INSTALLING RURAL TELEPHONES.—H. W. Smashall, manager and president of the Multnomah & Clackamas Mutual Telephone Company, the farmers' telephone line, announces that about 50 telephones have been installed on the Gresham, Cedarville and Pleasant Valley branches. All the lines are being well built and equipped with latest improvements. New lines will be installed, says Mr. Smashall, as fast as men can be found to do the work and the time is not far off when the farmers of Eastern Multnomah and Clackamas Counties can talk with each other and do business over the lines. Manager Smashall reports that all bills have been paid.

ONE FIRM COMPLETED.—The first firm on Union avenue, which is between East Alder and Madison streets, was completed yesterday by the Pacific Bridge Company. This firm was made on only one side of the street where there was a big foundation for the bridge. It now lies north on Union avenue from East Washington street, when the real work will begin. This firm begins about 70 feet south of East Stark street and extends to within 10 feet of East Oak street. On the west side there are buildings, including the old East Side Hotel, which stands on a high foundation. The weight of the earth will have remained to be seen. If the mud extends as far down as it does on Grand avenue there may be some trouble in keeping the building along the west side of the street from being pushed over. On the solid ground north of East Oak street the contractors are preparing to put down pavement.

WILL BUILD FINE RESIDENCE.—A permit was issued yesterday by the Building Inspector for a handsome residence to be constructed by Mrs. H. H. Walker on the east side of Washington street, between Ford and St. Clair. The value of the residence is set at $60,000, as shown in the report, and Mrs. Walker is the owner. Walker. The dwelling, when completed, will be one of the finest homes in Portland. Mrs. Walker began improving the site last fall preparatory to building. The grounds occupy a quarter block, and a large amount of money will be spent in beautifying the place. The residence has been prepared by Edgar M. Lazarus. The house will be finely finished and of artistic design.

WANTS TOM RICHARDSON BACK.—Tom Richardson, manager of the Commercial Club, received a telegram yesterday from Albert Godchaux, president of the New Orleans Progressive Union, who is now in New York City. Richardson is expected to return to the Crescent City and resume his old position with the organization with increased salary. Mr. Richardson was formerly the manager of the Orleans Progressive Union and came to Portland from that place. "It always makes a man feel good, anyway, to know that he is wanted back home," Richardson said yesterday, "but I am afraid that I cannot accept Mr. Godchaux's offer."

ISSUES WOMAN ARRESTED.—Mrs. wearing felt hats are objects to be admitted. The woman was arrested by Patrolman Burke who now occupies a cell in the County Jail, awaiting examination as to her sanity. She was found by Burke trying to make love to all men wearing felt hats who passed the corner of Eleventh and Burnside streets. Burke took the woman to jail, and then appeared before Deputy Clerk Carl Christensen and swore out an insanity warrant against her prisoner.

FINDERS BOARD DECIDED.—At the meeting of the Portland Realty Board yesterday afternoon to have the constitution and by-laws published in book form for the convenience of members. The constitution contains many important provisions relating to commissions and other subjects which it is desired to present to the members. Owing to the fact that many of the members are out of town, the board decided to hold no meetings during the next month.

BISHOP THORNBURN HERE.—Rev. James M. Thornburn, a missionary bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is in Portland, and will occupy the pulpit at the Grace Church tomorrow morning. Bishop Thornburn has had a wide experience in missionary work in the Philippines and in Asiatic countries generally and will speak upon the work that is being done in those lands. It is reported that slow work is being done on the new pipe line from the high reservoir from Mount Tabor, and that it will be finished, instead of August, as announced. At present only a light crew is employed, and the laying of the pipe goes forward slowly.

IMPOSES RESTRICTIONS.—The Piedmont Water Company has imposed a restriction on its consumers that they must not use water for irrigation more than two hours a day, and then only three times a week. The plan is a private affair, and the pipes are small. This is to give notice that I am supplying my wife, Kate Applegate, all the necessities of life, and that I will not be responsible for her. James W. Applegate. STEAMER TELEGRAPHY will have annual inspection Thursday, July 19, and will not make the trip to Astoria. STEAMER IONE leaves foot of Washington street at 8:30 A. M. for Washougal and way points.

PERFORMS HEROIC DEED Boy of 15 Jumps Overboard at Sea and Saves Ship's Officer.

Robert Martin, who is in Portland on a furlough from the United States revenue cutter Grant, is only 15 years old, but he has performed a deed which stamps him as a hero. Young Martin was last winter working on the steamer Empress of India, plying between Hong Kong and Vancouver, B. C. On February 18, two days out from the Chinese port, First Officer Hopcroft was thrown from the ship by a monster wave. Without a minute's hesitation, although the ship was running under full steam and the sea was high, Martin threw a buoy to the officer, who himself jumped over with another buoy. After a hard swim Martin reached the exhausted officer and succeeded in sustaining him until a boat could be sent to the rescue. The steamer was nearly half a mile from the officer before she stopped, and all this time Martin was making a brave fight against the waves to rescue Hopcroft.

Martin is a slender fellow, quiet and very refined in appearance. "I think anybody would have done the same thing as I did," he said modestly, when complimented on his bravery.

HOW BIG FIRMS ADVERTISE Success of the American Tobacco Company of New York.

One of the strongest corporations of the country today is the American Tobacco Company, which holds the controlling interest in great numbers of allied corporations, such as the American Cigar Company, the Havana Tobacco Company, etc. The American Cigar Company, for instance, has acquired the business of supplying 50 to 60 percent cigar factories of the country. The general public has been led to believe that the formation of the great corporation has for its object greater economy, covering expenditures for such essentials as advertising, etc. It will be a surprise to those people who hear of the American Cigar Company today spends more for advertising every six months than the 50 or 60 concerns which have been taken into this combine spent during their entire history. While the American Cigar Company controls a little less than 20 per cent of the output of cigars sold by the American Company, yet it does more advertising than all the other cigar companies combined. There is no field that affords better opportunity for persistent and intelligent newspaper advertising than offered in the line of staple products of everyday consumption. The success of the American Tobacco Company and its allied corporations, as well as the success of the National Biscuit Company, has attracted the attention of general advertisers everywhere. Both the American Tobacco Company and the National Biscuit Company are today expending hundreds of thousands of dollars a year for newspaper advertising.

Girls Have Fun at Expense of Passers-By Department Store Girls Drop Wire Nails From Windows and People Look for Coins on Sidewalk.

DELIVERED boys and cashgirls employed in the downtown department stores have found a new diversion. During their leisure hours they perch themselves in a high window overlooking the sidewalk where many persons are passing and drop wire nails, which strike the pavement with a ring like the jingle of silver coins. Each nail causes a commotion. Passers-by who are the victims of the mischief-makers and girls above usually stretch their necks every way, expecting to see a silver piece rolling, perhaps in their direction. Then they stop, supposing that someone is going to pick up the lost money. Straining their eyes they inspect the sidewalk, the street and the gutter. They are sure they heard the money fall. After an unsuccessful hunt the disappointed coin-seeker goes on down the street, only to be followed by hundreds of other victims to the little game of "drop." Directly above the sidewalk is the happy bunch. Nail after nail is dropped cautiously, never falling to attract the attention of a dozen or more of the passing throng. The youngsters enjoy it highly. And they have a right to the fun—it is purely their own invention.

HELLIG IS CLOSED

Managers Lose Heavily, Company Will Go South.

GHOST WILL WALK TODAY Bessie Tannehill Receives Offer to Go Into Vaudeville and May Accept—Russo Starts for Los Angeles.

The musical season at the Hellig Theater came to an abrupt close yesterday. Hot weather and the indisposition of Portland to patronize good musical performances in the summer time made the attendance smaller than would support an organization as big and expensive as the Kendall Musical Company, which made a brave effort to give this city a meritorious season of opera. Six weeks, including notable productions of "The Riders," "The Masquerade," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Olivette" and "Trovatore," did not serve to awaken the public sufficiently, and the business enterprise, E. F. Seaman, R. H. Davis and Calvin Hellig, did not care to sustain any further loss.

Mr. Seaman's responsibility for the company, and the salary list amounts up to about $100,000, or more, per week. The first week opened auspiciously, and the pace set, together with the standard established, was increased instead of diminished as the successive changes of bill occurred. The principals were good enough for any company. The chorus was a watered-down, or well-costumed. Bessie Tannehill revealed a voice that would make a hit among angels. The celebrated Russo moved here to take part in the grand opera selections. Robert Pitkin showed that he was among the most fetching of musical comedy artists. Millar Bacon moved people with his splendid voice. Lottie Kendall proved again that there are few sweeter or more pliantly attractive personalities anywhere in light opera circles on the American stage. Myrtle Van kept up her clever soubrette work in dead earnest. Ben Lodge stood up to his end nobly as the other funny man of the show. The performances pleased everyone who attended the theater.

Few people wanted to leave the seclusion of a watered-down, or well-costumed, Bessie Tannehill revealed a voice that would make a hit among angels. The celebrated Russo moved here to take part in the grand opera selections. Robert Pitkin showed that he was among the most fetching of musical comedy artists. Millar Bacon moved people with his splendid voice. Lottie Kendall proved again that there are few sweeter or more pliantly attractive personalities anywhere in light opera circles on the American stage. Myrtle Van kept up her clever soubrette work in dead earnest. Ben Lodge stood up to his end nobly as the other funny man of the show. The performances pleased everyone who attended the theater.

Later in the day he telegraphed again to hold the company, as he had made arrangements to return to the hotel and right away in San Francisco, and then take them to Los Angeles to play out the balance of the Summer.

Tannehill May Go to Vaudeville. Russo took the train last evening to Los Angeles, where he is doing well at teaching, and only came up here for this special engagement. Tannehill had had a fine offer from Mr. Erickson to go into vaudeville for several weeks, touring the Northwest circuit. She made the best hit of the season by her performance, singing in the most talked-of feature of the season just closed. All the musicians in town, as well as the audiences that have heard her at the Hellig, unite in praising her clear, natural, well-trained, silvery voice. She certainly has Portland at her feet. A tour of the Northwest in the coming season has been arranged to establish her for future tours in opera. Some one will secure her for an operatic season before very long, it seems probable.

Company Goes South. Miss Kendall will return south with the company, including Mr. Pitkin, Mr. Bacon, Mr. Lodge, Mr. Lynch, Mr. Reynolds, Miss Vance, Miss Adams and the full chorus. Mr. Davis leaves tonight for San Francisco and Los Angeles. It is probable that the company will not start for a day or two longer. Mr. Hellig, who has yet decided whether or not she will accept the proposition to go into vaudeville, but it is probable that she will accept it. It will give her a fine opportunity for money-making, and increase her vogue on the Pacific Coast. In San Francisco and south of there she is well known. One of the seasons was the chance it gave to two talented young Portland girls—Miss Elsie Garrett and Miss Lillian Crossman. Miss Garrett is so liked by the management that she has made her an offer to go south, and continue with the company. Miss Crossman will go East in October with her mother to study and perfect herself in an operatic career. Both Miss Garrett and Miss Crossman will spend a little time at the beach resting before they take up any further work. Both will be past to come up here for a season at the Hellig, but it is probable that the Hellig will be dark for the rest of the Summer.

WANT WATER MAINS LAID East Side Residents Ask That Improvement Be Made Soon.

A permanent pavement is to be put down on East Burnside street very soon, and later on Grand avenue. On East Burnside, which is a business street for some distance out from the Burnside bridge, there is no water main, and the buildings on the street get their water from side streets. In view of the fact that permanent pavement is soon to be laid, some of the property owners are agitating for a large water main to run up to East Eighth street. They think that this should be attended to at once. If the improvement is delayed until the pavement has been laid the street will have to be torn up. It is also the opinion of property-owners that a good-sized water main should be laid on Grand avenue north from East Washington and East Everett streets before the hard pavement is laid on that thoroughfare.

VAUDEVILLE ACTORS WED Charles Cirilincione and Isabella Downey Made One.

There was a small fire shower and a few throwing of shoes behind the scenes at the Pastimes Theater last night in honor of the marriage of Charles Cirilincione to Miss Isabella Downey. The bridegroom plays a role at the show house, while his pretty bride formerly appeared behind the footlights of the Pastimes stage. The couple were married yesterday afternoon in the chambers of Judge Fraser. Smiling as merrily as though a rich uncle had died and bequeathed him a fortune, Cirilincione wended his way to the marriage license counter in the Courthouse yesterday and informed Deputy County Clerk C. H. Christensen that he had $3 to spend. Christensen knew all about it. A permit to wed was made out without further questioning. "Now, don't you please show us the way to the nearest Judge?" shyly asked the pretty bride-to-be.

Half a dozen young deputy clerks made rush to comply with the request, but the honor fell to Fred W. Prasp, chief deputy. And for his kindness in showing the way, Prasp was selected to act as the man at the ceremony, while Gertrude Overlie was the bridesmaid.
