

NEEDS APPROVAL OF ROOSEVELT

Cheaper in End for Packers to Bear Expense of Meat Inspection.

SUSPICION MEANS LOSS

Damage Done to Business by Exposure Can Only Be Repaired by Bill Approved by Roosevelt, Whom People Trust.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, June 21.—Regardless of whether or not the Beveridge meat inspection amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill is the best legislation that can be framed to cure the evils disclosed in the Chicago packing-houses, the fact remains that no legislation will restore public confidence in this great industry unless it bears the endorsement of President Roosevelt. The people have confidence in the President; they know he is working purely in their interest and is not in any way dominated by corporate interests. If he indorses a meat inspection bill, the people will repose every confidence in it, knowing it is honestly drawn to accomplish good results. If, on the other hand, Congress settles this controversy by adopting legislation which is denounced by the President, the packers will be the sufferers, for the people will have no faith in the altered reform carried out under suspicious legislation.

Loss More Than Inspection Costs.
There are men in Congress who honestly believe the Beveridge amendment is faulty in many particulars, but unfortunately for these men, the opposition to the Beveridge amendment is led by Chairman Wadsworth, of the House agricultural committee and by Representative "Bully" Lorimer, of Chicago, both anxious to serve the packers in the hour of need. Because of the wrought-up condition of the public mind, it is unfortunate for the packers that these two men have been so pronounced in their opposition to legislation favored by the President.

The defeat of the Beveridge amendment will work far greater injury to the beef-packer than would its enactment. For, while the Beveridge plan would shoulder the expense of inspection on the packers, an annual charge of $2,000,000, the substitution of other legislation would leave the packing industry under suspicion and the falling off in meat sales would amount to far more than $2,000,000. Some of this deficit would be made up by transferring the burden onto the stockgrowers, but for all that the loss to the packers would exceed the annual cost of meat inspection.

Judging by statements of representatives of the packers, that is, officials of the meat trust, the packers prefer to bear the expense of Government inspection rather than have Congress enact an inspection law that would be disapproved by the President. Unfortunately, Wadsworth and Lorimer took a position against this sort of legislation before conferring at length with the interests they serve, and to that measure made a serious tactical blunder. The packers today see their business tottering; they find their foreign trade practically destroyed and they know nothing can restore normal conditions until public confidence has been awakened. This, they admit, can best be brought about by legislation which is heartily indorsed by the President.

Appropriations Would Be Cut.

There are arguments to be made for and against shouldering the expense of inspection on the Government. The cost of inspecting other food products is borne by the Government, it is true, but the appropriations for this purpose fluctuate and the efficiency of the inspection varies with the appropriation. When Congress is in an economical mood, the appropriation is cut down, and a spirit of liberality prevails, it is adequate. It would be with meat inspection. The service would be adequate some years, again it would be curtailed, necessitating the discharge of inspectors one year and the employment of new and inexperienced men the next. The action of this Congress is not binding on any subsequent Congress, statements of Wadsworth to the contrary notwithstanding, and no legislation could be enacted this session which would require Congress at any subsequent session to make any appropriation whatever for meat inspection.

Might Slip in a Joker.

If Congress passes the cost of inspection on the Government, it will be possible at a subsequent session for Wadsworth, Lorimer & Co. to slip a joker into another agricultural appropriation bill at the close of a session, cutting down or altogether eliminating the provision for Government inspection of the packing-houses, and the people would then again be at the mercy of the meat trust. That is the danger of placing this expense on the Government; it leaves the matter largely in the hands of the friends of the trust who hold seats in Congress. Shrewd men, by resort to legislative trickery, could absolutely destroy the good work of the present Congress and the country would wake up to find it had been hoodwinked. President Roosevelt is aware of this fact, and it is one of the prime reasons why he insists on the Beveridge amendment. Legislation of that character is in less danger of being undermined than legislation proposed by the House committee on agriculture.

Will Investigate Small Packers.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Chief Sanitary Inspector Hendrick yesterday detailed three inspectors to make a thorough investigation of the small packing plants. The truth of the claim made by the big packers that the little ones really were to blame for the meat scandal will then be tested. Particular attention will be paid to the light, air and ventilation of these plants, as well as to the question of cleanliness. The "smaller fry" are said to have made considerable progress in cleaning up.

THE "DIFFERENT STORE"

OLDS, WORTMAN & KING

FIFTH, SIXTH AND WASHINGTON

Important News of Portland's Greatest Store's 164th Great Weekly Bargain Demonstration, the Friday "Economy Sale"

Friday, June 22, 1906

Most Portland folk do the bulk of their buying at Olds, Wortman & King's—the year thro'. Why? There's no vainglory in stating the reasons—for they're FACTS! The store leads all others on the Pacific Coast;—the nearest approach to it, in volume of business done, is a Los Angeles house, and this organization supercedes that, just as Portland leads Los Angeles in healthy growth today. The store grows by making itself more necessary each succeeding day to everybody. A great public utility—yet a "different" sort from most such. One has small choice in gas companies, water companies, electric companies or streetcar companies. But as to stores, no one need come to this store to get a supply of anything. There are other stores in town, but—here varieties are best; we know we buy goods for less than most stores—but you had to find these things out—to believe 'em. And you have! Today the multitudes of discriminating folk buy at Olds, Wortman & King's—and a scrutiny of the daily attendance at the several stores shows that most people come to this establishment for their goods. Do you wonder? Then you haven't scanned this page.
