Wants Road Across Cascades.—J. W. Shatinck, of Gresham, member of the commission appointed at the last meeting of the Legislature to consider the matter of building a macadium road with convict labor through the Willamette Valley to the state line, has different views from those held by other members of the commission. Mr. Shattuck maintains that it will be far better and more fair to the entire state to build a first-class wagon road between Western and Eastern Oregon than to build such a road through the state to the Oregon line. "It would not be fair to Eastern Oregon," said Mr. Shattuck yesterday in speaking of the matter, "to build such a road with convict labor through Western Oregon to the California line. To my mind a well constructed road from Western Oregon across the Cascades into the eastern part of the state would be more beneficial to the state than one to the state line." Judgment fon Dressmann.—Before Justice Waldemar Seion, in the East Side court yesterday, the lawsuit of Mrs. C. Hozarth against Rittle Morgan to recover $6 for services performed as dressmaker was tried. All the witnesses were women, the only men in the case being Judge Seion and the two attorneys. Owing to the intricacies of dressmaking the case was neculiarly difficult for court and attorney. The defendant claimed that Mrs. Bozarth had not finished all the dress and that the part she did finish was already worn out. The walst was still in the hands of plaintiff. She put in a counter claim of H8 for dismages for fallure of Mrs. Bozarth to complete the suit. Judge Seion, after hearing evidence, gave defendant judgment for $3.50.

DEMENTED MAN AT POLICE STATION Lampke, a German, more than 70 years of age, well dressed and with money in his pockets, but demented, was found yesterday afternoon by means of a cane, which Policeman Wade discovered at the foot of Jefferson street near the river Menday night. Wade believed that the old man had fallen into the river and was drowned. He made a report to that effect to the Chief of Police. Lempke wandered to the Chief of Police. Lempke wandered into police headquarters yesterday afternoon and accused Captain Moore of stealing his cane. Lempke was held at the station and an effort was made to find his lodging place. The demented man gave several addresses, but none of them proved to be his home. He will be held at the station until some of his relatives or friends learn of his whereabouts.

THOUSANDS IN ATTENDANCE

Speeches, Music and Stereopticon Slides Prove Happy Feature of the Great Event of

If the "Made in Oregon" Exposition consisted of nothing more than the monster free entertainment given at the Armory last night it would be recorded as a great success. Never be-fore in the history of Portland has a more successful, and a more thorough-ly enjoyable entertainment of this kind been given. No less than $600 persons attended the entertainment, and appar-ently, from the great enthusiasm that was manifested, were glad and delight-was malifested, were glad and delighted that they had attended.

The Armory was filled and several thousand persons were unable to obtain admittance because all of the seats and all of the available standing-room was occupied. Not only were the balconies crowded until they could hold no more spectators, but the drill-hall itself was packed with humanity.

Enthusiasm on All Sides.

A. H. Devers, who presided as master of ceremonies, was then introduced. He made a few remarks in which he highly complimented the members of the Portland Ad Men's League for inaugurating and carrying through to a successful issue a movement from which they would not receive any more benefit than other citizens of the state. Fletcher Linn, president of the Manufacturers' Association, made a short address in which he gave a brief review of the extent and importance of the manu-facturing industry of Portland. On be-
