The intimacy between the Emory and Thomptimacy between the standing of Will son families, and the standing of Will H. Thompson, the young man's father, will save him. He may have a term in a stanitarium, though, for it is pretty generally conceded that Chester Thompson is unbalanced. Close friends have thought so for months. He has shown erratic tendencies, but was regarded as harm-

There is little doubt in the minds of the police that if young Thompson had found Charlotte Whittlessy last night he would have shot her, then probably killed himself. He denies it, but the youth had made extensive preparations for a pistol fight, if one was necessary, and he had been for days in a jealous rage in which he would not have hesitated at the nurier of his sweetheart.

Friends of State Prison Epidemic Hero Asks His Pardon.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 8.- (Special.)-Friends of Dr. Martinis, th Eatonville physician, serving a sen-tence at Walla Walla for embezzlement of school funds, are making a hard fight for his parole or pardon. They have been blocked so far by the re-fusal of Warden A. F. Kees to recommend the parole and are accusing Kees of favoritism. Dr. Martinis was serving in the hospital ward when the recent typhoid fever epidemic sweft through the prison. It is asserted that the Estonville physician's day and night attendance and his medical skill and diarrhosa.

were the only factors that saved the prison from a serious loss of life. The presiding judge, prosecuting at-torney and school district officials nave asked that Martinis be liberated.

PREJUDICE WAS CHARGED

Ruling of Idaho Supreme Court Will Probably Have Bearing on Trial of Federation Officials for the Steunenberg Murder,

BOISE, Idaho, July 8.—(Special.)—The Supreme Court has reversed the order of Judge Morgan, of the District Court for Shoshone County, refusing to grant a change of venue in the famous Day divorce case, and instructed him either to call in another Judge or send the case into another district. It also orders Eugene R. Day, the defendant in the case, to pay into court the sum of $1500 to meet the costs of his wife in prosecuting the suit.

the costs of his wife in prosecuting the suit.

Day is one of the owners of the Hercules mine. In this case the plaintiff, Agnes Loretta Day, applied for a change of venue, on the ground that the Judse was prejudiced. A large number of affidavits were filed in support of the motion. Counter affidavits to the number of 55 were filed by the defendant.

After presentation of the matter the Judge refused to grant the application, taking the ground that prejudice of the Judge is not a cause under the statute for a change of venue. The statute simply provides that a Judge is prohibited from acting when he is a party in interest, when he is related to either of the litigants, or when he has been an at-torney in the action.

ISAAC STEPHENSON, WISCONSIN MILLIONAIRE, WHO FAVORS A TAX ON INCOMES.

MILWAUKEE, July 7 .- Isaac Stephenson, who asserts that the poor man is tax-burdened, and that a graded income tax should be estab-lished, is reported to be the wealthlest man in Wisconsin. His opera-tions include lumbering, farming and banking, and he is a power in the financial world. Mr. Stephenson is a self-made man in the most literal sense of the term. He was born in Fredericton, New Brunswick, in 1829, and first started on the road to fortune at Bangor, Me. In 1841 he came to this state and first worked on a farm. With his earnings he bought a schooner, which he sailed between Milwaukee and Escanaba, and the profits of this venture he invested in timber is at the head of the Stephenson National Bank. Mr. Stephenson was a member of the Wisconsin Legislature two sessions and served in Congress from 1883 until 1889. He is a Republican. His home is at Marinette.

The plaintiff relied upon the clause of the constitution, section 18, article 1, which provides that right and justice shall be administered by the courts "without sale, denial, or prejudice," It is held by the Supreme Court that this clause is self-executing. The statute was canceted before the constitution was adopted but even were it otherwas adopted, but even were it other-wise the section of the constitution would govern. In concluding the opinion says: It is contended that the affidavits on the part of the appellant do not show bias and prejudice, and that if so they have been fully met by other affidavits showing the high and honorable character of the trial Judge. It must be conceded that Judges are susceptible to bias and prejudice the sam as other men, and we think the rec shows such a state of affairs or condidictary to permit a trial before the present Judge, and therefore conclude that another Judge must be called to try the case, as may be done under the provisions of section 12, article 5, of the Constitution of Idaho. It will no doubt be less expensive to both parties to try the case in Shoshone

The District Judge is ordered to change the place of trial or call in some other Judge. An interesting collateral effect of the decision is that it will likely bring or the decision is that it will likely bring on a still more determined effort on the part of the defense in the Moyer-Hay-wood-Petithone case, to secure a change of venue, on te allegation that Judge Smith is prejudiced.

Will Change Passenger Service. SEATTLE, Wash., July 8 .- (Special.)-There is hardly any possibility that the Northern Pacific will yield to the Tacoma demand for changes in passenger Though an open expression of the demande is not given, Tacoma is really insisting that the overland trains attle. All overland trains now run into this city and Tacoma passengers have the option of riding here or taking a siub-train from Auburn into Tacoma for a quick trip homeward.

Figures for last month's passenger traffic show at Seattle where the Northern Pacific meets the active compelition of the Great Northern and Canadian Pacific, the passenger travel was three and a half times as great as that from Tacoma. Beside, this local showing, the Alaska and Northwestern business is handled through Seattle. Though there will be no blunt ultimatum it is conceded the Northern Pacific has no intention of listening seriously to the Tacoma proposal.

SALEM, Or., July 8 .- (Special.) -The first imperfection in the rifle range, on which the state competition will be held, was discovered today when a National Guardsman, dropping to the ground to fire in skirmish practice, fell across a yellowjacket's nest. Not even the courage of an Oregon militiaman could stand the attack of a regiment of yellowjackets, so the rifleman beat a hasty retreat. Burning a pile of straw over the hole did not suffice to exterminate the lively defenders of home and family.

He is counted one of Eugene's most reliable riflemen. The practice today sheds no new light on the subject of prospective winners and no predictions are being made.

Adjutant General Finzer arrived this morning and established himself in headquarters at the camp. The contest will begin every morning at 7 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock, as heretofore announced.

EUGENE LOGGERS ON STRIKE

Lane County Goes Dry and They Are Displeased.

EUGENE, Or., July 8.—(Special.)—To-morrow the Booth-Kelly logging camps and sawmills will resume work, after the vacation of one week which the company always declares for the Fourth of July celebration. A week ago a number of loggers quit work, stating that they would not stay in a dry county, and it was loggers quit work, stating that they would not stay in a dry county, and it was feared that there might be some difficulty in getting men enough to do the work, but the managers of the office here say that there will be no shortage of hands when work resumes tomorrow. Managers of smaller concerns anticipate no difficulty about their help, and this fact will be welcomed by those who appreciate the great activity in the logging and lumber business in Lane County just now.

There are now over 30,000,000 feet of had broken loose from the pole and hung so low across the roadway that it struck logs in drive in the streams of this county, young Eaton, who was riding horseback.

The early bather, as he floated on the chilly billows, had a cigar in his mouth. Two girls watched him from the beach.

The man lay on his back with folded arms, and the smoke shot from his month in abundant clouds.

All of a sudden he gave a loud cry: "Hi! Smokin' under water!"

Smokin' under water And with the cigar between his lips he disappeared. He was gone a couple of seconds. Then he came up, and lo! the cigar was still lighted, still burning freely. It smoked almost as well as before.

"Ain't I a wonder?" the man called to the girls. Afterward he explained the trick to them.

"As I went under," he said, "I shifted the cigar unbeknownst to you; I put the lighted end in my mouth. Then as I came up I shifted it again. Thus the cigar kept lit. I didn't burn myself, because I was careful. This is a showy bathing trick. I learned it from a professional lifesaver."
