

MRS. LONGWORTH DINES WITH KING

Splendid Entertainment by Ambassador Reid to President's Daughter.

HONORED LIKE PRINCESS

Introduced to British Society at Gathering Where King Edward Sets Example to Aristocracy in Paying Her Attention.

LONDON, June 12.—Seldom has the entertainment of a representative of any foreign government attracted so much attention as did the dinner and reception given by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid at Dorchester House this evening for Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, at which King Edward by his presence and attention to President Roosevelt's daughter, marked his esteem for the United States and its Chief Executive.

Park lane in the vicinity of Dorchester House drew immense crowds as the carriages of distinguished guests passed through the fashionable thoroughfares to the residence which, since Mr. Reid took it a year ago, has welcomed the most famous Englishmen and visiting Americans and foreigners. In many respects, however, the gathering this evening was distinctive, for beside King Edward, who was attended by Lord Grandford, lord in waiting, and Captain Holford, equerry, and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, the company included cabinet ministers, political leaders of both parties, diplomats and persons of prominence in English society.

Lords and Ladies Galore.

At the dinner there were present to meet the King, besides Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, Miss Reid, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, the Duke of Roxburghe, Lord and Lady Crew, Lord Tweedmouth, Countess Grey, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, Lady Townley, wife of the secretary of the British Embassy at Washington, Lord and Lady Lansdowne, Paul Cambon, the French Ambassador, with Admiral Fournier, of the French Navy; the Earl and Countess Powis, the Earl and Countess of Gosford, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Sir John and Lady Lister-Kaye, the Countess of Yarborough, Mrs. Don Cameron, wife of the late ex-Secretary of War of the United States; Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills; J. Bigley Carter, secretary of the American Embassy, and Clarence Jay, private secretary to Ambassador Reid.

Beauty of Floral Decorations.

Particular care had been taken not to mar by undue decorum the beauties of the interior of Dorchester House, but flowers of every kind were used in profusion in banking the bases of the massive columns and railings of the grand staircase. Over the main entrance, which overlooks the Stanhope Gate entrance of Hyde Park from Park Lane, a marble eagle looked upon the arriving guests, who on entering passed between banks of flowers to the head of the staircase, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Reid and presented in turn to King Edward and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Mrs. Longworth Beside King.

Dinner was served in the main dining hall, which contains many valued paintings, for which Dorchester House is famous and which no scheme of embellishment could improve. King Edward took out Mrs. Reid, but by the King's desire Mrs. Longworth was seated at the other side of him, thus taking precedence of the Duchesses. Ambassador Reid escorted the Duchess of Marlborough, with the Duchess of Buccleuch on his left. There was less formality than at purely English functions attended by the King, who was technically for the time on American soil.

Dinner over.

King Edward received the Embassy staff, who did not attend the dinner. They were Craig W. Wadsworth, Grant Smith, Major John H. Beacom, and Lieutenant-Commander John H. Gibbons, accompanied by Miss Gibbons and Miss Carter.

Concert and Supper Follow.

For the musical entertainment some hundred guests were invited, among them members of the diplomatic corps. The concert was almost as notable as the dinner, the programme being provided by violinists—Madame Bames, Madame Kirby Mann, Signor Caruso and Signor Gilbert. Each of these sang two songs, and the programme concluded with a quartet from "Rigoletto."

What had passed might have taxed the most versatile host, but supper was to follow. This was served at separate tables under a pavilion erected over the north garden, which was overlooked from a picturesque portico, a very pretty effect being produced. King Edward presided over one of the tables, at which there were 15 guests. To reach the pavilion, the guests passed through a long marble hallway lined with flowers to a portico, around the columns of which hung glowing crimson ramblers starting from amid great beds of flowers, giving the appearance of an immense conservatory. Throughout the great hall and reception rooms of the mansion opportunity was given the guests of mingling freely and engaging in informal conversation. Some very striking costumes were worn by the ladies.

ASSISTED THE LANDING.

Milwaukie Aids Docking of Steamer at Aberdeen. ABERDEEN, Wash., June 12.—The unusual incident of a manager of a lumber company assisting to land a steam schooner at a dock was witnessed today when W. B. Mack, of the Slade Mill Company, with the help of a clerk in the office, placed a hawser over a pier head on the dock. Union men on the opposite side of the river called "scab" but it did not affect the operations in the least. The Centralia, which arrived last night, was unloaded today with non-union men, but more difficulty is expected tomorrow, when an effort will be made to reload with lumber. The steamer Newburg arrived today with freight and the non-union crew left at the suggestion of union leaders. The Lindhauer, which also came in, will experience no difficulty, as her owner has granted the increase. Mayor Lindstrom, who was called upon today for police protection in case of trouble at the Centralia's dock, refused to interfere in the trouble. The steamer Graco Dollar was labeled today for $53, the amount due sailors who quit on her arrival two days ago.

STRIKERS USE VIOLENCE.

They Fire Upon Tug Redondo at San Pedro. LOS ANGELES, June 12.—As the tug Redondo drew up alongside the steamer Coronado at San Pedro this morning she was fired upon by some unknown men on the shore. Those firing the shots are supposed to be sympathizers with the Sailors' Union, which is now engaged in a strike along the Coast.

A later telephone message states that the affair occurred about 1 o'clock this morning, and that about 20 shots in all were fired. The union crew of the Coronado has been ashore since last Wednesday, when they left the ship at the San Pedro wharf. The Redondo is of 100 tons and belongs to the Merchants' independent line. She runs regularly between San Pedro and Gray's Harbor. Port Redondo is an open port, and had been taken there by the tug Redondo, the tug Graco Dollar, a non-union crew from that port. Sheriff White and a force of nine deputies have left here for San Pedro.

NO AGREEMENT IS REACHED.

Strikers and Operators Unable to Settle Differences.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The conference between the United Shipping & Transportation Association and the City Front Federation ended today without an agreement being reached and the lockout and strike along the waterfront will continue. After two days of discussion it was finally decided by the conference committee that peace was impossible and it was determined to break off negotiations looking for a compromise. Captain Goodall, of the association committee, stated after the meeting adjourned that the union committee could offer no terms which the owners could accept.

Grand Jury Asks Judge Lacombe for Decree—Evidence of Corner Which Created Monopoly of Plug Tobacco Business. STOCKTON, Cal., June 12.—The trial of A. N. McVicar, charged with the murder of J. P. Hull, proceeded slowly today. The cross-examination of Dr. Latta, one of the autopsy surgeons, was concluded, and Dr. J. P. Hull, who also assisted at the autopsy, was called. He contended that the blood found in the trunk flowed from McVicar while he was still alive, and that the bruises on the head were ante-mortem bruises. Coroner H. E. Southworth, who was present at the autopsy, was positive in his declarations along the same lines. Dr. Southworth stated that the bruises upon the head probably took place when the body was dropped into the trunk alive. The prosecution regards this as a strong point in the defense having sought to show that these bruises were caused by moving the trunk about.

Paul Jones Ideal Fighter.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 12.—After the Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy was officially received today the portrait of John Paul Jones, painted by Mrs. Cecilia Beaux, was presented to the academy by Colonel Lauchheimer, of the Marine Corps, on behalf of the graduating class. Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte said: "John Paul Jones was, first of all, a standard of the fighters as high as that which any race can show. To get such men, it must treat them as such men ought to be treated. You gentlemen, in thus reminding us of the needs of our first great sea warrior, have aided to make sure that we have a Navy able to defend a great country, and a country worthy to be guarded by a great Navy."
