

HOUSE HAS FEEL FOR PURE FOOD

Democrats Are Divided on Old Question of State Rights.

COCKRAN CHAMPIONS BILL

Right of Government to Protect States Against One Another. Length of Shirts and Vests of Cottonseed Oil.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Pure food held the attention of the House throughout today. The constitutional features of the pure food bill were debated by the leading lawyers of the House, the Democrats splitting wide on the question whether the bill took away from the states their police powers.

Adamson Opens the Attack.

Adamson (Ga.) opened the discussion in opposition to certain features. Adamson did not mean to say that all food legislation was vicious, but he emphatically stated that such was the case when the legislation contained in the bill.

Cockran and Sullivan Mix.

During Adamson's speech there was a heated colloquy between Cockran of New York and Sullivan of Massachusetts. Sullivan supported Adamson in his contention that the state had ample power to enforce pure food regulations.

AGREE ON AMENDMENTS

Conference Report on Postoffice Bill Comes to Senate.

Cockran on State Rights.

This remark evidently did not please Cockran. With voice pitched high and with intense gestures, he replied: "When any action of a state, whether it be permissive or directory, empowers a citizen of it to affect the condition of people in another state by circulating in the channels of commerce anything dangerous to their health and to their welfare, there is no excuse for the existence of a Federal Government that does not prevent the precise condition, it must step in and say, 'all the powers of the state you may use as you please inside your own borders, but you must use them with due regard to the rights of others when anything sanctioned by your laws passes beyond your border and affects their daily lives.'" (Applause.)

Scores Insurance Men.

"Now, Mr. Chairman, one moment with reference to the question about the great State of New York. I think that the taxing power of this Government ought to be exercised so as to limit insurance to each state as savings banks are regulated, and as a matter of fact, when the gentleman says the great State of New York has dealt with the insurance frauds, I will tell him how it has dealt with them. It has confirmed the hold of the thieves on the funds that they have been plundering. Today, the inefficient heads who were dismissed because they were inefficient, are reemployed by the same gang that worked all the infamy." (Applause.)

Call Things by True Names.

Richardson (Ala.) said he was a profound believer in pure food, but he would like to have the bill amended in some respects. He argued that it was easy for the canner to separate his fats from his solids, and he wanted to know what objection there was to such a proposition.

Lengthen Kausans' Shirts.

Henry, of Texas, said the American people and the Congress has drifted further from the old landmarks this year than they have ever drifted before. "We have reached a period in our history when the President of the United States will say in a letter to the members of this body: 'I am willing to accept so and so,' we are willing for you to do so and so, and the members of this House, that ought to have some independence, abdicate their jurisdiction to another department of the Government."

tutional, he thought an amendment to the bill providing that cotton shirts should be extended one inch at the nether extremity for the health and comfort and convenience of the people of Kansas would be in order.

Eulogy of Cottonseed Oil.

Slayden, of Texas, said some gentlemen from the South may incline to the view that it will hurt one of the South's great industries if the blenders of vegetable oils are forced to quit their lying claim that it is all pure olive oil. "Cottonseed oil is an honest, wholesome product and has merit enough to stand on its own inherent worth. Certainly we ought not to foster the trade by telling lies about it. It should be sold for what it is and, if it is as good as we think it is, it will soon be established on a higher plane as a good product than it has ever had and will command a better price. But whether it is or not, I want to see square dealing in food and drink and for more than 200,000 Texans I declare here and now that we want no trade based on dishonesty."

No Alcohol in Candy.

General debate was closed at 3:30, when the House created a committee offered. The first amendment has reference to adulteration of confectionery, the House inserting the words "or any vinous material or spirituous liquor or compound of narcotic drug," in the clause describing prohibited ingredients. Knox explained that lately it had been discovered that some candy makers were putting intoxicants into bonbons and chocolates, and it was for the purpose of keeping children from consuming the alcoholic habit that the amendment was presented.

MAKES STARTLING TESTS KANSAN EXPERIMENTS WITH FOOD PRESERVATIVES. Dog Fed on Benzoinated Meat Grows Surly—Borax Causes Decline in Another Canine. TOPEKA, Kan., June 22.—(Special.)—The effect of benzoate and borax, the two chemicals most generally used as meat preservatives, on the health and disposition of human beings was demonstrated before the county and city health officers of the state, who are in session here today. Dr. J. Crumline, secretary of the State Board of Health, conducted some experiments with three dogs, during May and June, and found that benzoate made dogs cross and crabbed and caused loss of appetite, while borax caused a general decline in health. Both chemicals after being used for a time, caused loss in weight. In May Dr. Crumline took three dogs of about the same age. Each morning he fed them half a pound of fresh, lean meat. At noon each had a pint of milk and at night each dog had another half-pound of meat. The meat was fresh and without bones and was not scraped. The food for one dog was treated with a one per cent solution of benzoate, and that for the second with a one per cent solution of borax. The third dog was fed untreated meat and milk. Within two weeks the benzoate dog became cross and refused to have anything to do with the others. It lost its appetite and in six weeks had gained only three pounds in weight. The borax dog did not become cross, but within ten days its general health declined, and it refused to drink borated milk. In four weeks it had to be coaxed to eat meat, even when tasteless boracic acid was used. This dog gained one pound in weight in six weeks, but became ill. The dog that had been fed untreated meat gained in weight an average of one pound a week during the test, and at no time did it become listless or lose its appetite. As a result of these experiments, Dr. Crumline recommended that the State Board of Health limit the use of preservatives in foodstuffs. TWO-THIRDS ADULTERATED. Indiana State Chemist's Discovery of Samples of Meat. INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—As the result of a trip through the city market, during which H. E. Barnard, chemist of the State Board of Health, bought 49 samples of sausage, hamburger, steak, wienerwurst, bologna, ham loaf, veal loaf, tripe and pigs' feet jelly, and analyzed them, he found that only 15 samples were legal, while 34 were illegal because they contained chemicals prohibited by law. The most frequently used preservative as discovered in the samples was that which gave a fresh red color to meat. BARILLAS COMING NORTH. Guatemalan Revolutionist Will Rejoin Troops in Near Future. MEXICO CITY, June 22.—General Manuel Leonora Barillas, ex-President of Guatemala, and one of the leaders of the revolution, is in this city and said to be ill, but it is expected he will depart soon for the United States, whence he may proceed to join the revolutionary forces operating in Southern Guatemala under
