After pitching a gilt-edged game for eight innings, Ennon Califf went to pieces and Freeno switched a 3 to 1 defeat into and Freeno switched a 3 to 1 defeat into a 6 to 3 victory. Just as the put up and the ladies were getting ready for the cars, the little help-em-out-in-a-pinch twirler took a balloon trip that cost Portland a game. Califf's illness told on him and saddenly from a lad that had slid them over the pan in masterly fashion, he lost his range finder and walked three men.

Coupled with the fact that he went into the air, was the skillful work that Casey and Hogan did on the coaching lines. Both Casey and Hogan began to torment Califf right after McLaughlin had banged

The Slaughter Begins.

He managed to get rid of Delmas, but after that he could not get them over and the slaughter began. Dashwood drew a pass, so did Hogan and Fitzgerald. This forced McLaughlin home. Doyle hit a nasty bounder to Coleman and that youngster made the first clinker since he began playing second. By this time youngster made the first clinker since he began playing second. By this time Charley Moore relieved Califf. Moore hit Wolters, forcing Hogan, and in an effort to catch Fitzgerald, Sweeney's sore finger got in his way and he made a bobble of returning the ball to Donahue. Fitzgerald and Donahue had a nasty collision at the plate. Fitzgerald was safe, but he had to hit the ground and turn a back somersault, stand on his head and do a few other stants not down on the do a few other stunts not down on the programme. Two long files wound up the

All Off for Portland.

For a few seconds it looked as if Port-land would pull out of the hole. Jud Smith poked one safe and after Lister had fouled out Donahue lined out a twohad fouled out Donahue lined out a two-bagger. McLean went in to hit for Cole-man, but a foul back of third base was pulled out of the rain by Rert Delmas. Doyle had to take one off the right field fence from Morris in order to shut up the proceedings.

Up until the time set for the fireworks and the big blow up. Fitzgerald and Califf had entertained those present with a splendid show. Portland made one in the opening canto, skipped the second, made splendid show. Portland made one in the opening canto, skipped the second, made one in the third, missed fire on the fourth and came house with one in the fifth. It was not until the "bloody" seventh, that Fresno managed to get a man around the circuit. Delmas singled and he scored when Fitzgeraid hit to left field and the ball fit a mountain near the fence, Delmas scored. Califf looked all right when he faced the enemy in the closing chapter. Casey and Hogan cut closing chapter. Casey and Hogan cut the ropes and the rest was easy. The Game in Detail,
