MAYOR BY 100 VOTES

Sheriff-Elect Gains Four as Result of First Day's Recount.

SIX PRECINCTS CANVASSED

Adherents of the Republican Candidate Are Greatly Encouraged.
Betting on Results of the Recount Is Brisk.

RESULT OF FIRST DAY'S RE-COUNT.

The following is the result of the first day of the recount of ballots cast for the Sheriff's office, during which the ballots cast in six precincts were gone over:

The recount shows a gain of two for Stevens and a loss of two for Word, making a total gain of four for Stevens from the six precincts.

Robert L. Stevens, Sheriff-elect, drove several spikes into his election certificate yesterday when in the recount of ballots cast in the Shrivley contest the first six precincts increased his plurality from five to nine votes. Stevens gained two votes and Word lost two votes, thus making four votes in favor of the Republican candidate. What is regarded as particularly significant and tends to increase the feeling in those that favor the Stevens adherents is that all but one of the six were Stevens precincts, and it was supposed that if any mistake whatever was discovered in the recount they would be favorable to Word in the recount.

Friends of Stevens received the news of the first blood being drawn by the recount yesterday with the utmost interest, and his stock began a rapid ascent. No little rejoicing and enthusiasm was displayed about town last night when the result of the recount was generally became known. The supporters of Word declare that they place absolutely no importance upon the recount yesterday, and attribute the gain of Stevens to luck and say that it is no criticism to what is to follow. They expect startling developments when the recount is well under way favorable to Word. The betting upon the outcome of the recount is becoming quite brisk, and the friends of Stevens have in some instances offered.

Judge Frazer Presides.
The recount was presided over by Judge Frazer in department 3 of the Circuit Court. It began at about 10 o'clock in the morning, and was adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. It will begin this morning promptly 9 o'clock. The ballots cast in precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 were recounted yesterday. It is not believed that all of the ballot boxes were opened, but that inside of 10 or 15 days the votes are counted at the rate of about 200 an hour. There are nearly 20,000 votes to be recounted.

The intensest interest was exhibited during the progress of the trial. The hall was crowded with an expectant and eager throng, composed largely of the friends of the candidates. In the foreground there was a procession of men leading to and from the courtroom. Many would drop in for just a few moments to learn of the progress of the trial, and there were some who remained during all of the recount.

Stevens was represented by Dan J.
Malarkov, and Attorney Thomas E. Strode, Deputy Sheriff George P. Morden acted as teller for the Word forces, while David E. Mackin represented Stevens. Robert Donovan was clerk for Stevens, while W. W. McIntosh was Word's clerk.
County Clerk Frank S. Fields had charge of the ballots, assisted by G. J. White and E. R. Lounsbury. Harvey Moreland and Henry J. Kalkley were assistant clerks.

Stevens was present all during the recount. The ballots were taken from the boxes by County Clerk Fields and arranged upon the long table, which had been placed in position by the clerk.
Stevens occupied the first seat next to the pile of ballots and he carefully examined them one by one, handing them to his attorney, Mr. Malarkov.
He in turn scanned them to see if they were defective in any way, and passed them along to Deputy Sheriff Morden and Mr. Strode, who passed them to a clerk, who called out the vote, which was tally by three more clerks. Each ballot was most rigidly scrutinized and every mistake was brought to the attention of the teller, who would call the attention of Judge Frazer, who decided whether or not the ballot was to be counted. Generally, Stevens would be the first to find mistakes upon the Word ballots, to which he would call the attention of Mr. Malarkov, who in most instances would endeavor to have them thrown out upon the grounds that they were defective.
Mr. Strode would then most vigorously object. Mr. Strode in turn would object to ballots for Stevens which were not marked precisely as they should have been. Several dozen ballots were objected to and the court had to decide upon them. Exceptions were taken to railings of Judge Frazer upon 25 ballots, which will pass upon later. The 25 votes were counted and just about as many of them are for Word as for Stevens.

Stevens gained three votes by the court recognizing ballots which the election officers had ruled void because of some trifling error. One of these votes gained was offset by the loss of another ballot for him, which was declared defective.
Word lost two votes on the decision of the court that the ballots contained distinguishing marks. Superfluous marks upon ballots are technically known as distinguishing marks. One of the ballots in question had figures written upon it and another was marked with a letter X.
Stevens lost his one ballot because of its being disfigured with a large cross for which there was no apparent occasion.

PROMOTION FOR BECKWITH
Former Portland Man Wells-Fargo
General Agent Here.

The announcement was made yesterday that Harry Beckwith has been appointed general agent of Wells-Fargo & Co.'s office in Portland to succeed Eugene Shelby, who has been promoted to superintendent of the western division of the company with headquarters at San Francisco. Mr. Beckwith, who is a former Portland man, until the recent change was made was assistant superintendent at San Francisco. The change is supposed to have gone into effect yesterday and Mr. Beckwith will arrive in Portland the latter part of the week to assume his new duties, when Mr. Shelby will depart for San Francisco.

The position of agent and assistant superintendent at Portland which Mr.
Shelby occupies has been abolished and the office of general agent substituted.
Mr. Beckwith lived in Portland until three years ago and was with the Pacific Express Company. Mrs. Beckwith is now in Portland.

Yesterday Mr. Shelby was presented with a handsome gold watch case by his fellow members of the noon gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A.

Employees of the Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office last evening presented Mr. Shelby with a complete traveling set, which consists of a leather trunk, suitcase and Gladstone bag. As his duties will require considerable traveling, it was thought that no more fitting, appropriate testimonial of the esteem in which Mr. Shelby is held by all those who have worked with him could be given than the traveling set. The presentation was made by George E. Walte.

A. L. CRAIG'S ASSISTANT LIKELY TO BECOME HIS SUCCESSOR

WILLIAM McMURRAY, WHO IS IN LINE FOR PROMOTION TO GENERAL
PASSENGER AGENT OF THE O. R. & N. CO.

Although no word has come direct from Traffic Director Stubbs, of the Harriman system, as to the successor of A. L. Craig as general passenger agent for the O. R. & N. Co. It is generally believed among Portland railroad men that William McMurray, assistant general passenger agent, will get the plum. He has already been directed to take charge of the office when Mr.
Craig leaves, and it is probable that his temporary appointment will be made permanent.

It is known that Mr. McMurray is a close friend of Mr. Stubbs and his appointment as assistant general passenger agent was due partly to that fact.
That Mr. McMurray has "made good" here is well known, and probably no one is more cognizant of this fact than Mr. Stubbs, who is credited with keeping in close touch with his subordinates.
Mr. McMurray's long experience in the passenger business and his savvy in dealing with the traveling public are both factors in bringing him forward for promotion.

Collector of Internal Revenue Takes Oath of Office for Third Term.

OFFICIAL BOND APPROVED

Government Rewards His Efficient Service by Reappointment—Accounts of Office Inspected, Found to Be Correct.

David M. Dunne was yesterday inducted into office as Collector of Internal Revenue in the local district, which makes the third successive term for the local man.
At 10 o'clock the Collector, accompanied by R. M. Thomas and Frank Driscoll, revenue agents, appeared before United States District Judge Wolcott, at the Federal Court, and the oath of office was administered to Collector Dunne for the third time.

Previous to the reappointment of Collector Dunne, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C., had sent several agents to the local office to examine into the conduct of the same, and as all reports gave the conduct of the local office a high rating, it was decided to continue the incumbent Collector in office, for the department is anxious to retain all faithful servants whose worth has been tested and approved.

Collector's Bond Approved.

Following the instructions of the chief of his department, Revenue Agent R. M.
Thomas quietly journeyed to Portland and commenced checking up the accounts previous to the transferring of the office from the Collector back to himself, as the routine of the office requires the same procedure in reappointing a Collector as though a new office were being inducted. The Collector's bond had to be replaced with a new bond, and this was readily secured.

Owing to a rumor going the rounds at the Federal building that a new Collector was to be appointed, the selection of the incumbent created considerable surprise among the other officials.

The efficient service rendered the Government during his two terms as Collector, as described in the words of Revenue Agent Thomas, who, in referring to the reappointment yesterday, said:

"Acting under instructions from the Chief of the Internal Revenue office, at Washington, D. C., where Collector Dunne is highly thought of, I proceeded north from San Francisco for the purpose of overseeing the transfer of the office from the incumbent to himself."

"The transfer of the accounts and the renewal of Collector Dunne's bond were completed this morning, and I am highly pleased to say that his accounts do not vary a quarter of a cent, which is a remarkable evidence of the capability of the force handling the work under the collector. You see, the collector has over $1,000,000 worth of revenue stamps during the year, and these stamps are of all denominations, ranging from one-eighth, one-quarter and one-half cent stamps to higher values, and all are practically alike, which demonstrates that the handling of these has been in excellent order. You see, the collector has to keep on cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, rectifying liquor, both wholesale and retail liquor and other taxed articles.

"In checking up the offices of the service we grade each office, numbering them from one to five, according to the condition in which we find them. In this respect, I am pleased to state that in my report Collector Dunne's office will rank the rating number one, which means that it could not have been conducted in a better manner. It is very seldom that an office gives this rating, and Portland may well be proud to have so efficient a representative of the Government numbered among her citizens."

Efficient Record Rewarded.

When asked as to whether it was not unusual for the department to retain the same man as collector over two terms, Revenue Agent Thomas said: "It is not a frequent occurrence, for as a rule political influence is usually brought to bear for the appointment of a new man to each office, and only an efficient record during the term of office, or an unusually strong pull with the head of the department, serves to retain a man. In the case of Colonel Dunne, his efficient services have brought a reward in the shape of a third term, for his work is highly appreciated at Washington."

Colonel David M. Dunne was first appointed to the office of Collector of Internal Revenue for this district on March 21, 1898. This was during the term of President McKinley. On the expiration of his first term he was reappointed under Roosevelt's administration. His reappointment to a third term is a flattering testimonial, and his many friends kept him busy yesterday acknowledging their felicitations.

the police ambulance. Gilbert is 74 years of age, but will recover.

Mr. Jones says he has been in Portland nearly 25 years, and so far as the schoolhouses are concerned has not heard a single complaint. Mr. Jones is the designer of the East Side High School, his design having been the winner in an open competition.

So far as could be learned, the Roebblings Construction Company has no office in this city, and Mr. Cook up to a year ago was a salesman for an agricultural implement concern in this city. He could not be found yesterday, but Mr. Jones assured the reporter he would investigate the matter and would probably have something to say on the subject today.

JONES MUCH SURPRISED
Says He Knows of No Reason for F.
C. Cook's Attack.

The startling accusation made by Fred C. Cook, local representative of the Roebblings Construction Company, that T. J.
Jones, architect for the Portland School Board, is entirely incompetent to fill the position he holds, and knows next to nothing about his business, was widely commented on in building circles yesterday. Mr. Cook made the declaration before the health and police committees of the Council Tuesday. He said in part:

"What are the schools in this city?
Nothing more than firetraps. It is a menace to the children to have a man designing the schoolhouses of the city who is no more competent than Mr. Jones. He knows next to nothing about his business and is no more fit for the position than a schoolboy would be who has spent a few months in an architect's office."

Mr. Cook's statement was made during a discussion on proposed changes in the building ordinances in the course of which architects and builders were invited to offer suggestions.

When seen yesterday Mr. Jones expressed great surprise at Mr. Cook's statement. He said he did not know of any reason why Mr. Cook should have made the statement, and in fact did not

HOUSEWARMING IS HELD
Rock Island Club Formally Thrown Open to Visitors.
The Rock Island Club on the Williamette River was formally opened last night.
The club building was handsomely decorated and Portland society people filled it till a late hour. The new clubhouse is reached by the Oregon City car, or by boat. Many preferred last night to make the trip from the city in their private launches and sail boats. The bridge from the bank near Island station on the car line has not yet been completed, but launches were at the disposal of the visitors and frequent trips were made from the shore to the island.
There was music and dancing and late in the evening a banquet was served.
The club has an ideal location for a summer resort. Situated on an island in the middle of the river, some six miles from the city, it commands a superb view down the river. Near about on the island are beautiful groves of trees, which
