

NEW DOGS BRING BEARERS' LUCK

Portland Ball Tossers Take Two Games From Dillon's Angels.

SCORES STAND 5-4, 5-2

Hopkins Pitches Star Ball in First Game, But Falls Down in Ninth—Essick's Twirling Wins the Second.

Those new studs of the Beavers are certainly the breadwinners. Clad in their glad raiment they carried off two games from Frank Dillon and his Angel host yesterday by scores of 5-4 and 5-2. One of the games postponed from last week was played on in the morning, and another will be disposed of this afternoon.

Hopkins and French were the opposing twirlers in the morning performance and Hopkins all but won the game. The little southpaw had Mitchell, McFalls and everybody else who thinks he is a better swinging like a gate, hunting for his angelic shoofs. For six innings not a hit was recorded against him, but the closing chapter the bleachers got in their work and just to help things along Califf, who succeeded French in the eighth inning, hit one to Ellis, which tied obligingly dropped.

Was a Glorious Finish.

Moore, who had drawn a walk, took second on the play. McFalls walked and with the shouts of the bleachers ringing in his ears Midget Hopkins passed out the same tribune to Mitchell. McFalls, Moore home. Mitchell slapped a two-bagger into the left and Califf and McFalls centered in. The manager held up his hand by hitting his arm into a pitcher's hand and then it was Jud Smith's turn. Just to be in the swim the quondam Angel nailed one to the cross on the left field fence and hit Mike Humber with the winning tally. It was a glorious finish and redeemed all the slow work during the early innings.

The locals had scored one in the first on a pretty slide home by McFalls, who had got around to third on a walk, forced by Sweeney, and a slow one laid down by McFalls, which was the first home run of the season.

In the afternoon Schmidt went on the fringe line for the Angels, but in the fourth inning he got into an altercation with Empire Knell, the upshot of which was that Schmidt was invited to spend the rest of the afternoon on the bench. Steltz took his place, but the Beavers found his offerings easy, scoring one in the ninth on a hit over pitching, three in the sixth and another in the seventh. The best the Angels could do with Bill Essick, who handed them over for the locals was one in the fifth and another in the ninth, when the blonde boy let down.

Brought Manager Home.

In the fourth McCrede beat out a bunt. Jud Smith dumped one over third on which he went to second, while McCrede sprinted to second. Schmidt then retired as related heretofore. Lister sent the manager home on a hit to left of Steltz, who was put in.

Harry McCrede brought the crowd to its feet in the sixth when he slammed one to the right field fence bringing Smith and Lister, who were high on benches, and scoring himself on Dillon's wild leave to third in an effort to head off Lister.

Mitchell was the hero of the next chapter. Moore topped him, home and second and went around to the third station on Sweeney's sacrifice and good baserunning. Mike then laid into one which traveled to the fence and Jimmy crossed the plate.

Essick had the visitors on his string at every stage. In the fifth Gochnauer drew a base on balls and came home from second, where McFalls had sacrificed him, on Steltz's single to center. The Angels made a gallant stand in the last ditch. Moore topped Dillon's fly. On a passed ball the old veteran went to second and from here he scored on Gochnauer's bingle.

In the fifth the fair haired Portland twirler closed up matters easily by striking out McFalls, Bliss and Steltz in succession.

This is how it happened, both morning and afternoon:

Football Enthusiasts Discuss New Game.

CHANGE IS NOT POPULAR

English Sport Must Resist Strong Prejudice in Favor of Old Style.

Although Fall football contests are yet full months away, a vast amount of speculation is rife as to how the game will be played, and who will do the playing, and also whether there is any likelihood of the English pastime supplanting the old college variety of American football.

Rain Prevents Oakland Game.

OAKLAND, May 27.—The San Francisco Fresno game postponed on account of rain.

NORTHWESTERN LEAGUE.

Gray's Harbor 2-1, Tacoma 1-4.

ABERDEEN, Wash., May 27.—The biggest crowd of the season saw Tacoma take the afternoon game from the Grays. Finney was in perfect form, while Tomson was heavily hit for four innings, when Lewis replaced him. The locals never had a chance to win, Finney keeping hits well scattered. The attendance was 3,000. The score:

MAY SUBSTITUTE SOCKER.

Portland Academy May Abandon the American Game.

Principals Johnston and Wilson, of the Portland Academy, are considering the advisability of changing the game of football at their institution. Last winter, when the agitation among collegiate institutions was at its height against the game, the principals told their students that they, too, were opposed to the game and that if the high schools insisted on learning foot measures against the game they, also, might be induced to prohibit further football playing at the Academy.

The academy expects to read their paper when the next issue of the Troubadour, the school paper, comes out. The principals have said that through the columns of this paper they will announce their decision on the fate of the game. The next issue of this paper will not appear for several weeks.

It is understood that Principals Johnston and Wilson are also opposed to Rugby because of its roughness and that they propose as a substitute for the modern game Socker or Association football.

Hamilton Corbett was elected last Fall to be captain of the team next year.

Rain Prevents Chicago Game.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The Chicago-Boston game was postponed on account of rain.

No Run by Automobile Club.

The Automobile Club did not venture a run yesterday. Some of the more daring spirits braved the elements a week ago and got a thorough drenching for their efforts. Although the sun was shining brightly, the members could not bring themselves to risk a sudden shower again.

Lonergan at Work.

As it now stands, the fact of the athletic committee has gone forth, and unless some special meeting reconsiders the action before Fall, the action will stand. Already Jimmy Lonergan is studying the English football code, and the prospect of turning out a team for the Cardinal that will be just as thoroughly schooled in the art of Rugby as his former teams have been in the American game.

Just at present the Stanford boys do not like it because their game was taken away from them, but they will do the best they can with Rugby, and I think they will like it better than they imagine. Rugby is a good game and a hard game. The element lacking is the personal encounter of one man with another that comes with the intercollegiate game.

That's what your college man wants, and that is what he will find lacking. We may go back to intercollegiate Rugby, but it will be given a fair trial. It may result in a lighter team, but the New Zealanders tell me that the ideal man is one who is fast on his feet and weighs about 180.

The Eastern committee is tinkering with the rules of the intercollegiate game so much that it is hard to say what will be the result. The game is being played with the very essence of football, as played at present. To meet the forward pass it will be necessary to keep at least seven men in the back field. This will weaken the defense so much that there will be more gains by bucking the line. With the forward pass, there is no reason why the 10 yards cannot be made in the necessary number of downs.

O. F. Snediger, California's veteran athlete, is not in front of the game, and he has been elected graduate manager for the Blue and Gold for the coming season. He may be in a position to secure some change in the near future, though this is not probable.

Cannot Foresee Results.

It is impossible to estimate the prospects of the two teams. The game is being played with a complete change from the old style that we do not furnish opportunity for any of the veterans to participate. Langan has been quoted as saying that he believed the best Rugby team could be selected from the baseball and basketball teams. All this makes present experts to estimate the strength of the new teams mere speculation. Both will have to be developed from men who know practically nothing of the game.

If the old game was played again next Fall, Stanford would be especially strong. Practically every man of the 1905 eleven would be back again on the field and the combination would be one of the best in the west. California, on the other hand, would have a strong line, but would have to develop new men in the back field. The most promising candidates being members of last Fall's freshman team. These men would be lighter and less experienced than the Stanford team, and would have to put up a good quality of ball to hold their own.

California Might Be Strong.

But there is another thing to be brought into consideration that will spoil some of the best football prophesies that could be made, and that is the effect of the new rules. It is the opinion of the California supporters are of the opinion that their lighter and faster boys should make good in the new style of play that the Eastern rules committee has attempted to bring about. It seems to be the opinion of experts on the game that open play will be absolutely necessary to make ten yards in three downs with the restrictions that have been placed on tackling. Whether this is true and whether it will militate against the heavy smashers in the back field is a question that time alone will decide.

LATONIA SPRING MEETING.

Opens With Decoration Handicap and Lasts 31 Days.

CINCINNATI, May 27.—The Spring meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club begins Wednesday, May 30, Decoration day, and will continue for 31 days. The meeting will be conducted independently of either of the two turf organizations now existing in the West. Eleven stakes will be decided.

The attraction for the opening day is the Decoration handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, which will net about $200 to the winner. The Latonia derby comes Saturday, and almost the same field that went to the post for the Kentucky Derby at Louisville will battle it all over again at Latonia.

Slr-Houss, who won the Kentucky Derby in clever style, will have to carry 127 pounds at Latonia, and notwithstanding

KING JOHN'S LOST GOLD.

Antiquarians to Search in Sand for Crown Jewels.

Everybody knows—or rather is supposed to know—that King John lost his baggage train when he was taking a short cut across the Wash to escape his wrathful barons, who were in hot pursuit of him. The exact spot where the train was lost is a wide and shallow waterway on the east coast of England, between the counties of Lincoln and Norfolk.

According to some accounts, to grow his sorrow he went on a big spree, which brought on an attack of dysentery, of which he died. He was buried in Worcester cathedral, and a large sum of money was set aside as a further protection against the hands of the sea.

It has been generally assumed that King John's lost treasure was still buried somewhere in the quicksands, and that in the course of the centuries that have since elapsed the stuff must have sunk many fathoms deep in the shifting sands. Under such circumstances, its recovery would be so costly an affair as to render the prospect of success well-nigh hopeless.

But Sir John Hope, of the Society of Antiquaries, is able to state definitely that owing to the changes that have taken place in the sea line and the reclamation of waste lands, the treasure now lies on a low island in the sea.
