

SHIPPERS DESIRE FREIGHT STEAMERS

Departure of Three Vessels Affords Little Relief in Local Circles.

MERCHANDISE IN STORAGE

Piled High on Docks Awaiting Transportation South, While Carriers Await Decision of Longshoremen.

With the sailing of the steamers Rosnoke, F. A. Kilburn and Casaca from San Francisco and San Pedro during the past week, the local freight situation has been but slightly relieved.

The steamer Barracouta and Costa Rica of the Portland & San Francisco Steamship Company remain tied up at the Bay City end of the line, and unless some assurance is received here to the effect that they will be unloaded and loaded without hindrance at this port, the vessels may remain stationary for months.

The steamer Tottenham finished loading her cargo of lumber yesterday, and will start down today or tomorrow. She takes nearly 4,000,000 feet of lumber to China.

Colonel S. W. Roessler returned yesterday from San Francisco, where he attended a meeting of the examining board which passed upon the qualifications of eligible for promotion in the service.

It was rumored during the past two days that the steamer Alliance was to be ordered to San Francisco and tied up, but it is seen that the Sailors' Union, which had given orders to the crew of the vessel to walk out, reconsidered the proposition, and the ship will not be interfered with for the present.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company intends to begin the operation of its fleet out of Puget Sound next week, and on Monday morning the first vessel will sail for San Francisco. The ship is the vessel slated to leave the Sound with a nonunion crew, and the officials expect to experience no difficulty in getting their way on the trip.

The steamer Spokane left Seattle with a crowd of excursionists for Alaska. She carries a nonunion crew.

SHIPPERS REJECT PROPOSED JOINT DISCUSSION. On Account of Lockout Lumber Supply at San Francisco Is Becoming Seriously Short.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The reply of the United Shippers' & Transportation Association to the request for arbitration of the water-front differences was sent to the Mayor today. It is understood that the association declines to arbitrate the trouble, although Captain Goodall, who drafted the communication, declined to make it public.

Captain John Berningham, chief of the Pacific Coast division of the hulls and boilers inspection service, conducted fire drills on all the river craft moored in the local harbor yesterday.

The French bark Bayard sailed from Swanson for Portland Thursday. She is coming to Balfour, Guthrie & Co., and will probably load wheat on her outward journey.

Mother Reunited With Her Long-Lost Daughter, Amy Huggins.

CHILD AGED FIVE STOLEN

Father Sends Her to Wisconsin and Tells Her That Mother is Dead.

After a separation of more than 14 years, during which the mother only hoped that her child was still living while the latter fully believed the mother dead, Mrs. Rose Edwards, of 65 East Seventh street, and her 13-year-old daughter, Amy Huggins, were reunited at the Union Depot in this city Thursday morning.

"My child, my own darling little girl, I knew it was you. I would have given you anywhere!" exclaimed Mrs. Edwards as she threw her arms around her long-lost daughter and drew her close in a motherly embrace.

The reunited family consists of the mother, who only last September, after 12 years of single blessedness, embarked again on the sea of matrimony by wed- ding John M. Edwards, a local blacksmith and horseshoer; Amy, the long-lost daughter; and Rose Ed. Lee Huggins, who celebrated her seventeenth birthday on the day that restored to her and her mother the sister and daughter they had almost ceased to hope would ever be found.

The story which had its sequel when Miss Amy Huggins completed her long journey across the continent alone to the home and motherly arms of her father, is a short one, and, except for the happy union, one of little novelty.

Mrs. Huggins left her husband and, placing her little daughter in charge of her mother, Mrs. A. Z. Hall, of this city, started out on a living for herself and them. Stricken with remorse, Huggins attempted to effect a reconciliation, but her wife was firm in her refusal to live with him, though she did not insist upon a divorce.

Takes Child From Grandmother. At last Huggins in desperation took a policeman and, going to the home of the child, Mrs. Hall, awed by the sight of the officer, yielded to his demand. Huggins placed the child in the hands of little Amy and shipped her back to his sister in Janesville, Wis.

How She Was Found. This was the way the matter stood last Fall when a brother of John Rabyor, of this city, whose wife is a sister of Mrs. Edwards, came out to the Lewis & Clark Exposition and visited the Rabyor home.
