GRAND LODGE OF ODDFELLOWS

Nearly Five Hundred in Attendance at Its Sessions.

ELECTION OCCURS TODAY

Following the Session of the Governing Body of the Subordinates, the Muscovites Will Hold Their Convention.

Nearly 500 members of the Oregon Grand Lodge of Oddfellows crowded the Knights of Pythias Hall, at Eleventh and Alder streets, yesterday, in annual session. The morning was given over to acceptance of credentials from delegates and admission of new members. A class of nearly 500 was admitted to the inner circle. In the afternoon reports of officers were heard and general routine business for the good of the order considered. The most important business transacted was the acceptance of several amendments to the constitution of the Grand Lodge and individual lodges proposed by the district committees. The work of the day was terminated by referring different matters to committees. These immediately went into session, and will report their findings today for approval or rejection.

Samarian Exemplifies Work

No session was held last night, the evening being given over to an initiation by Samarian Lodge, before the visiting delegates. At 10 o'clock this morning, officers for the year will be elected, and the rest of the day will be given over to new business and hearing committee reports. The Muscovites also convene today in annual meeting. The Muscovites stand in the same relation to the Grand Lodge of the Oddfellows as do the Shriners to the Masonic.

Attachment Suit Begun

An attachment suit was begun in the State Circuit Court yesterday by the American Hospital Association against R. H. Jewell to recover $1500 for 1500 shares of stock of the company, which Jewell had sold to the association in August, 1905, and for which he has since refused to pay.

DRUNKEN BRAWL ENDS IN MURDER

Gust Wirtenan on Trial for Killing of Matt Watilo.

MAN HE SLEW HIS FRIEND

Intoxicated Man Beats Landlord and Lutter, in His Frenzy, Shoots Innocent Man Who Had Helped Him. Frank Snow, detective, testified at the trial of Gust Wirtenan yesterday that the police station after his arrest Wirtenan showed him how he stood when he shot Matt Watilo, only a few feet away, and said he fired high and intended to frighten him and did not intend to hit him. Snow testified that Wirtenan said the officer made to say that Watilo assaulted him, and Mr. Leonard would not admit on cross-examination that he got the names Houtala and Watilo mixed. Houtala is the man who beat Wirtenan, according to the evidence of all the witnesses.

Wife Sues for Divorce

Mrs. Ethel Marie McPherson, who was married to Joseph Edward McPherson in March, 1887, in British Columbia, says he deserted her in November, 1902, and came to Portland. In September, 1904, she came to this city, and asked him to resume marital relations with her, and he refused to do so. Yesterday Mrs. McPherson began suit in the State Circuit Court against her husband for a divorce. She alleges in her complaint that he has not supported her, nor provided for the support and education of their two children since the month of November, 1902, and is unfit to be entrusted with their care and custody. She asks the court to give her the children, and to compel the father to contribute alimony.

Archie Leonard Reads Notes

Archie Leonard, clerk to Chief Grizmacher, read notes of a statement made at the station by Wirtenan in which Wirtenan was made to say that Watilo assaulted him, and Mr. Leonard would not admit on cross-examination that he got the names Houtala and Watilo mixed. Houtala is the man who beat Wirtenan, according to the evidence of all the witnesses.

Refused a Drink

Wirtenan refused a drink offered by Houtala, saying he had enough, and poured the brandy on the floor. The action incensed Houtala, who struck Wirtenan as they passed from the room into the hallway, and then pushed him downstairs. Houtala stood above Wirtenan and kicked him in the face. Wirtenan turned when part of the way downstairs and ran. As he reached the street he was overtaken by Houtala, and they struggled and fell into the street in the mud. Houtala was on top, and continued to beat Wirtenan. Mrs. Wirtenan came upon the scene and Houtala ran away. Kalvousari further stated that Watilo helped to wash the mud and blood off Wirtenan's face,

WANTS OTHER FOR GUARDIAN

G. C. Lichtenthaler Petitions Against Appointment of an Uncle. George C. Lichtenthaler, 28 years old, whose uncle, William B. Jolly, recently filed a petition in the County Court to be appointed his guardian, yesterday filed an answer to the petition, stating that he did not desire Mr. Jolly for his guardian, but that he desired Mr. Manning, H. M. Manning, who is a brother-in-law of his, to be his guardian. Mr. Jolly in his petition set forth that George C. Lichtenthaler was left lots 7 and 8, block 6, Caruthers Addition, which his father, E. M. Lichtenthaler, bought from him, and also $1800. George C. Lichtenthaler denies this in his answer, and avers that his father always provided for and nursed and educated him, and in his will his father bequeathed him all of the income of his property for life. The son further says his uncle does not desire to be his guardian for love of him, but so as to control his estate. Mr. Lichtenthaler in his answer also sets forth that he suffers from spells of sickness in the nature of epilepsy; otherwise he would not need a guardian. He is now staying at the home of George J. Thomas, who was long a trusted friend of his father. He asserts that he is well treated and is growing stronger and healthier because the family takes such good care of him and he asks the court to appoint Mr. Thomas as his guardian.

Benefits of Co-Operation

At the banquet the nucleus for an organization to embrace many of the leading commercial bodies of the three states in the Northwest was laid. Practically all of the speakers spoke of the great benefits that would be derived from such an organization, which would work for the Northwest as a whole and not as a part. The members of the Spokane delegation were heartily in sympathy with the suggestion, and upon the visit of the executive committee the matter will be further discussed.

TRIP TO SPOKANE

Commercial Club Arranges an Excursion. Excursions to neighboring states and cities are becoming very popular among the Portland business men. A delegation of Portland business men is now attending the farmers' and shippers' convention at North Bend, but the latest is the forthcoming visit of the executive committee of the Commercial Club to Spokane. Accompanied by other prominent citizens, who will go along as guests, the members of the executive committee will be entertained by the publicity and promotion committee of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce next Saturday and Sunday at Spokane.
