

FEAR OF REVERSE

Packers Make Wild Stampede to Reform Plants.

PRESIDENT TELLS EFFECT

Indorses Neill and Reynolds in Letter to Wadsworth and Gives Report from Secret Agent. More Inspection Needed.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In response to a request from the House committee on agriculture, President Roosevelt forwarded to Representative Wadsworth, the chairman of that committee, the report made to him by a committee of the Department of Agriculture regarding conditions in the Chicago meat-packing houses.

It is said in the latest report that the packing-house proprietors are manifesting almost a humorous haste to clean up, repave and even to plan for future changes. New toilet-rooms are being provided, with additional dressing-rooms, and clean towels. The report says that "the haste toward reform would have been amusing if it were not so nearly frank."

The President says his investigations have not been completed, but that "enough has been developed in my judgment to call for immediate thorough-going and radical enlargement of the powers of the Government in inspecting all meats which enter into interstate commerce and foreign commerce."

Following is the full text of the letter of the President to Chairman Wadsworth: Reasons for Investigation.

The White House, Washington, D. C., June 8, 1906.—My Dear Mr. Wadsworth: In accordance with your request, I send you herewith the report of a committee appointed by the committee appointed by the Department of Agriculture on April 5 and 13. This committee has already been appointed when I notified the Secretary that I desired that such a committee should be appointed in order to make a full and complete investigation of the packing-houses, but also to a certain extent reflected upon the action of the Government inspectors, and I came to the conclusion that it was best to have an investigation made by outside individuals who could not be charged with any bias.

The President in his letter says that after he had requested the Secretary of Agriculture to appoint a committee to investigate, complaints were made that the charges were not only against the packing-houses, but reflected to a certain extent on the action of the Government inspectors. He, therefore, ordered an investigation by outside individuals, who could not be charged with being in any way interested in the matter.

Much testimony has been offered to us which has not been considered in this report. For Mr. Neill and Mr. Reynolds in this report have summarized the facts as to which they had been witnesses, and what they have said, and what they have done, and what they have done, and what they have done.

As to the ground covered in common by the reports of the two investigating committees, there is no conflict in substance as to the important matters, although there is a marked difference in emphasis. This being partially due to the greater length and detail of the report of the committee of the District of Columbia, and the brevity of the report of Messrs. Neill and Reynolds is abundantly justified by the facts.

At Armour's on every hand there was indication of an almost unanimous desire to clean up, repave and even to plan for future changes. New toilet-rooms, new dressing-rooms, new towels, etc. Swift's and Armour's were both so cleaned up that I was compelled to cheer them on their way by expressing my pleasure in the changes. The sausage girls were moved upstairs, where they could get sun and light. They are to have dressing-rooms, toilet-rooms, for showers and lockers for the cleaning workers at Armour's and get a promise that they would get them. The cleaning and stuffing-room, chip beef and beef extract at Armour's seemed really quite good. In all of these rooms the work at Swift's and Armour's girls are to be put into a blue calico uniform, which will secure, but at half price. They are permitted to wear hats, which they say are temporary, and that when the building is completed, they will have these put in a better place. The haste toward reform would have been amusing if it were not so nearly frank.

MANY PENSION BILLS PASS

House Spends Much Time on Sunday Civil Legislation.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—With the exception of an hour spent on pension legislation, in which time 27 bills for the relief of Civil and Spanish-American War veterans were passed, the House labored today on the sundry civil bill, making much headway.

Under the lead of Kaiser, of Ohio, the House refused to transport silver coins and other money by registered mail, insisting that their transportation should be handled by the express companies. During the arguments it was contended that the West and South need silver dollars for circulation.

The conference report on the bill to prohibit aliens from fishing in Alaskan waters was agreed to, also the Senate amendments to the bill forbidding the importation, exportation or carriage in interstate commerce of falsely or spurious stamped articles of gold or silver or their alloys. These bills now go to the President for approval.

COMPROMISE ON STATEHOOD

Carter Finds Solution of Difficulty About Jointure.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—A basis of compromise, if not the exact form, which is said to be acceptable to a majority of the Senators for the settlement of differences on the statehood question, has been submitted by Senator Carter. This provides for a vote at the next regular territorial elections of Arizona and New Mexico, to be held in November, for delegates to a constitutional convention to frame a constitution for a proposed new state, and a vote on the question of statehood to be submitted in this form: "Shall Arizona and New Mexico be united as one state?"

Under such a parliamentary procedure the bill would not have to be reconsidered by the House. It eliminates the expense of holding a constitutional convention in the event the territory should be rejected against statehood and avoids the confusion of the statehood question with an election for state officers.

WILL ASK RECOMMITMENT

WASHINGTON, June 8.—To facilitate consideration of the railroad rate bill Senator Tillman has determined to ask the committee to reconsider its action in agreeing to the conference report and instead to recommit the bill to the conferees.

Morgan Speaks on Isle of Pines.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Senate today listened to two set speeches, one by Morgan in support of his resolution providing for an investigation by a Senate committee of the affairs of the Isle of Pines, and the other by Hopkins in opposition to the sea-level canal bill. Neither measure was acted on. Morgan also spent in considering the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

Officers Must Attend Maneuvers.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In order that as many officers as possible may be present for duty at the maneuvers camps of instruction, which are to be held in the British during the summer, leaves of absence will not be granted to officers of the Army between July 1 and September 30, next, except for urgent reasons specially set forth in the application.

Will Pass Pure Food Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In reply to an inquiry from Representative Hinshaw, of Nebraska, Representative Mann, of Illinois, has made an emphatic statement to the House that, so far as he knew, was the intention of the House to consider and pass a pure-food bill, and he had no doubt it would become a law at this session.

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—A 10,000 gallon water tank crashed through the three-story brick building at 37-54 Liberty street, this afternoon, causing a fear wall to fall out, and injuring seven persons so that they had to be taken to hospital. DEFENDS HIS CHIEF

CREIGHTON UNDER CLOUD

General Superintendent of Pennsylvania Road Accused of Forcing Operators to Rent His Cars. Aiken Is Discharged.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—At the conclusion of today's session the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended its inquiry into the relations of railroads with coal and oil interests until next Tuesday, when it will be resumed here. Probably the most important feature of the session was the voluntary testimony of J. McClellan, of Blairsville, Pa., contradicting the testimony of previous witnesses.

Father Costello, who has been appointed chaplain of St. Vincent's Hospital.

nesses, who told the Commission that it had been the policy of the Pennsylvania Railroad to encourage its employees to become interested in coal companies on the lines of the road.

Compelled to Rent Cars.

Charles McFadden related the story of his troubles while he was a mine operator in the soft coal fields. His car supply became so meager that he was compelled to rent cars from the Commercial Coal Company, a concern in which General Superintendent Creighton, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is interested. He was finally compelled to make an arrangement by which the Commercial Company operates his mines for one-third the profit.

Robert Cassatt, son of President Cassatt, denied the statement made yesterday by S. F. Porter, of the Donahue Henry of Prussia and Coke Company, that operations had been favored in the distribution of cars. He also stated that the Keystone Company was not a "Casatt concern."

Honor Worth More Than Stock.

Mr. McLehlan, who appeared voluntarily, said he came to Philadelphia to vindicate ex-President Frank Thomson, of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He said that while he was in the employ of the railroad company he had been offered "a block of stock" by Captain Alfred Hicks, who was about to organize a mining company. Witness said his employer, Mr. Thomson, asking his advice in the matter, and that Mr. Thomson advised him "not to take the stock," that "honor is worth more than all the stock you can acquire."

Not Ready for Cassatt.

When the Pennsylvania Railroad statement, issued yesterday, indicating that President Cassatt is willing to be summoned before the Interstate Commission, Cockrell and Clements last night, they made a statement in which they said: "It is true that in April Mr. Cassatt signified his readiness to appear before the commission. 'The Commission has not yet determined whether or not it will require the testimony of Mr. Cassatt, and we estimate should not come until all others had been heard, so that both Mr. Cassatt and the Commission shall have the entire question before them, and that any statement by Mr. Cassatt shall be responsive to and cover the entire situation as it may be developed by the examination of subordinate officers and other witnesses.'"

"But there is nothing that stands in the way of Mr. Cassatt's making any statement he may desire to make before the Commission at any time. If his presence is called for by invitation or any other way we suppose he would come under the immunity clause."

Grafting Clerk Dismissed.

Joseph Aiken, chief clerk to the superintendent of the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was dismissed today by direction of Mr. Cassatt. He had testified that while his salary had averaged between $30 and $28 per month, he owned nearly $75,000 worth of coal stock. He admitted having received checks from coal companies and also gifts from company stores.

AMERICANS JOIN TOLEDO

Company of Well-Armed Californians Fighting in Guatemala.

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—News from the Guatemalan revolutionists in the southern part of that republic is that an American contingent of 183 men enlisted in San Francisco is with General Toledo's army. These men, who were especially well armed, came down on the steamer Empire City, now comprising practically the navy of the revolutionists. Much is expected of the American fighters.

California Mules for Rebels.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The Bulletin today says 1000 pack mules are at Port Costa waiting transportation to Guatemala, where they will be used to aid the revolutionists. Agents of the revolutionary leaders have been busy for many months purchasing and shipping these animals. The British tramp steamer Indradeo, due to arrive at Port Costa today, is being chartered to carry the mules and will begin loading them at once unless the United States interferes.

Nicaragua Backs the Rebels. NEW YORK, June 8.—A cable dispatch to the Herald from Panama says: Additional advices concerning the ship Empire, which, it is reported, left Corinto to shell San Jose, Guatemala, are to the effect that President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, guaranteed payment for the coal, President Zelaya's son, a Colonel, has 200 troops aboard, who expected to land at San Jose, Guatemala, on Wednesday. Mr. Tiedale, manager of the Guatemala Northern Railway, crossed the Isthmus Wednesday on a hurried trip to New York. It is thought the main objection for his property from the revolutionists.

Japan Promises Open Door.

NEW YORK, June 8.—An assurance from the leading statesmen of Japan that the promise of an open door in Corea and Manchuria will be carried out by Japan was reported by Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, who has returned from a visit to Japan and Corea.

THEY CUT OUT FRIENDSHIP

Greece and Roumania Sever Relations, but Cannot Fight.

ATHENS, June 8.—The Greek Minister at Bucharest has been ordered to announce the rupture of diplomatic relations with Roumania, and all Greek officials have been directed to quit that country. The trouble is due to the fact that the Sultan of Turkey, in May, 1905, issued an order officially recognizing the Roumanian or Koutak Vlach element in Macedonia. This is an irritation among the Greeks, who boycotted those employing the Roumanian language in church services. The Greek government also issued a general injunction of the Greeks in Roumania, several of whom had been expelled. As it is not possible for Greeks and Roumanians to attack each other on land or sea, the only damage they can do to each other is through an economic war, which may begin next month.

BRITISH NAVAL MANEUVERS

Great Fleets Act Out Imitation Attack on Island.

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 8.—(Special.)—The most important naval maneuvers ever attempted by the British navy were initiated today and the entire naval establishment is engaged. The principal purpose is to demonstrate what would actually occur in case of war, if any attack should be made upon the British Isles.

Neither side has any definite knowledge as to the strength of the enemy or its position, so that the commanders are obliged to move out accordingly and take no chances that they could not absolutely afford to attempt in case of actual warfare.

MUST CARRY OUT REFORM

Austrian Premier Says Electoral Legislation Cannot Be Dropped.

VIENNA, June 8.—Premier Baron von Beck in the upper house of the Reichsrath today explained the government's programme with regard to relations with Hungary in practically the same terms employed in the statement to the lower house Thursday. The Premier also declared that the electoral reform cannot be dropped half way, but must be carried through to the end. He asserted that it was indispensable that the interests of the electors should be established upon an absolutely clear basis.

He is convinced, he says, that with good will and unreserved frankness on both sides there is a possibility of reaching a form of political economic relation acceptable to all citizens. The speech was greeted with applause.

RACING AUTOS REACH VIENNA

Roads Heavy From Rains and Cars Covered With Mud.

VIENNA, June 7.—Great crowds watched the arrival today of the contestants in the Von Herkomer auto race. Prince Henry of Prussia and Mr. Manville arrived at noon. Rains had made the roads heavy and all the cars were smothered in mud. The only accident recorded was that in which a German car killed a peasant near Melk.

By 3 o'clock this afternoon 116 of the competitors had arrived. The race will be resumed Sunday from Vienna to Klagenfurt.

A MORNING IN JUNE.

Cows, Bees, Apples and Cherries Help the Picture.

The Independent. The clock has just struck three from the village church tower. Across the wide valley and beyond the village and across the downy meadows to put out the stars. There are pink flushes, almost as unstable as the northern lights, that touch the clouded earth. The water over the mill is strong, for the miller has no need to stir over night. The pink flush grows redder; the dawn breaks.

As the car can hear one may distinguish a flute from the east. It has for a while no accompaniment. Then the robin whose nest is by your window stirs the vines. You hear a rustle everywhere. Attention! The flute note is doubled and redoubled, and is drawing nearer and nearer. It comes steadily across the valley in a growing volume of sweet melody. Robins everywhere join in, no two singing exactly alike; but the chorus is grand. The valley is full of it. It rolls still nearer, like a great air wave, filling the air. The sun is drinking dew, and the dew is full of clover and rose fragrances. Milking is a poem, if done where we can smell the clover and if the milk be not a hot two or three cows and the folk, have been companions these many hundreds of years; but in early days it was the woman who milked. The word daughter, or daughter, means the milkmaid; and we see no reason why it should not be milkier still. Gladys at last is at the bars and ready to help in carrying these animals.

rying in the foaming pails to the house. There she will strain them carefully and set them in the broad pans for the cream. The bees are abroad; and the village clock has struck 5. The basswoods are in bloom. There is honey hid in every blossom, but you and I could not get it out. Who knows what else there is that no one and no thing has ever found out? Some day nature will make somebody or something, to see it and to use it. We walk among our hives with wonder that, wiser than we, the occupants have industries and industrial order that shames our human habitations and our municipal politics. In one thing we easily lead in our self-sufficiency; yet we are the most helpless of all creatures—taken alone. The cows and the bees, the apples and the cherries make up our civilization. As for our cities, they are infinitely inferior, as a commonwealth, to that of the bees.

The sun looks down upon us now with a wonderfully conscious look. It is hard to escape the feeling that it is taking notes of the valley, and of the folk in the valley, and is inquiring as to our needs and our deeds. It does not find all things as it left the world last night. There has been a deal of growing and a good deal of mischief. It takes quick control and resumes mastery. The morning-glory opens; the hollyhock lets out the bee that it sheltered over night; the primrose, that shudders at its eye, the poppy, that refuses to exude odor, but the mock-orange is doubly sweet. The moths retire, but the butterflies go abroad. The night is a world by itself as it is beautiful. The day-world is also quite itself, with new obligations as well as new fragrances.

A Dream of Fifth Avenue. Four Track News. Look in a direction, east or west on Twenty-third street, north or south on Broadway or Fifth avenue, as far as one can see, there are attractive shops. To your left is an old graystone pile; on the right the oldest hotels at which, perhaps, more prominent persons have stopped in the course of its long existence than at any other hostelry in New York. In and out of this hotel, and in and out of the other buildings, and up and down the intersecting streets, is a moving mass of humanity. Now one knows what it is that calls to him here in the city. It is this massing of humanity. There are always new faces. There are always some faces that are interesting. The New York crowd does not always hurry. Mingle with that portion of the crowd going north on Fifth avenue. It fairly radiates pleasure, luxury and social sunshine. Do not pity pedestrians on this thoroughfare; many of them are the elite of Manhattan, trailing their light-colored and costly garments without fear of cool or dust on this cleanest of streets, bowing to friends riding in handsome equipages, stopping to look into shop windows or to chat with passing acquaintances. They impart to the avenue an atmosphere of animation and good breeding. Life on Fifth avenue is different from that of any other street in New York, or from any other street in any other American city.

Profit by the experience of a citizen. J. C. Buckler, building contractor, of 8 East Ninth street, Portland, Or., says: "After having tested Doan's Kidney Pills for over three years I can conscientiously say that I know of no remedy for the kidney that is its equal. Before using Doan's Kidney Pills in 1902 I had a constant soreness in the small of the back and to stoop or straighten caused the pain to catch me hard in the back. There was also a weakness of the action of the kidneys, very noticeable at night, and the secretions contained a sediment. Having tried one remedy after another without result I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills. I found benefit from the start and in time they completely rid me of the aching and pain in the back, corrected the secretions and brought thorough relief. The above facts I related in substance in a testimonial at that time, which I am pleased to confirm now."
