RECEIVES HIS DIPLOMA.—Henry Young, the 14-year-old son of Rev. L. F. Young, of St. Johns, has received his diploma of graduation from the grammar school of the St. Johns School. This is the first in-stance in this state where a boy totally deaf has graduated from the public deaf has graduated from the public schools, and it is not known where such graduation has occurred elsewhere. He secured a good standard, his general scholarship being 8. Henry became deaf several years ago at Baker City, through sickness, where Rev. Mr. Young was then stationed as pisstor of the Methodist Church. Although treated by specialists, nothing could be done. As an experiment he entered the public schools at Portland and then at St. Johns, and, working under great difficulties, he has finally secured a diploma from the grammar grade.

GOLD IN CHICKEN'S CRAW

Detective Smith Finds Nugget Worth Few Bollars.

Visions of gold mines and a large fortune haunt the mind of Detective Smith, who hopes soon to give up tracing crim-inals and give his undivided attention to gleaning gold from somewhere in his back yard. Detective Smith slaughtered a fat hen Saturday night and from its craw extracted a gold nugget the size of a large pea. The nugget is worth between $3 and $4, but it could not be purchased from Smith for $10.

Smith for $10.

Detective Smith has been keeping the secret from his neighbors, fearing that his hen had poached the nugget from a neighbor's yard. If the mound of nuggets from which the bird ate can be found, Detective Smith will consider purchasing the land on which the mine is located and will start mining on an extensive scale.

How the Indian War Veterans and the Early Settlers Will Be Entertained During Their Visit to Portland.

Yesterday evening more than 600 pio neers had registered at the Oregon His-torical Rooms in the City Hall and it fletion, and Orator McLeod responded on chalf of the class.

After the ceremonies the members as-sembled in the banquet hall, where they all partook of a short repast. More than 300 Masons attended yesterday's sessions and the banquet. From all parts of the Coast and the insular possessions they came to attend the reunion, which was one of the most brilliant since the build-ing of the cathedral.

The Galland-Hexter Wedding

THE wedding of Miss Edith Hexter, daughter of Mrs. Levi Hexter, and Samuel Galland, son of Mrs. Adelaids Galland, of Spokane, which took place last evening at the new Concordia Club, was one of the most fashionable and one of the most elegantly appointed of the season. The handsome ballroom of the club was aglow with lights and beautifully decorated for the ccason with many varieties of green and with white blossoms. The orches tra occupied the stage screened by the rich colored leaves of Norway maples. is expected that today will see another 500 or 600 in the City Hall. OLDEST PORTLAND PIONEER

WILLIAM L. HIGGINS CAME TO OREGON IN 1843, WHEN PORTLAND WAS UNKNOWN.

Perhaps he other person takes more interest in the annual reunion of the Oregon pioneers, which will take place tomorrow, than William L. Higgins, who is reputed to be the oldest pioneer in Portland in point of residence within the state. Mr. Higgins has called Portland his home since 1843. He landed on the banks of the Willamette before the name Portland had been applied here and when there was only one resident on the present city site.

Mr. Higgins lives at 665 Everett street and is still active and energetic in spite of his advanced age of 84. He has spent the greater part of his life as a contractor here and built some of the earliest homes of the city, among them selved their badges and met many old friends. These meetings are only prelimi-nary to the big gatherings which will take place at the armory tomorrow, but were thoroughly enjoyed and the visit to the Historical Society has grown to be a part of the programme of the ploneers. G. H. Himes was much in demand and was about the busiest man in Portland. His management of the plo-neer reunion each year is always most efficient and his efforts to make the day the success that it always proves are appreciated by those who share in its

Some Earlier Pioneers.

F. X. Matthieu, '42, was one of the familiar floures at the historical headquarters yesterday and was being greeted by many old friends and comrades. Mr. Matthieu is now 89 years old, but greets' his acquaintances with the vigor of olden days. Mrs. Stephen Coffin, '47, who has reached the ripe age of 87, is the oldest woman who has registered. Mrs. Abigail Clark Cardwell, '52, who was the first public school teacher in Portland, was another interesting figure.

Joseph F. Lane and Mrs. A. D. Shelby, son and daughter of Oregon's first Gov-ernor, have registered and will be at the reunion tomorrow. Four persons who at-tended the Portland Academy 45 years ago happened to meet yesterday and had an interesting exchange of reminiscences.
They were William Wright, of Union;
Captain W. H. Pope, of Portland; Mrs.
Sarah A. Seely, of Pomeroy, Wash, and Mrs. Mary E. Kester, of Portland. Mrs.
Seely and Mrs. Kester are sisters and incidentally met an uncle, S. S. Lenox, 43, whom they had not seen for 30 years.

Indian War Veterans.

The Indian War Veterans all belong to the Pioneer Association and are registering. They will meet this morning in tering. They will meet this morning in annual encampment at the White Temple, H. C. Mount, grand commander of the organization, presiding. This afternoon a banquet will be served under the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of Indian War Veterans. Several hundred veterans are expected to be present. They

A broad, carpeted aisle, bordered with white streamers and with palms stretched from this to the wide doors opposite. Banked about the sides of the platform were beautiful arrangements of Easter Illies, calla Illies and bride roses in golden baskets. Through the canopy of smilax twinkled many tiny lights which were reflected by the background of green and brown maple leaves. Dr. Stephen S. Wise took his place under the canopy, and the familiar notes of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin struck their first stirring paean as the bridal party appeared on the threshold. Following the ushers came the two bridesmalds-Miss Hilda Hexter, sister of the bride, and Miss Mai Hirsch-both in full dress

Miss Hirsch was gowned in white china crepe over Dresden silk of a pink rose pattern, with girdle of the Dresden and lace corsage trimmings. She were tiny pink roses and a long white aigrette in her hair. Miss Hilda Hexter's gown was of white net with handsome applique trimmings, and she were a wreath of tiny pink roses in her hair. The maid of honor, another sister of the bride, Miss Caroline Hexter, was in a frock of white louisine. Her bou-quet was of bride roses and large hothouse marguerites and flowers of the same sort were twined in her hair. The bride made one of the sweetest figures seen at any marriage altar in Portland. She was in pearl waite lib-erty satin with full train, simply made, but with very effective lines. A yoke of fine Valenciennes lace, bordered with point de Venise, finished the gown at the neck. A double veil of illusion reaching to the bottom of the train was fastened with orange blossoms and with a handsome brooch of pearls and diamends, the gift of the groom. The bride came in on the arm of her brother, Alfred Hexter. She was met at the altar by Mr. Galland. Dr. Wise used a ring in the very pretty ceremo

Mrs. Hexter, mother of the bride, was in black spangle net, and Mrs. Galland was in black crepe de chine. Mrs. Dolph Galland, who came over from Spokane, was in a handsome gown of renaissance lace, with a bertha of duchess and rose point. Mrs. Mabel Lanyon Keyes, who came down from Lanyon Keyes, who came down from Seattle, was in white Japanese creps with cherry blossom embroidery. The costuming of the ladies was notably
