In answer to a question by Commis-sioner Clements regarding the exten-sion which was made to the Harsinnus pler, Mr. Berwind declared that the cost was $46,000, and that the Penn-sylvania Company submitted a bill for $43,000, which he refused to pay. In-asmuch as the Pennsylvania Company had taken for its own use one-half the pler, he thought it should pay one-half the cost. In his absence, however, half the cost. In his absence, however, his brother, after the matter had been in dispute for six years, had paid the $43,000 and Mr. Berwind said he always regretted that it had been done. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.
