morning when you were about II and a half years old?" she was asked. The girl replied that she did, that her sunt had taken her to the uncle's room that day. "That is what I am on trial here about,"

Story Makes Woman Faint.

As the girl told of her uncle's treatment, a woman spectator fainted and the court proceedings were interrupted by the resulting commotion. The girl hesitated in giving her testimony, saying she was ashamed to speak it.

She said her auut had forced her to obey her uncle and had beaten her, breaking a stick during one of the whippings and making the witness so sick that she went to bed.

The girl said that she was never per mitted to play with other children and was forbidden to talk English or associate with the boarders in the house. She sald she wanted to go to her mother, but was not permitted to.

The witness said her husband was led to suspect what her relations with her uncle had been obcause of a remark which the latter made. She declared that her uncie's mistreatmest covered a period of about six years, and that it continued up to and including the night after her civil marriage to Terranova.

Voice Said "Kill Him."

She told of the circumstances which led her to kill her uncle, Gaetano, and her aunt, Conetta. She said that her husband after listening to her confession, told her she was no longer his wife and thereupon left her.

She remained alone during the following ten days subject, she said, to the influence of hallucinations in which hir uncle ap-peared. Whenever he appeared a voice

Each night, the witness continued, sho would dream or imagine that she was in the presence of God and there again she would hear the words:

At the end of ten days, the girl said, she wen to her mother's house and was turned away. Then the mysterious voice became more insistent, and their directions more pointed, telling her to buy a knife and re-volver and kill. When armed and on her way to their house for this purpose, she said, she had crossed herself three limes and prayed to know whether she was doing right. She confronted her uncle, calling him "traitor," and h ereplied: "You'are an outcast."

Began to Stab When Aunt Came. She remembered little of her attack but asserted that she began to stab when her aunt came between her and Gaetano. She did not remember which one she struck first.

Under cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Elie, the witness said that she had been unable to run away from her uncle's treatment, as she desired to. Her aunt, she said, had told her that there was no harm in her relations with

The trial was adjourned until tomorrow.

GREAT PAINTER DROWNED

Mulvaney, Famous for "Custer's Last Stand," Found in River.

NEW YORK. May 22.—Papers found to-day on the body of a man taken yesterday from East River, led to the belief that the bedy is that of John Mulvaney, the paint-er of "Custer's Last Stand," a picture which has been exhibited in every large city in the United States. Some of the letters bore the names and address, "John Mulvaney, Brooklyn." Several of the let-ters contained references to "Thuster's contained references to "Custer's

Carpenters Broke Contract.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor, of Brooklyn, yesterday submitted his decision as arbi-trator of the differences between the Mas-ter Carpenters' Association and the Joint District Council of Greater New York, which two weeks ago resulted in a strike of the carpenters in the Borough of Brooklyn. He finds that the action of the strikers was unjustified, being in violation of their written agreement. He holds that the present scale of wages must remain in force until July 1, which was the date fixed for the increase of wages in all the
