ROLLERS AWAIT RETURN TO EARTH

Declare Creffield Is God, and Will Reign After His Resurrection.

IN THE BELIEF DOGGED

Hurt Tells of His Offer of Aid to Women in Jail at Scattle-Prominent Portland Attorney Proffers His Services.

CORVALLIS, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—
The members of the Holy Roller cult in this city, of whom there are but half a dozen now, are all in deep horror over the late events. There are no demonstrations and no gatherings for worship, but the members are more dogged than ever in believing the Creffield doctrines.

They declare now that he is God and that he will come back and reign on earth; that they implicitly and fervently cleave to him as their soul's salvation.
One of them was asked this morning to give up her religion, and she replied:

"I cannot give up my Lord."

"Who is your Lord?" was asked.

"Edmund is my Lord," she replied, "and you will see that he will come back and rule on this earth."

within a few days Miss Sophia Hartley, one of the most fanatical of the cult in this city, said that if her father had succeeded in killing Creffield when he snapped so many times at the Roller leader at Newport, she would have killed her father for the act.

Hurt Warned Seattle Authorities.

It is known among his friends that flurt will make a determined defense in behalf of his daughter. If for no other reason he will do it for the sake of his wife and other daughter, who are in deep sorrow over Mrs. Creffield's present melancholy situation.

It is also known that before he left Seattle Hurt went to Deputy District Attorney Miller and advised that, as a precaution, means be found for getting Escaution. caution, means be found for getting Esther Mitchell out of Seattle, so that the women would be separated. The fact that neither was responsible mentally on the trial and kindred subjects was mentioned as a reason, and it was further suggested that, unless they were separated, they would both finally have to be sent to the Stellacoom asylum.

Miller's response was that they were not crazy, but he added that it would be better for both women to get out of Seattle, because they could not get work as domestics in Seattle homes, for the reason that parents would be afraid to

So spoke C. V. Hurt today, after reading the dispatch from Seattle in which it is implied that because he telegraphed advice to Mrs. Creffield he has made a change of front. Continuing, Mr. Hurt saild, with deep emotion:

"I have fought with all my power for the destruction of Rollerism. I went to all the honorable ends that man can go to in the defense of George Mitchell, and I would do it all over again. In saying this I desire to shift no blam from one of these unfortunate creatures from one of these unfortunate creatures to the other, but merely to keep all the facts in view when the deplorable subject is under discussion."

Hurt has sent his daughter two telegrams. The first was sent Friday and asked Mrs. Creffield what her father could do for her. The second went Saturday and informed her that arrangements had been made for her defense. The latter read:

Fall-sown wheat that withstood the freeze-out will make a good half-crop of possibly No. 2 wheat. Early-sown blue-stem wheat is looking fairly well, but late Spring wheat is practically gone. From all reports, the wheat tributary to Wasco and points on the Columbia River is bet-ter than in the southern half of the county. The barley crop will yield fairly well, but will be of inferior quality. Farmers are in town every day inquiring for labor, which at present is very scarce, but bad as the crop conditions seem to indicate, the farmers, as a rule, will be able to come through in fairly good shape, since the great majority of them own their own farms. With the favorance west wind prevailing today crop conditions will improve.

When they finally are aware that it is actual experiences they recall, they will be convinced that the practical joker was abroad last evening, and that the Portland pastors were the special subjects of his pranks.

The clergymen who are finding that jokes have been played on them—and on Sunday, too—are Dr. F. Burgette Short, pastor of the Taylor-Street Methodist Episcopal Church: Dr. Clarence True Willpaster of the Taylor-Street Methodist Episcopal Church; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, paster of the Grace Church of the same denomination, and Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, paster of the White Temple. The jokes are so good that today the whole city will be smiling at the expense of the preachers and it will be many a day before they will hear the last of them. And this is the story:

While Dr. Short was giving his lecture on the Yellowstone Park, last night, a messenger boy rusued in and up to the pulpit in search of the pastor. The latter was, however, speaking from the gal-lery, where he had charge of the stere-opticon. The boy retraced his steps and hurried to the pactor, giving him a note written on a telegraph blank. By this time the entire congregation was aware that something was amiss, and waited with breathless interest while Dr. Short opened the envelope and scanned the Breaks News to Worshipers.

Then Dr. Short stepped to the front and made the startling announcement that Dr. Wilson was seriously ill. The congregation, not realizing it was all a hoax, were greatly affected by the news.

"Dr. Wilson is critically ill and sends for me to come to him at once," said the pastor. "He has had a severe stroke of paralysis. I shall dismiss the services, but first let us pray for Dr. Wilson's recovery."

And so the vast congregation remained silent in the pews while Dr. Short offered an eloquent prayer for his friend, asking that he might soon regain his health and he relieved from his sudden affliction. Then the audience filed out, the illness of Dr. Wilson being the one topic of conversation.

And it so happened that at Grace Church the twilight service was dismissed early, and Dr. Wilson thought that he would go to hear his friend, Dr. Short, preach. A few minutes later he reached the church and heard the message read, but little he thought that the sad news referred to him. referred to him.

Modern Structures Indicates That Supremacy of Market Street Will Be Restored.

25,000 Men at Work.

The 25,000 men now at work on reconstruction will be increased to twice that number within 60 days, if the calculations of contractors are correct, and then the process of rehabilitation will proceed with a rapidity that will be marvelous. Alreaday the Examiner is preparing to work three shifts of men on its building, which will be erected in record time, and then the three big morning newspapers will be back in their own homes on Newspaper Corners. The Bulletin, the evening paper which was first to print in the city after the fire, has let contracts for its new home on Market street, just above Newspaper Corners, and expects to have it finished by the beginning of the new year. These newspapers going back to their of the city.

speed that is going to astound the world. The Board of Supervisors and the Board of Public Works have decided that sufficient time has elapsed for the property-owners to have the streets cleaned of debris, and after giving ample notice, have taken the matter into the city's hands and will clear the rubbish, making the cost a lien on the property. The work is now well advanced, and several of the downtown streets have been put in passable condition and the work of rebuilding greatly facilitated.

paper Corners, and expects to have it inished by the beginning of the new year. These newspapers going back to their own homes so early indicates conclusively that Market street, that great theroughfare which extends straight through the city from the ferry station, is to be as it has always been, the main business artery of the city.

One feature which indicates the thoroughness of the reconstruction work is the fact that it is not confined to any one part of the burned district, but is going on in all parts of the city. Not only is this true of the business section, but in the residential portion as well.

A different atmosphere seems to have come with July, and, while heretofore there has been an element of uncertainty owing to delay on the part of insurance companies, now everyone appears to know just what he is going to do and is doing it as hard as he can without waiting for his insurance. The result of this changed feeling is that contracts are being let for good and substantial buildings on the old locations, and before the Winter rains set in most of the business firms will be housed and ready to do business as of yore.

One of the most noticeable features of the reconstruction of San Francisco is the rapidity with which the great office and mercantile buildings of the city are being put in condition for occupancy. It may be mentioned in this connection that nearly all of the class "A" buildings of the city were left in condition which admits of easy repair. Quite a number of these buildings were in course of erection when the fire came. Work is progressing on all these buildings now, and in several instances the unfinished structures are being pushed to completion so fast that they will be occupied about the time that had been specified before the fire. Among this number is the big nine-story building had been specified before the fire. Among this number is the big nine-story building on the corner of Stockton and Geary streets, opposite the California building, the new home of the California Promotion Committee. This great building will be ready for occupancy by October 1.
